A Wave of Law-Breaking

Burglary and Hold-Up

A wave of law-breaking seems to have passed over Durham for a week past. Last Thursday morning it was discovered that burglars had made a night raid on several business places in town, the purpose of the robbers evidently being to secure ready cash for no articles of value seem to have been taken. Entrance was got mainly through rear doors and windows and the amount of money abstracted was considerable, some small change only at one place, seven cents at another and at one place a dollar or more. Indications are that the burglaries were committed by local men with some knowledge of the surroundings.

The places visited were the hardware stores of Wm. Black and McKechnie & Lenahan, E. Limin, Mrs. Beggs & Son, Alex. McLachlan and the offices of J. P. Telford and Dr. Hutton, whose drawers were ransacked and papers thrown around.

More startling even than this was a "hold-up" which took place on Saturday night or rather Sunday morning when a young immigrant from England was waylaid on the street, robbed of over $20.00 and a watch which he was bringing out in trust to a friend here. The incident is deplorable and one feels heartfelt sympathy for the young man who met with such a violent reception on his first night in Durham.

The man's name is Alfred James Lewis, coming to Durham to meet a friend and relative here, Harry Saunders, who has been in the country about 12 months. Saunders had been notified to meet the C. P. R. train Saturday night and was on hand to do so waiting till 12 o'clock, but was disappointed to find his friend did not alight. However, the friend was on board, but tired and wearied with travel, he fell asleep, after leaving the junction and did not hear the station called. He woke up soon after the train started west and found to his dismay that he was two miles beyond Durham. The conductor stopped the train and allowed him off and he trudged wearily back the two miles burdened with a grip. He followed the railroad track and ultimately reached the crossing at Garafaxa street about 1 a.m. and was in a quandary which way to turn for the Central hotel where his friend Saunders boarded.

At this juncture he fell in with two men coming down the hill and asked the way to the Central. They knew but bargained that the information was worth the price of a drink. They seized hold of the stranger, got his pocket book and extracted the money, returning him the book. They also found the watch, a dying bequest of a relative of Saunders' but sentiment was dead where sordidness reigned.

The two "good Samaritans" reeled on Southwards after making a threat to shoot him if he told on them and Lewis, started up the hill in search of the Central. He passed it and was near the Review corner when he met John McDonald, liverman, returning home in a rig and was directed by him to the Central Hotel.

By dint of rapping he roused Mr McAuley, one of the boarders, who opened the door and found him dazed and heart sore. He told the story of the hold-up to him and to his friend Saunders, who was soon roused up, but nothing could be done till next day.

Next day suspicion seemed to rest on two citizens Messrs Arthur Brooks and James McLean, for Lewis it is alleged picked them out as the men who had robbed him. They were placed under arrest and ball allowed till Monday when a trial was opened before police Magistrate Telford. Both pleaded "not guilty" and evidence was presented to prove an alibi. Lewis told his story in a straightforward manner and his testimony left a good impression on the court and spectators.

The trial was resumed on Tuesday morning, other witnesses were called, whose evidence in addition to a personal interview, forms the basis of the information in this article. The magistrate in summing up said the evidence of the defence had not shaken his belief in the gravity of the case and committed the accused to stand their trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction. He fixed bail in each case at $400 and would accept this in two sureties of $200 each.

One hopes, for the honor of the town that the accused will be able to free themselves, even though the evidence pointing to their being out at an untimely hour, and together, with other circumstances seem to tell against them. Mr Brooks is a married man with wife and two children and they will have to endure a season of painful anxiety. Neither of the accused

It was the last game of the league schedule, and six innings were played, the game ending 11-10 in favor of the home team. Outside of Walker's work, it was the best baseball of the series. Pollock pitched for the home team while D. C. Town was in the box for Durham.

Forty Thousand Men Required.

Farm Laborers' Excursions.—This Year's Wheat Crop will be the Largest in The History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the World's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These men will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prospect of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the west, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs J. P. Hunter, at 1:30 to-day, Wednesday, when their daughter, Miss Jessie, linked fortunes for life with Mr Chas. McKinnon, of Bassano, Alta. Rev. Dr. Farquharson tied the nuptial knot. The happy couple took the afternoon train to Toronto and will proceed to his home in the West. A more extended notice will appear next week. Meanwhile heartiest congratulations.

BETTER THAN REPORTED.—Last week we announced 17 successful candidates at Normal School Entrance. It appears there were 18 the omitted one being R. (Bar) Marshall of Normanby. Again Mr. Allan informs us twenty-three wrote not twenty five and only fourteen were finally recommended by the staff so that the standard of the school is higher than that of the Department. All honor to staff and pupils for the brilliant record. Mr. Allan expects to be home about 15th of August.

Our article of two weeks ago commenting on some wild remarks by one of the speakers at Hanover on the twelfth with other reflections on the attitude of Mr. Borden towards the Nationalists, of the close and constant allegiance of the Orange society in the main to the fortunes of the Conservative party with cognate remarks, has not, we regret, met with the approval of our contemporary. Still we are not prepared to submit for his censorship any editorial or other matter we write for the Review and so it will have to stand.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr and Mrs Will Atkinson, of Holstein, whose infant son, James Edward, passed away Monday morning at the age of six months. The child has always been in good health, but was seized with convulsions about 2 a.m. that morning and died a few hours later. The funeral was held Tuesday from the residence of Mrs Atkinson's parents, Mr and Mrs W. J. Young, Rev. Dr. Farquharson officiating. Interment took place in Trinity church cemetery. Mr and Mrs McClure, Toronto, attended the funeral. Mr McClure returned Tuesday, his wife and children remaining for a few weeks with her parents, Mr and Mrs Jas. Atkinson.

ALMOST A CONFLAGRATION.—A small blaze, which was fortunately checked in time, might have resulted seriously at Mayor Black's residence last Friday afternoon. Painters at work there had been mixing paints in the stable and thrown skins and other refuse in a manure box alongside. Mrs Robson who lives alongside, noticed flames shooting up from this later on, almost as high as the barn, and her daughter at once ran with water and checked the blaze, till Mr. Black and W. Thompson, who had been notified, appeared on the scene and extinguished the fire. It was a close call for the barn and Miss Robson is to be commended for her timely aid.
