Consideration for Others. Refore a young man or woman makes what we call a start in life there should be some earnest thought on this point. A business career, it is often assumed, must in its very nature be selfish. Enough if we can atone by some disinterested use of leisure for the selfishness of our working hours. Many people have abandoned the notion of taking a lofty view of business life. "Business is business, they say, as if the remark were the last word of wisdom and there is nothing more to be said. But when this business life of ours is just beginning we may take a nobler and more wholesome view. Let us fix it firmly in our thought that business is service. To do business is to serve our fellow-men. There is room in every business life for a character for integrity, generosity, humanity, consideration of others. Get the perspective right. See that here also first things can kept in the first place, and there is no need to thrust ideals into the background.
