Address and Presentation

Following is the address presented to Mr and Mrs E. W. Hunt, Traverston, which explains itself, and to which event we made reference in last week's issue: "Fairview Farm," Traverston, Feb. 21, 1913.

To Mr and Mrs Hunt

and members of the family: Realizing that you are all soon to leave the neighborhood for the distant West, we, your neighbors, friends and fellow associates, have assembled together in this dear old home, to express our sincere regret at your removal from our midst, to express also our heartfelt and deep appreciation of your noble, christian character, your sympathy in times of trouble and your readiness to assist in everything that tended to elevate and promote the welfare of the community.

You, Mr Hunt, have filled responsible positions in municipal and church life and most honestly, fearlessly and faithfully have you filled those positions.

You, Mrs Hunt, have proved a wife, mother, neighbor and friend, that has won our respect, esteem and admiration, and these sons and daughters, with their parents have ever been ready and willing with hand and head and purse to assist in every cause that was for the betterment of the neighborhood and the church with which you were identified.

We shall miss you, sadly miss you, but will ever remember the happy hours and seasons spent together and these memories will inspire us to better fill life's duties.

We desire you to accept these little gifts as slight mementoes of our good-will, respect, esteem and love, and individually and unitedly we wish and pray that God may bless and prosper you in your new homes and that in that new land you may find a wider sphere of usefulness and helpfulness to those about you.

Signed on behalf of the community: Thos. Glencross, J. J. Peart, W. R. Jack
