AN APPEAL TO MOTHERS.

Striking was the putting into fervor seldom heard, even in New Zeapractice of Gipsy Smith's advice to get land. The Socialists are in a decided out into the streets and preach. More than one sermon was preached by individual workers to little knots of listeners around the hall.

A DEEP APPEAL. Gipsy Smith swept his audience with his deep appeal. Again he emphasized the personal responsibility and the reward which would follow. While I am no faddist about faith Windsor Woman Has a Couple Arcure or any other quack," he said, "I say that when you let Jesus Christ save you from the stains of sin you will be on the high-road to eternal health.

Again: "A dead fish can swim with the stream, but it takes a man to breast the tide, look the world in the face, and Eleanor Walcott, 38, for whom he and say, "Christ for me."

You, mothers, some of you, will have to answer some day before the Great White Throne for the rearing and training of a halfdamned child." PERSONAL TESTIMONY.

People from outside points are commencing to flock in to hear Gipsy Smith. Yesterday afternoon the attendance was increased by the presence of two hundred people from Brantford. To-day three hundred are expected from Harriston and to-morrow Owen Sound will send a contingent of four hundred, Excursions from London, Woodstock and Paris have also been arranged for.

In the afternoon the missioner spoke on the value of personal testimony. At the outset he mentioned that when first e commenced his evangelical work he much discouraged by an aged minster who had told him that he would never make a preacher because he was "too quick on the application." They had, however, the value of personal testimony illustrated in the story of Naaman, the leper Syrian General, and the little Hebrew slave maid. That little girl had said, "I would God, my Master, was with the ervant of God in Samaria." It was that little testimony which had led to a great conversion. "You're churchgoing, you're little bit of fuss, doesn't amount to a row of pins until you get down to business, until you admit Christ and testify to Him in your daily life. It is far easier," he declared, "to preach to a thousand people than to one soul, but Christ preached the most wonderful things He ever said to individuals. and when you and I get the right spirit we shall see in one person a multitude. UNLIKELY INSTRUMENTS.

had emphasized the value of personal testimony, and when asked by his students gathered from city, town and country why he did so, told them to inquire among themselves. They did, and all but two confessed that they had been brought to Christ by some one who had taken them by the hand and looked them in the face.

"You preachers," he rapped, "it will do you good to talk specially to some of your young people about surrender to Christ. And you mothers do it with your child, and if you haven't got religion enough go and get some more.
