IMPROVED GROUNDS.—A few hours of voluntary work—chiefly by country members—round the Presbyterian Church on Friday last has put a tidier appearance on the grounds. The removal of the fence was a good act and in the near future a beauty spot should be made of the land south of the church by the planting of shrubs, trees and flowers.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.—The revival services that have been successfully conducted for the past two weeks under the leadership of Mr. Chapman, were brought to a close on Tuesday evening. They were favored with good attendance from the first and the closing meeting necessitated the opening of the schoolroom and chairs in the aisles. The speakers are the young students of Woodstock College, the clear and earnest talkers and have a bright future in store. A feature of the services was the male quartette of the band who delighted all with their splendid singing, their voices blending in fine effect. Mr. Ashmore was director of singing and knew how to get volume out of the audience. Mr. Wright was a pleasing soloist, while Mr. Clark and Mr. Trembair are good speakers. The moral tone of the community cannot help but be benefited by these meetings, and the best wishes of Durhamsites follow them to Fisherton where they are conducting like services. An appreciation was given to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Newton by Mr. Chapman, exhorting their public spiritedness in every good cause.

Forest, which will be sent West in a week or two. It has been erected in front of the church here temporarily, that all subscribers may see it. The inscription reads:

There was Death in the Storm.

On Sunday afternoon last in the midst of the electrical storm that passed over this district, a young man named Porter, about 21 years of age, and residing near Allan Park, met his death. He and another young companion, Spence Hopkins, were standing in a driving sled viewing the down-pour of rain and hail. Hopkins ventured out to pick up some of the hail stones and when in the act standing to his companion, a flash and crash came, and Porter, who was leaning against a post, was instantly killed. His companion was not injured, and when the storm had passed the body was found by the shock but soon came to, and no doubt he will remember till his dying day, the fatal storm.

The family have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sorrow. Mrs. F. Staples, Edge Hill, and Mrs. A. Noble, now of Toronto, are sisters of deceased, the latter with her husband coming up for the funeral, which takes place this Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. Pringle and the Yukon.

Sunday evening, in spite of unfavorable weather a good congregation turned out to the Presbyterian Church to listen to Rev. Dr. Pringle of Yukon fame. Not a few from other churches were among the number, and had it been possible to be more definite in the solemnization of the law immediately in front of the residence, the rendering of the bridal hymn, by Knox, Normanly choir, of which both bride and groom are valued members, the "Wedding Bells March," was played by Miss Coutts, the groomsmen, groom and bridesmaid in the meantime taking their places. The latter, the bride's younger sister, Miss Viola Backus, was prettily attired in pink silk, and bridesmaid, Miss Edna Backus, in white, while she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations, Mr. John Johnston of Atwood, cousin of the groom, acted as groomer. Attention was next centered on the flower girl, little Marion Marshall, of Durham, who appeared very prettily dressed in pale blue silk, trimmed with lace and insertion, with a bouquet of lilies of the valley in her sash and carried a basket of flowers, which were deftly strewn in the pathway of the bride.

Shortly after 5 p.m., the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, issued from the house under an arch of evergreens, and on taking her position on the lawn, the nuptial knot was tied by their pastor, Rev. Mr. Kendall. The ceremony was so attractive, never appeared more so than on this momentous occasion, wearing a bridal veil of orange blossoms and dressed in cream silk tulle, trimmed with all-over lace and net insertion, while she carried a white prayer book.

The ceremony over, all present took opportunity to extend hearty good wishes, after which photographer Kelsey arranged the company, with the pastor's assistance for a couple of group photos. On repairing to the dining room for supper, one found it very prettily decorated with evergreens and a profuse variety of flowers while the pastor also was ornamented with ferns. The excellent culinary abilities of the bride and other members of the family were well proven when several tables of guests did ample justice to the sumptuous supper served by willing waiters. The evening was spent in social intercourse, games and music.

Referring to the choir were it is to be recalled.

The popularity of the young couple was evidenced also by the lavish display of beautiful and valuable gifts they received. The bride herself was the recipient of a handsome silver tea set, the gift of the groom, and to the bridesmaid he presented a gold ring, to the flower girl a brooch, and to the groomsmen a neat stick pin.

From far and near the guests came, but chiefly from the neighborhood and the town. From a distance there were present, Miss Gertrude Backus, sister of the bride, Dundalk; Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, Dundalk, Mr. Earnest Anderson, Atwood; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Will Leith, Dromore and Mr. and Mrs. W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown, Mr. Will and Miss Ethel Heughan, Mr. Will Brown of Mulock.

With his father the groom is one of Normanly's most progressive farmers, and the happy couple will take up residence on the old homestead. In conjunction with the warmest good wishes of numerous friends and relatives, the REVIEW joins in wishing them a prosperous and pleasant life journey.

On Thanksgiving day down Telegraph way.

In the winter of '98. And the boys from the Junction and Summit.

Had come down to celebrate. For though it was snowed in 'Lavin' And howlin' to beat the band When Parson Pringle dealt the cards All the boys took a hand. For he wasn't one of them gospel sharks

Or a collar an' necktie swell That tries to scare you into heaven With visions of red hot hell. But a genuine sky pilot he was Who knew though we looked rough without

There was good coarse gold inside the dump That just wanted washin' out. So he ran his sluice boxes up the tide To Salvation Creek above And washed the fact four or so souls In the water of God's own love. So Calbreath's store was plump jam full

And the singing was good and strong Then the parson gave us his little bit And didn't keep us too long. There sat old Bruce on the corner seat As rough and tough a tool As ever broke a Chryseus's rule. Or skinned the ribs of a mule.

Young man, remember the great men of to-day were once like you. They succeeded; why can't you? Just attend Mt Forest Business College.

A Pretty June Wedding

Poplar Grove, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Backus, town line, Bentinck was the scene of an auspicious event, Tuesday afternoon, whereby two young hearts were united in hymen's bonds. The contracting parties were their eldest daughter, Miss Ida May, and Mr. John Leith of Normanby.
