ON THE OTTAWA.

By Edward Hartley Dewar.
The sun has gone down in liquid gold
On the Ottawa's gleaming breast;
And the silent night has softly rolled
The clouds from her starry vest;
Not a sound is heard—
Every warbling bird
Has silenced its tuneful lay,
As with still delight,
In the moon's weird light,
I noiselessly float away.

As down the river I dreamily glide—
The sparkling and moonlit river
Not a ripple disturbs the glassy tide,
Not a leaf is heard to quiver;
The lamps of night
Shed their trembling light,
With a tranquil and silvery glory,
Over river and dell,
Where the zephyrs tell
To the night their plaintive story.

I gently time my gleaming car
To music of joy-laden strains,
Which the silent woods and listening shore
Re-echo in soft refrains—
Let holy thought
From this tranquil spot
Float up through the slumbering air
For who would profane
With fancies vain
A scene so ineffably fair!

The Late Rev. Dr. Fletcher.

A noted leader in Church life passed away in Hamilton on Christmas morning. Rev. Donald Hugh Fletcher D. D., who for 50 years and more has done a noble work in Canada. Many will remember his saintly presence and his gentle smile at the Jubilee services of Durham Pres. Church a few years ago.

He was a cousin of Mr. Chas. McInnes, of Yeovil, who prizes a bible, the gift of his father, which he first left to his son, Mr. McInnes' sister left with deceased for many years and he took a warm interest in his many relatives in this part of Ontario and near Collingwood. He was a native of Islay and was born there in 1833.

We notice the fine little house meant for a station at McWilliams. It is none too soon as we have had for four times mid the worst weather possible. Now if they only had a telephone each way, particularly to the east, it would let one know whether they were coming at all or not.

Our old friend Mr. Bone we regret to know has gone after a long life of usefulness. We can recall the pleasure he used to have often in joining church music tunes. In this connection we are glad to know that his three daughters are still alive. His wife, Mrs. Bone, is still well.

DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

An Appreciation of This Much Discussed Breed.

In a communication to the Breeder's Gazette extolling the virtues of the dairy Shorthorn H. W. Avery says: "I am a farmer in central New York and make cattle the main issue. Milk from the herd brings money every day in the year, and every week or so the butcher hands me a nice check for a beef animal. I am entirely satisfied with the returns from the herd. It brought me over $5,000 last year, more than half of which was net profit. I would be called out by the purpose of the kind of cows that will not down, notwithstanding the insistent 'special purpose' men to the contrary. Ninety-nine per cent of cows are kept because their owners make money out of them or hope to. A cow that brings her owner a profit is really a special purpose cow kept especially for that purpose, whether it be from beef alone, from milk alone or from milk and beef combined.

Six years ago I decided that the dairy Shorthorn was the best money maker for me in the cow line, and the results have not disappointed me. Last winter I visited England to look over the dairy Shorthorns. It was not hard to find many splendid cows of the type that will give lots of milk and make good beef when required. The English records for a day's production are in excess of ours, but the yearly production is not so great, owing to the desire of the English breeder to have his cow go dry and produce a calf every year. Darlington Cranford V. of Lord Rothschild's herd has given in ten years a total of 101,746 pounds of milk, or an average of 10,174.6 pounds per annum, and she produced eleven calves, once twins. It was interesting to note that the milk as produced by this herd and weighed for each cow made a total of 504,880 pounds for 1910, and the weight of the same milk sold was 503,715 pounds, or a shortage of less than fifteen pounds per cow for the year.

The dairy Shorthorn cow Amy V. here illustrated, owned by Samuel Sanday, Cheshire, England, is a good example of this type of cattle. She gave over sixty pounds of milk in a day at the London dairy show last October. Amy V. is a handsome cow with dairy conformation, a capacious, well placed udder and a frame that carries lots of meat.

Well Mr. Editor is now sometimes since you heard from here so we will try to write a few items beginning with good wishes to ye editor and his staff for a bright and prosperous year.

An ideal winter so far, splendid for the holiday season.

The contest for municipal honors is in full swing at time of writing. The polling place has changed hands owing to the absence of Mr. James Leask who had it for many years. It will be much missed as he always took an active part in the affairs of the township.

Our trustees have secured the sites of our late teacher to occupy his place for 1913. We wish her success.

Mr. John Wilkinson is busy moving his implements, &c., to his new farm on the 6th concession.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Greenwood are at present visiting in and around Ed. Hill.

It is with deep regret we learn of the death of Wm Small, who for many years lived with his mother and brother here. The cause of his death was pleurisy and some inward trouble. He died on Christmas night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Neil Calder in Winnipeg, which had been his home since leaving here some 8 years ago.

He had a pleasant disposition, was intelligent and industrious to a degree and will be missed not only by his friends but by all who knew him, for he was always kind and obliging, especially in trouble.

He leaves as chief mourners Mrs. G. Baird, Winnipeg; Robt. of Pricewille; Mrs. Wm. Hay, Dromore; Mrs. D. McCaul, Hopeville; Charles on the old homestead and Mrs. Neil Calder of Winnipeg.

Old neighbors in this community all join in sympathy with the bereaved ones.

THE JOY OF GIVING

"Be more blessed to give than to receive," says the Good Book, and we are continually receiving the truth of this maxim.

Here's an extract that tells how the good work we are doing in the fight against Consumption appeals to every section of the community.

A well-known citizen of Brantford writes: "On Christmas morning my boys gave me $2.50 to get some presents for my self. I wanted. I think you can use it to good advantage in your noble work in the National Sanitarium Association, so an enclosing it for that purpose."

Doesn't it make you feel proud to know that there are Canadian fathers with such self-sacrificing instincts so strongly imbued in them?

Isn't it good to realize that the rising generation is getting such a splendid example shown them? Last year its cost over $82,000.00 to keep the Muskoka Free Hospital open. More money is urgently needed to provide for those seeking admission.

The needy Consumptive is right at your door. Won't you help him to help himself?

The smallest gift will be most acceptable. Just slip your contribution in an envelope to-day, while you think of it, to the Executive Committee, 84 Spadina Ave., or Mr. R. DESBAS, Sec. Treas., 347 King West, Toronto, and experience the real joy of giving.

HORSE NOTES.

Growing colts need plenty of exercise.

Never hurry a team when heavily loaded.

It is a serious loss to let a colt run down at weaning time.

Protection from stormy and inclement weather will make feed go further.

When you again train a young horse do it with mingled firmness and goodness.

Keeping the skin of the horse clean enables it to sweat freely, and this is essential to health.

A little patience in teaching the horse to be gentle and obedient may add many dollars to his value.
