

Autumn Millinery

This season display of Millinery is the largest we have ever shown. Our display embrace the fashionable New York and Paris models. From large shapes turned up at the side and the shapes turned up at the back, also the natty little velvet Turbins, trimmed in the most artistic fashion with ribbon foliage, wings and feathers. The new Autumn tints are all shown as ashes of roses, amethyst wistaria. New blues, green, brown and greys. Come and see the new styles and you will be convinced that—it is easy to pick your new Fall Hat at a very moderate price.

New Fall Mantles

This year Ladies' Coats for Fall and Winter wear are the swellest styles we have ever shown. Our stock consists of variety of styles in the semi and tight fitting and long loose back. Garments made from all wool Beaver Kersey Cloth, Vicuna and Broad Cloth, in all the new shades of navy, myrtle, brown and black, neatly trimmed with buttons and piping. Let us fit you in your new mantle and you will be satisfied.

Priceville

This famous little town will soon be blessed with cement sidewalks and the old rickety ones removed as in some places they are getting dangerous to walk on after dark.

Sept. 15th closed the fishing season and many a big trout was taken from the Saugeen River during summer by some of our expert fishermen.

Reading of an old time logging bee by our friend Chas. McDonald of Bruce, brought to our memory some of the old times, but we doubt that Mr McDonald's bee was an up-to-date old timer, for in olden times it would take ten yoke of oxen and fifty men to log fifteen acres, with ten gallons of good old Rye. It would be questionable if ten yoke of oxen could be found handy in the whole County of Bruce. As for the whiskey we cannot vouch for it, for there is loss of it yet only it is not as cheap as in olden times, for it could be got 50 or 60 years ago for 25c a gallon and far superior to the stuff they sell nowadays for $3.00, but we are not going to praise its good qualities to a great extent, but in olden times it seemed to give those brave loggers a super-natural kind of strength for it would be nothing for four to pick up a log nearly a foot in diameter and about 20 feet in length.

And while we are talking of old time logging bees it reminds us of an instance some 70 years ago in one of the oldest townships of Ontario, where a person whom we could rely on as telling the truth, had a logging bee one day in the hot month of July and as it of course could not be performed without whiskey it had to be got some way or another, but from some cause or another the good man that had the bee didn't get the keg the day previous, so getting up about 3 o'clock in the morning he set a-going on foot four miles, to get the five gallon keg full, so as to be back by seven, but unfortunately the supply in that shop ran out and he had to go 3 or 4 miles farther away to the next place and when he returned about 10:30 forenoon. All hands were sitting on stumps and logs awaiting the contents of the keg before they would roll a log, for it seemed as if it was impossible to do any kind of work then without the glass, but these old time habits are all past and its a good thing they are.

So we change this to another subject, old country people had great belief in witchcraft, at least some of them had. We heard an old lady tell a story of bewitchery in her father's home in one of Isles of Scotland. For five or six weeks no butter could be produced from the cream, which generally was churned for 10 hours but to no effect. So the good old people came to the conclusion that the milk or cream was bewitched and an expert at bringing back the regular quantity was sent for, and after he had churning away for about three quarters of an hour he told the old lady of the firm not to be amazed for he produced the six weeks proceeds all at once, the churn being full of butter over the top. We simply told the old lady we didn't believe it, but on doing so she was insulted, for she said she believed her own eyes before anybody else's unbelief but sometimes imaginations became a reality with some people. It is impossible for any one to take away milk from cows by bewitchery, but this old lady referred to, declared that she had a cow once and another certain old lady came past her while milking and afterwards the cow had no milk and would run away and bawl every time she went to milk her, so she believed her cow's milk went to the other old lady's cow. But this fall and part of the summer there is a lot of cows bewitched for want of good pasture and good water, for in some places cattle have to be driven over a mile to water once a day and if they had it in the pasture field they would drink half a dozen times a day.

Mr Donald McMillan, south line, says he has nearly 15 acres logged this month without oxen but with horses and a man or two to help him. The hum of the steam thrasher with its big whistle is heard in all directions. What a change from the time of our boyhood days when it was considered a wonder to get the small open cylinder to thresh the grain with a double set of oxen, which meant eight teams and the owner of the grain had to stand behind with a rake taking away the straw with the grain pelting him in the face and running the risk of being knocked down with a broken tooth from the cylinder and probably the day's work would be from 50 to 100 bushels of wheat as very little of any other grain was raised in the early days, but the general run this year with most of farmers in this vicinity is from 4 to 10 hours with an extra good crop, with some the time is longer.

The took of the C. P. R. Locomotive keeps us in touch with the time of day but sometimes it varies but is always pretty well up to time.

Showers of rain would be very acceptable as lots of wells are going dry and the ground is dry and hard to plough.

Councillor Thos. Nichol and Mrs and part of the family visited Mrs Nichol's old home at her father's, Mr McAllister of Nottawasaga, for a few days last week.

Mrs Nichol (nee Annie McLehlin) near Durham, visited friends at Priceville and Glenelg, lately accompanied by her little nephew, Master Ford.

Mrs Fyle, who spent a month pleasantly visiting friends in Glenelg, returned again a few days ago to her home at Woodbridge. Quite a number went from here to Walkerton Exhibition on Friday last and were somewhat disappointed as no Longboat put in an appearance. However our Exhibition didn't come off in Priceville yet, and it would be a good idea for our directors to send for the Longboat Indian, and if he didn't come they would be no worse off than the County Town of Bruce. However we are pleased that we were able to supply the good people of the County of Bruce with a fine specimen of the Highland piper in the person of Mr Hector McDonald and his nice little daughter, as one of the best dancers in the County.

It will be remembered that Glenelg is qualified for a Deputy Reeve for 1910. Who will be the lucky aspirants?

It is said that Lauchie McArthur on the hill east of here, had 500 bushels of peas and other grain accordingly.
