The new Otium Mill and Elevator, erected by the enterprise of Mr. McGowan's are now completed externally and make a fine showing between the river and the railway. The mill is a 2-story brick structure, the elevator is frame with metal siding and roofing and is as high as the mill with the usual narrow upper structure. These are undoubtedly the most imposing additions to Durham architecture of recent years.

WILL RUN LONGBOAT.—Walkerton Fair this Friday, Sept. 17, will be a greater drawing card than usual, owing to the Directorate having engaged that famous Indian runner, Tom Longboat to present and exhibit exhibition. Excursions are being run to the town and a number of Indians from the Reserve near Southampton, intend to be there to witness the prowess of their countryman. The attraction from this end will be Longboat's five mile exhibition against our two famous local runners, Ted Vickers and Edward Henry of Dro-nore, who each will run two and a half miles. Vickers will take the first half. Ted has made the 2 1/2 miles under 13 minutes and if Henry can equal well, they are certain to make the Indian step some to finish ahead. Quite a number from this vicinity purpose witnessing the sports there Friday.

HOW CONDITIONS HAVE CHANGED.—Not so many years ago advertisements in the paper were considered a nuisance by subscribers. There were several reasons for this. One was that nearly everybody in those days seemed to be married to some one store, and bought everything there without looking to see if they could be better suited or buy cheaper anywhere else. The long credit system helped to tie them. Nowadays, people may have their preferences, but they are not tied to any one. Most people pay cash for what they buy and all lines of credit are much shorter than formerly. The consequence is, they buy where they can do the best, and they watch the advertisements and give orders by them. Another reason was that the merchants and business men thought anything was good enough to put into their advertisement. They seldom read them, and soon quit entirely. The merchant received no value for his money, and advertising was pronounced a fraud, a delusion and a nuisance by everyone. How different today! There are few business men who do not advertise. The live merchant changes his advertisement often puts some thought and brains into it, quotes prices when he has bargains to offer, is absolutely truthful and trustworthy in all he says. The consequence is people read the advertisements regularly and watch for them with interest. It is a matter of business with them, and when they see a bargain in what they want, they buy. The local paper has become a necessity in the home, as well as a source of pleasure; the merchants profit by their advertisements, and subscribers save money by reading them.

ANOTHER CEMENT MERGER.—A despatch of a few days ago reported a second Canadian cement merger, composed chiefly of the smaller companies. The three Owen Sound mills, Hanover and St. Mary's are among the number.

MILITARY OPENINGS.—Friday and Saturday following days we will display a large stock of withdrawable military for Fall when we cordially invite all ladies to be present. S. F. Morlock.

The South Grey Agricultural Society have a larger list of members for this year than for many years past. This will insure a large exhibit and present appearances indicate a splendid exhibit in all departments of the Fair.

Amidst an abounding crops out West a whole there are here and there severe losses owing to hail. Amongst these we regret are our townsmen, Messrs J. W. Crawford and J. Vollett, whose trawlers' crop also has been injured.

PRICEVILLE FAIR CHANGED.—The date of the Artesiana Fall Fair held at Priceville has been changed from October 7 and 8 to Thursday, Sept. 30, and Friday, October 1, so as not to conflict with other fairs. All will kindly keep these in mind.

If a farmer has an animal or some produce that he thinks better than the average, it is well worth his while to take it to the fall show. To do so may profit him from a pecuniary standpoint, but he will reap the benefit in a deepened interest in the community. Besides he will be helping the fair and thereby benefitting the agricultural community.

The plan for reserve seats for the Hewer Concert was proposed at the Central Drug Store on Monday of this week. This is the Concert Co., which gave their splendid Concert on the last day of the Fair last year and are again engaged by the South Grey Agricultural Society for Wednesday evening, the 22nd of September, the last day of the Fair. Secure your seats early.

Such is the promise held out by the Directors of S. Grey Agricultural Society, and by the activity being displayed by the officers, and the demand for Prize Lists, the prediction seems a safe one.

The track we are assured was never in better shape, a great deal of work having been put on it, in view of the decision to have the old-time races on the second day. There is to be a Free for All, a 2.50 trot, a Farmer's Trot for which handsome purses have been raised, and the well-known local racers Ted Vickers and Edward Henry have agreed to try conclusions that day in a 5-mile Marathon race.

Everyone get busy: a large crowd is expected. In the evening of the 2nd day a Grand concert is arranged for, with the Hewer Co. of London as the stars.

The Late Charter Smith

In the midst of life we are in death" was strikingly illustrated last week by the sudden removal of one of Durham's most valued citizens in the person of Charter Smith. He had been in Toronto and came home Monday as usual. Tuesday he was attending to some duty in the stable loft, when, stepping on a loose board, he fell some distance and struck on his side, the blow bursting as was afterwards proved, an old rupture and was soon after decided upon, and the condition of affairs found gave small ground for hope. Dr. Groves and local physicians did everything possible to save the precious life, he lingered on till Sunday, when, about noon, the end came.

Mr. Smith was born at Bramley, Leeds, England, in 1842, about the time of the Chartist agitation and came to this country in 1856 with other members of his family, following his father who had come a year or two previously. Here, and near here, as boy and man his life has since been spent, and what manner of life that is well known to this community. He has been taken away prematurely, humanly speaking, but he has left record of unblemished integrity and a character so unselfish, as must prove a benefit to his family and a source of pride to his friends. As a citizen of this town for the last fifteen years he won the respect of all, and the friendships of South Bentinck where most of his life was spent, are enduring as life itself.

