

NERVOUS CHILDREN

Are Often in the Early Stages of St. Vitus Dance

They Need a Tonic to Strengthen the Weak Nerves and Restore Them to Natural Health

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still, or for dropping things, when the child is not really at fault, as the trouble is really St. Vitus dance in its earlier stages. So common is this nervous disease in childhood that in some schools one-fifth of all the pupils have been found suffering from it in one form or another. Before the presence of the disease is betrayed there is usually a disturbance of the general health. The child shows listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless, and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vitus dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make the new blood necessary to feed the starving nerves and gives them the nourishment they demand.

Mrs. Hiram Barnhart, Scotia Junction, Ont., says: "About two years ago my oldest daughter, Mabel, then ten years of age, was stricken with St. Vitus dance. She could not keep still for half a minute, no matter how hard she tried. Her limbs would jerk and twitch and every little thing would start her crying. I gave her several bottles of medicine said to be good for the nerves, but instead of helping her she was steadily growing worse. Her voice would change so that we could hardly understand her, and her face became twitched until she did not look like the same child. I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills myself when run down, and finally decided to give her these. When she had taken two boxes I could notice an improvement, and by the time she had used five boxes she was fully cured. However, I was determined to make the cure permanent if possible, and I gave her two boxes more, and I can truthfully say that she has never had a symptom of the trouble since, and is now as bright and active as any child of her age. I heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all mothers as the result of what they have done for my child and myself."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANADA'S NEW BANK STATUTE

EXPERT COMMENTS ON FEATURES OF THE LAW.

Rules Affect Loans to Farmers and Upon Products of Field, Forest and Lake.

Mr. D. R. Wilkie, president of the Imperial Bank and of the Canadian Bankers' Association, has prepared the following statement of the important features of the new Canadian bank act:

Additional safeguards have been introduced in connection with the incorporation and organization of banks to insure the bona fides of original subscriptions for stock, and to facilitate the recovery of unpaid liability thereon, while statements of disbursements for preliminary expenses will require to be submitted to the treasury board for approval before a certificate to commence business is issued.

Changes have been made in the internal regulations in providing for shareholders being kept advised of the by-laws of the bank in force from time to time by being furnished with copies of the current by-laws every five years, commencing with Dec. 31, 1913, and by limiting the qualification shares of directors to those of which they are absolute and sole owners in their individual rights.

Collection of Stock.

Facilities for speedier collection of original unsubscribed or new capital stock allotted to shareholders are given by shortening, in the directors' discretion, the period within which acceptance of allotments must be made.

Proposals have been introduced making the keeping of shares and transfer registers in each province in which shareholders are resident compulsory, but it is hoped these provisions, which have many objectionable features, may be amended. The annual statement to be submitted to shareholders has been somewhat enlarged, so as to make it more in keeping with the monthly return to the government. Many new headings have been added, which makes for a clearer and more detailed statement of affairs. The monthly government return has also been improved in some respects.

An important departure has been made in the introduction of an annual audit by qualified auditors appointed by the shareholders from a panel selected by the general manager of the banks and approved by the minister of finance. It will be the duty of these auditors, who are given the widest powers of access to the books, accounts and securities of the banks, to check the cash and verify the securities, and make a report annually to the shareholders.

For Special Reports.

It is placed in the power of the minister of finance to call upon the auditor of a bank, or any other auditor whom he may select, to make a special report at any time upon the affairs or business of a bank. In addition to retaining the present emergency period, extending from Sept. 1 in any year to the last day of February in the ensuing year, provision for a much-required increase of circulation has been made against the deposit of current gold and Dominion notes, or either, in what is termed the "Central Gold Reserves."

These central gold reserves will be under the control of trustees appointed by the Canadian Bankers' Association and minister of finance, and will be subject to frequent inspection and audit by the department of finance. It will be the duty of the trustees to receive and, when proper and required, return the gold and notes deposited with them by the banks, which will be entitled to issue increased circulation to the extent of the amount from time to time on deposit. In this way not only is additional circulation assured, but also the anxiety of over-circulation when nearing the present limits can be avoided.

To Disinfect Notes.

Regulations providing for the disinfection and sterilization of bank notes may be made by the treasury board. Additional returns will in future be made to the government annually of the fair market value of real estate held by the banks for their use and occupation, and quarterly of the rates of interest and discount charged upon loans and discounted paper.

Additional powers have been given to banks in the interests of those concerned to lend to receivers and liquidators appointed under the winding-up act upon the property and assets under their charge, and also to lend farmers upon the security of thrashed grain grown up on their farms, while definitions have been provided of "products of agriculture," "products of the forest" and "products of the sea, lake and rivers," which will materially assist in removing doubts that previously existed regarding the power to lend on certain classes of goods now comprehended therein.

Next.

It was Sunday afternoon, and Mabel's little sister, Ruth, aged four, was seated beside Mabel on the sofa. Presently the little girl asked of Mabel's finance: "Aren't I your sweetheart, Mr. Bumper?" "Well," answered Mr. Bumper, "I've answered Mr. Bumper with a fond glance at Mabel, you're the next thing to it!"

Had Stomach Rumbles Distress Before Meals

Was Seldom Free From That Weary, Droopy, Half-Bead Feeling.

Now Cured, and Gives Good Advice to Others With Dyspeptic Tendencies.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience which is told by Mr. Edward Dowling:

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels. I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine, and I can say that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c per box or five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or post paid from the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A WOMAN INVENTOR.

Mrs. Ernest Hart Has Process to Protect Paper from Dampness.

Mrs. Ernest Hart, of London, England, who is the discoverer of a process by which it is said that any kind of paper, including paper, can be waterproofed, does not like to be called an inventor.

