The Premier's Great Speech.

Near the conclusion of the debate on the proposal to loan $10,000,000 to the Grand Trunk Pacific, Sir Wilfrid made one of his impressive speeches, resulting in the passing of the bill unanimously. Although days had been consumed in presenting objections to the loan, when the time came to vote for it, the vote was unanimously in favor of the Government's policy. The Prime Minister's speech undoubtedly had great influence with the House.

The contention had been made by several Conservative speakers that the portion of road between Winnipeg and Montreal was to pass through an unproductive, desolate district. As against this Sir Wilfrid quoted from a report supplied by the engineers of the Railway Commission. This report with some particularity, gave important information of the very opposite character.

Conservative Hostility. The Prime Minister first alluded to the attitude of the Opposition as being one of consistent antagonism to the Grand Trunk Pacific project. From the inception of the enterprise, there has been blind hostility. Two elections had not opened their eyes. The Prime Minister recalled how it had been stated in 1903, that the people would not support the measure, and again in 1908 when the projected electric trolley would tear the project to pieces when it was found that the work was costing more than originally contemplated. However, after the new calculations had been placed before the people, the electors gave an emphatic, decided answer, "go on and finish the work." Such verdict should convince the Conservatives that the people believe the road a political and commercial necessity.

Sir Wilfrid said the policy was to build a national road through Canadian territory from the Atlantic to the Pacific. To bind the East, the cradle of the nation, with the West, the hope of the nation, by means of a commercial tie.

Exposed a Fallacy. Referring to the oft repeated statements made by the Opposition that the land north of the St. Lawrence was barren, uninviting and unfit for settlement, the Prime Minister said such had always been the contention of the Opposition, but against that he read a report from the Railway Commission which demonstrated that the railway section in the Northern parts of Ontario and Quebec, pass through millions of acres of fertile lands, well timbered and well watered.

History Repeats Itself. In this connection Sir Wilfrid referred to the fact that Sully, first Minister of Henry IV., of France, one of the ablest men of his generation, gave it as his opinion that the continent of North America was unfit for white men. This would include Quebec, Ontario, the Maritime Provinces, New York, Illinois and the Northern tier of the American union.

Such objections were urged in 1852 against the building of the Grand Trunk. One critic said he was violently opposed to the extension of the railway from Toronto to Sarnia because there would be no wheat for export from section. Another objector to the extension to Georgian Bay because the country was an impenetrable and barren desert. As late as 1869 Archbishop Tache, who for twenty years had roamed from the Lake of the Woods to the Rocky Mountains, and from the American boundary to Lake Athabasca, said that what are now the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta were unfit for agriculture. He gave it as his opinion over his own signature that the valley of the Red River, the valley of the Saskatchewan and the valley of the Assiniboine never could produce wheat, yet last year these plains produced over 100,000,000 bushels of wheat, and that was only a portion of the crop.

Sir Wilfrid ventured to predict that the time would come when the Opposition skeptics would see the error of their way. Speaking of mineral possibilities, Sir Wilfrid said since 1903, when the grand project of building a transcontinental was introduced which should pass north of the Laurentian mountains, there has been in these very mountains at Gow Ganda and at Cobalt, a discovery of minerals the like of which has never been found in any other part of the world.

Advantages Gained. One of the reasons given in 1903 for building the Grand Trunk Pacific was to be independent of the United States privileges which at present makes us dependent upon the United States. While nothing had happened to mar the pleasant relations in this respect, it was well to guard against the danger always existing although not always imminent. While it was important to provide for defence on land and sea, it was also important to protect and secure our commercial independence.

The Prime Minister made it very clear that the loan to the company did not modify in any manner the original contract. He showed the fallacy of stating on the market the common stock of the company as a means of raising money, and reminded the House that the loan exceeding in amount was on all fours with that granted to the Canadian Pacific Company in 1884.

There were three of the bridge over the Firth of Forth, estimated cost $8,400,000, cost when completed $10,000,000. The bridge over the East river, New York, cost $7,120,000, more than original estimate. The Victoria bridge at Montreal, built by Robert Stevenson cost 35 per cent more than the original estimate.

Tories Supported Bill at Last. Sir Wilfrid's speech carried great weight with members of the House, and after several amendments had been presented and voted down, the Opposition in a solid body voted in favor of the loan to the Grand Trunk Pacific. When Mr Borden was asked if the division went the same as the amendments, he answered "There were no no's."

TOPICS OF THE WEEK.

A plant for making bogus coin has been discovered at Latchford, up Cobalt way.

An election in Newfoundland to break the deadlock of a previous election was held last week amid great excitement. Premier Morris has 16 of a majority. Both parties find it necessary to win favor, to denote union with Canada.

Mrs Kinrade, Florence and Montrose Wright have left Montreal where they stayed a few days and are heading for the sea coast, where it is supposed they intend to ship for Europe.

Toronto is being stirred by an evangelist with the grand name of Gipsy Smith. Massey Hall is too small to accommodate the crowds who rush to hear him. He was actually raised among gypsies in England.

Toronto City Council has passed a resolution 12 to 3, urging on the Dominion Government to let the session pass without some "more immediate and practical action" in regard to Canada's share in strengthening the navy.

The supplementary estimates call for a little more than one million dollars. The total of the estimates Mr Fielding has reduced by almost $2,200,000 less than last year.

The Crop Outlook.

Delayed seeding in the west has retarded business slightly this week. Some shipments have been held up not because manufacturers have been over-anxious, but for the reason that distributors preferred to wait until the seeding situation developed. With the warm weather of the past few days trade has started on the up grade again, but business can again be very easily checked by adverse meteorological conditions. The western correspondent of The Globe has written very comprehensively of the progress of the seeding, and while satisfied with the present outlook, he is not over-optimistic. He refers particularly to the equipment in the increased area broken for this year's crop, the value of which will be to some extent reduced by the lower average yield resulting from hurried and careless seeding. Probably the most serious feature of the situation is the likelihood of a reduction in the area of wheat seeded because of the lateness of the season and a corresponding increase in the cultivation of coarse grains. The United States Government statement issued Friday, showing a reduction of 81 per cent, in the crop under seed in the States on May 1 as compared with last year, adds to the probability of a wheat shortage and high prices following this year's crop. Under these conditions it is unfortunate that our maximum wheat yield for this year is to be curtailed at the outset. Friday's excited movement in the grain markets indicated how seriously the possibility of a short crop is viewed by the consuming countries.-Globe of 8 May.

Dromore.

No Music at the Side Show

We have no sweet strains of bird-like music twittering around our back stairs (indeed, unfortunately, we have no such convenience as the stairs, its absence reminding us something we think we have read in Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," or Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," or the "Gone with the Wind" which we sometimes read.) As we have said we have no twittering strains of sweet music, hypnotize, mesmerize, civilize or pervert, Christianize our customers; but we have