Deceased came to Durham when he purchased the ruins of the old Foundry. This he restored and struggled on with many initial difficulties, amongst them being fire. Of great native intelligence and of an inventive turn of mind, he undertook lines of manufacture which were of an undoubted benefit to the town, though of doubtful benefit to himself. Had his life been spared there is reason to believe that he would have seen an expansion of his work far surpassing early years. In the manufacture of threshing machines especially he and his sons, have been very successful and the town will sincerely hope that the various lines of wood, iron and foundry work he established will be continued by his sons.

Mr. Smith was twice married, his first wife being a member of the well-known Milligan family. To them were born four children, David, (who for a long time has been invalid) but is happily now recovering; Mrs. Fulmer, Bentinck, Robert, and Wm. Donald of Langdon, North Dakota, who arrived here on Saturday night. His first wife died twenty five years ago, and later he married again, Mrs. Derby, a sister of Andrew and Wm. Derby, South Line, Bentinck. To this union were born six sons, William, George, Andrew, Arthur, James, Lorne, and one daughter, Nellie, who, in the midst of her father's trouble, had to leave on Friday for Fergus hospital for an operation for appendicitis, but she is now again well, and with the exception of Nellie, all were at the funeral. To all the family and other relatives deep sympathy is extended.

The funeral on Tuesday to Durham cemetery was very largely attended and beautiful. Rev. Mr. Wright, pastor of the Methodist church of which Mr. Smith was a consistent member, conducted the mortuary services, assisted by Rev. Dr. Farquharson of the Presbyterian church. From the text "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord," truly, but if there are activities in the other world, Charter Smith is not dead. Six of his sons acted as pall bearers.

The Late Samuel Dickson

Few in Bentinck but would know the above gentleman who passed away on the 4th inst. The following account taken from last week's Post does justice to his memory: "Another of the grand old men of the township of Bentinck has gone to his long home with the passing of Mr. Samuel Dickson on Saturday last at the age of 78 years and 5 months. Few, there are, if any, but have kind words to say and deep respect for the old municipal warder of Bentinck, and his funeral to the West Bentinck cemetery on Tuesday afternoon was one of the largest in the annals of the township. Many who read these lines are much more familiar with the public and private career of the late Mr. Dickson than is the writer of these lines, but to the writer the picture of a sturdy, erect figure, with well moulded features and a shock of white hair as he stood making his nomination speech for ten years is very vivid indeed. He figured in the municipal life of Bentinck for over 40 years. To be exact it is just 42 years since he ran his first campaign for a Bentinck councillor. He was elected by the voters afterwards unseated in view of the fact that he hadn't property enough to qualify. He came back, however, shortly afterwards, and has figured in the stress of battle for councillor, deputy reeve,

Another Series of Races.

Although the attendance was scarcely up to previous records, the rink racing program for last Friday night was high class, varied and liberal. Five races were pulled in 1 and 5 mile being open, while there was a 1 mile for boys under 12 and a 2 mile for boys under 16.

Three little chaps they were who entered the 1 mile contest. Frank Mulock, Alex McQueen and Eric Elvidge. Frankie took the lead at the start, threw on full steam, and was never headed, winning by a few yards over McQueen, in 1:44.

Harold Aljoe proved his class as a boy runner winning the two mile heat easily—over 3 laps ahead—in 11:28 and the first mile in 5:42. Caldwell Marshall and George Kress plodded along till the former dropped out with but four laps to go, while Kress uncovered his speed in the last few laps when too late to be of advantage.

The mile contest proved to be the thriller of the evening and which three of the five contestants "dark horses," the outcome was extremely difficult to surmise. Those entered were Geo. Burnett, Walter McDonald, and three new faces in the racing arena, Ed. McKenna, Jas. Vollett, and W. Johnston, a Model student here from Cape Croker. They were closely bunched at the start, but Vollett soon assumed the lead which he held almost throughout with McKenna at his heels. With less than half a lap to go, McKenna spurred up and outstripping Vollett, crossed the tape a winner in the fast time of 5 min. 6 sec. Vollett was but a second slower and Burnett a few more. Johnston dropped out after the 7th lap, because of lack of training, and McDonald in the 10th to reserve himself for the three mile event.

Sewell and Henry were the other starters in the 3 mile class, and the result was a foregone conclusion, though McDonald ran an excellent race and finished a close second. Henry entered this as a practice for his big 2 1/2 mile race against Longboat in Walkerton Friday. He forged in the foremost position at the start, ran easily without attempting to shatter records as his ribs were still bothering him, and finished in 17:01, doing the 2 1/2 miles in 11:11. McDonald finished on 16 seconds later while Sewell was out-classed.

The final and longest event, the five mile, found only two contestants, both of whom have been frequently seen in action here, Roy Vickers and Vernon Elvidge. Elvidge won out in the 3 miles the week previous and it remained to be seen if he could gain the laurels in the 5 miles. The first mile was little better than a trot, as it required nearly 7 minutes to complete and a minute was cut off for the second 14 laps. The third required over 6 min. finishing in 18:54, while the fourth took 57 min. At the outset Vickers took the lead, to be ousted by Elvidge, then again by the former. During the second mile Elvidge went in front for the rest of the race, with Vickers close behind for almost the balance of the race. The slow time up to the last mile showed both to be reserving themselves, but Elvidge proved to be in better shape for the final few laps and won by nearly half a lap in 30:05. Vickers was bothered with cramps, or he undoubtedly would have made it closer still at the finish.
