RAMBLES THROUGH GLENELG

By The Assessor

Take the word Glenelg and it spells the same backward and forward. Mr McPhee, of Normanby, says the word Glenelg originated from the Gaelic word Glenn seigh or Hunsing Glen.

Glenelg is a queer shaped township. To the northeast it runs as far as the Humber, and to the south as far as the Humber.

In valuation those that are assessed the highest are in general the lowest, as for instance take the Lander farms and the Hunter's near Durham.

The Assessor's duties are the most responsible in connection with the land. He is looked upon in general as a man who should please everyone, whether he would please himself or not.

In many instances we find a number of the aged and middle aged whose names were recorded on last year's roll, have passed to their reward and we hope that their names are written on a Higher Roll.

On the Assessment Roll there will be found enough names to ensure the township to have a Deputy Reeve for 1910. On last year's roll there were about 25 married women put on the roll, whose names were struck off, as a man and wife are counted one and could not vote twice for the same cause.

will be levied on them or not, we do not know. As the REVIEW has a good circulation in Glenelg, we thought it proper to give some kind of a historical sketch which may be at least of interest to some, and we promise to continue it in a somewhat different style in future issues.
