COMMENT ON EVENTS

A good many people in Canada view with suspicion the conduct of the United States toward Mexico. It is not evident that there is any ground for this suspicion excepting the feeling that the United States has not always been most considerate in its attitude toward Canada, and that perhaps if she saw a good chance to absorb Mexico she would not be averse to taking it. Such critics point out that the United States obtained the Panama Canal zone by tactics that were not altogether free from criticism, that she has more recently obtained a protectorate over Nicaragua by the same methods and that she would not be averse now to cleaning up the map the same methods and that she would not be averse now to cleaning up the map

Thanks to an obliging Canadian press, it is not difficult to keep such stories out of print, this being one of the outstanding distinguishing characteristics of the newspapers of this country as compared to those of our neighbors to the south.

One wonders sometimes if it would not be a good thing if Canada had one real "yellow" newspaper which would go after these proceedings and bring them to public attention.
