Causes Heavy Loss

Many Barns Unroofed and other Damage

Good Friday of 1913 will long be re membered as the day of the greatest attending the Annual meeting of the windstorm this district ever experienced. O. E. A this week. And not this district alone but the whole continent seems to have been in aerial convulsion. From 60 to 100 fatalities occurred in the States and a few in Canada and in the wide area we have Hopkins. named the damage will run into the Compared with some other towns Durham has come out of the storm well. None of our big stacks have gone and no industry has been put out of business. The metal roof of G. and J this district. The south chimney of the New Car. negie Library snapped off at the roof The latter was in Hanover over Sunand falling its entire longth on the roof day, smashed the slates.

Mr Hahn's windmill was put out of business and just in time the roof of the big stable was noticed going and steps were taken to secure it. Expensive porary bridge at Ayton was also tak. acceptably on Sunday. Our own Dr. plate glass windows were broken in MacFarlane's Drug Store and John Rose's provision shop. E. A. Rowe also had windows broken. The tannery bell is now silent for the little house it swung in was blown down. More than one shed or outbuilding was demolished and fences suffered of course.

Two trees in front of Mr Hay's residence, old landmarks in a way, are badly wrecked. A chimney on the schoolhouse, for long more ornamental than useful was also brought low. The electric lights were cut for the night and telephone and telegragh

The great brick chimney of the brush works at Port Elgin fell, killing a man named Duff instantly. He had been warned of his danger but took one chance too many. Hamilton suffered most severely of all the cities. The Krug works of Chesley are injured and stacks are reported down there, at Mt.

The spire of a church in Fergus was carried away and a Factory wall in Owen Sound is reported crashed in entailing a loss in all for the County town of about half a million dollars.

The gale had its origin in the South Western States where it was of tornado proportions, causing much loss of life. Two days later an even fiercer gale developed, more destructive of life than the first, especially tearing down the city of Omaha after the style of Regina a year ago, eausing a loss of Team aged mares, blood colt rising life of hundreds, some say perhaps a thousand.
