

For Wear for Woe;

Or, A Dark Temptation

The days were rolling steadily on, bringing the fatal 28th month nearer and nearer. It was now but a week that evened date, and this knowledge almost crazed poor Gay.

"It was about Little Gay," she added, weeping hysterically. "She appeared here, her lovely face as white and wild as her golden hair fell in unadorned waves. There was a great deal of great drops; the lovely, dark eyes were half-closed, and she was sobbing in an awful voice. I am in great danger."

"I am going down to Passaic to bring Gay home with me tomorrow," she declared emphatically. "You must not laugh at me and call it woman's nonsense. I tell you I am greatly distressed about Little Gay."

"Behave! a dream's only a dream," commented the banker. "Go to sleep and don't let us hear of any more of this kind of absurdity; send a telegram, that will answer the purpose quite as well."

"No, I will not help you," returned the doctor. "You are foolish to ask it."

"It was my home," said Gay, pleadingly. "I have a young life, but you refused. I could not let my dear father die without being with him."

"No, I will not help you," returned the doctor. "You are foolish to ask it."

"What shall be done with the body, sir?" asked the attendant, pityingly gazing at the matted hair from the marble slab.

Recipes for the Sick.

Sippets with Milk.—One slice dry toast, one tablespoonful butter, three-fourths cup scalded milk, one-eighth teaspoonful salt. Cut toast in small pieces of uniform size. Put remaining ingredients in a small heated bowl, add toast and serve at once.

Oatmeal Jelly.—One-third cup rolled oats, few grains salt, one and one-half cups boiling water. Add oats gradually. Boil two minutes, then steam in double boiler 45 minutes to one hour. Force through a fine strainer, mold, chill and serve with sugar and cream.

Oatmeal Gruel.—Three tablespoonfuls rolled oats, one-fourth teaspoonful salt, two cups water. Add rolled oats to boiling salted water, cook until thickened over direct heat, then place over boiling water and cook 1 1/2 hours; strain and season to taste.

Cracker Gruel.—Two tablespoonfuls cracker crumbs, a few grains salt, one cup milk. Wash rice, add to milk and cook for 1 1/2 hours in a double boiler, covered, with strain, season and serve hot or cold.

Baked Apple Pie.—Two apples (cored, pared and cut in eighths), one tablespoonful water, two tablespoonfuls brown sugar, one teaspoonful lemon juice. Put alternate layers of apples, sugar and lemon juice in a small baking dish, one hour. A little grated nutmeg hot or cold.

Apple Snow.—Wipe, pare, core and quarter one sour apple. Put in small strainer, place over boiling water, cover and let steam until apple is soft, then rub through a sieve. There should be one quarter cup of apple sauce. Beat white of egg until stiff. Sweeten apple pulp to taste and add gradually to beaten white of egg. Pile lightly on glass serving dish, chill and serve with steamed custard or cream.

Baked Banana.—Wipe banana and loosen one section of skin, then replace, put in shallow pan, when banana should be soft. Remove from skin, sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve at once.

French Dressing.—Three tablespoonfuls olive oil, one-fourth tablespoonful salt, one tablespoonful lemon juice or vinegar, pepper. Mix ingredients and stir until well blended. French dressing should be added to salad greens just before serving. If allowed to stand in dressing they will quickly wilt.

Coiled Salad Dressing.—Yolk of one egg, one tablespoonful butter melted, one-half cup cream, few grains cayenne, three-fourths teaspoonful mustard, one tablespoonful vinegar. Mix ingredients in order given, add vinegar very slowly. Cook over boiling water, stir constantly until mixture thickens, strain and cool.

Two Recipes for Sponge Cake.

Two cups sugar, six eggs, leaving out the whites of three; one cupful boiling hot water, two and a half cupfuls flour, one tablespoonful baking powder in the flour. Beat the yolks a little, add the sugar and beat fifteen minutes; add the three boiling whites and the cupful of flour with a teaspoonful of lemon extract and a teaspoonful of lemon egg. Flavor with lemon to taste.

Best Sponge Cake.—Four eggs, two cupfuls sugar, two cupfuls flour, three level teaspoonfuls baking powder, one level teaspoonful cornstarch. Add sugar to the eggs and beat together, then the flour with the baking powder and cornstarch, sifted together, and beat three-quarters of a cupful of boiling water and one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Bake in a quick oven and it is delicious.