"It is a word very loosely used," she said the other day. "Why, I suppose, apart from discoverers, actual inventors can almost be numbered on one's fingers, and even the great and true inventors probably have gone before them or to those who have worked side by side with them."

"My work has been essentially that of improving. Ever since my early days, when I studied medicine in London and Paris, I have been attracted to the practical side of Laboratory work. I am fond of taking up forlorn hopes.

"In this spirit I set myself to task of overcoming the difficulties of weaving ramie fibre. After many experiments I succeeded in weaving every kind of fabric in pure ramie on power looms.

"Then I found that nobody could waterproof the material for me. After patient experimental work I arrived at patentable processes. From tissue paper to coarse canvas.

"Wall paper can be so treated that the cheapest kinds want only a sponge and soap to restore them to their original freshness."

Another discovery of Mrs. Hart's is a material for cinematograph screens which, it is said, may mean a saving of about 30 per cent. in the amount of electricity required. She has also devised a means of making nitrocellulose—the best-known form of which is gun-cotton—without the use of cotton. It is thought that this will largely do away with the dangers now existing in its manufacture.

LIGHT BREAKS IN.

Thoughtful Farmer Learns About Tea and Coffee.

Many people exist in a more or less hazy condition and it often takes years before they realize that tea and coffee are often the cause of the cloudiness, and that there is a simple way to let the light break in.

A worthy farmer had such an experience and tells about it in a letter. He says:

"For about forty years I have had indigestion and stomach trouble in various forms. During the last 25 years I would not more than get over one spell of bilious colic until another would be upon me.

"The best doctors I could get and all the medicines I could buy only gave me temporary relief.

"Change of climate was tried without results. I could not sleep nights, had rheumatism and my heart would palpitate at times so that it seemed it would jump out of my body.

"I came to the conclusion that there was no relief for me and that I was about wound up, when I saw a Postum advertisement. I had always been a coffee drinker, and got an idea from the ad. that maybe coffee was the cause of my trouble." Tea is just as harmful, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.

"I began to use Postum instead of coffee, and in less than three weeks I felt like a new man. The rheumatism left me, and I have never had a spell of bilious colic since.

"My appetite is good, my digestion never was better, and I can do more work than before for 40 years."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Write for copy of the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with the addition of cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly.

"There's a reason" for Postum.

FORTUNE IN DEAD RATS.

B. L. Phillips Finds Portion of Quartz Slays Vermin.

King of the ratcatchers and Champion Blackbeetle Destroyer is the title conferred upon himself by a certain London, England, business man. Otherwise he is B. L. Phillips of Messrs. B. L. & N. Phillips, Limited. This is his story of how he undertook an odd business and came into his unique title.

"Years ago in America I went prospecting for gold," he said. "I did not find gold, but something almost as precious. At that time we were infested by cockroaches. But they always avoided the crumbly bits of the quartz.

"I thought there must be a specific reason for this shyness on their part, for they are not shy as a rule. So I called in an analytical chemist, and together we investigated matters.

"We had just finished our investigations when the news came that all the kitchens of Chicago were overrun by cockroaches. I went to the chef of the largest kitchen in Chicago and said: 'Let me clear your kitchen.'

"He was in despair, and said, 'Impossible!'

"'Good,' I replied, 'this is where I arrive,' and I drove the cockroaches out of Chicago.

"Then somebody complained of rats, so I killed the rats. I went on doing this sort of thing throughout America, and then I met a man who told me that although there were no rats in Ireland there were still plenty of cockroaches and rats in Great Britain. I came here on the next boat, and now I have contracts with nearly every great hotel in the country and every line of steamships and most of the big country houses.

"And now, young man, one word of advice. I advise you to start a new profession. I have done that, and found it very profitable."

Cured Stomach Gas, Stopped Hiccoughs

Pains in the Stomach That Yield to Nothing Else, Pass Away Quickly If Nerviline Is Used.

READ MR. BRAUN'S STATEMENT.

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I heaved gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored.

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea, and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy.

Got to Pay.

A Dutchman was going to cross a bridge; he was riding in a little cart drawn by a goat. The toll man came out and said: "Here, you've got to pay toll before you can pass this bridge." "What, to pay toll?" "Yes, five cents to cross this bridge." After an argument the Dutchman paid the five cents and went on. In the afternoon he came back again, only this time he had the goat sitting on the seat, and he was dragging the cart himself. Out came the toll man and said: "Here, you know you've got to pay five cents." The Dutchman shook his head, and pointing to the goat, said: "Don't talk to me—ask the driver."

Interested.

Husband (at police station): "They say you have caught the fellow who robbed our house night before last."

Sergeant: "Yes. Do you want to see him?"

Husband: "Sure! I'd like to talk to him. I want to know how he got in without waking my wife. I've been trying to do that for the last twenty years."

He's So Impossible.

"You know, my dear, men are quite impossible. If I accept Jack's proposal, he will expect me to marry him; and if I refuse, he will expect to be allowed to marry someone else."

"Pa, what is party loyalty?" "Hope of a good job."

The Mystery.

Visitor: "I understand that you had an amateur dramatic performance in the town hall last night?" Native: "Yes; the Sock and Buskin Club played 'Little Mac, or the Mountain Mystery.'"

"Ah! And what was the mystery?" "As near as I could make out the mystery was how the audience stood till the last act was over."

ROYAL BOOTS HARD TO MAKE

LONDON HAS ONLY A FEW GOOD "CLICKERS."

The Finest Leather Is Used in Building Boots For Kings.

There are only half a dozen or so men in London who can make a pair of boots fit for a king to wear. A first-class boot clicker is as valuable an asset to a shoemaker as a first-class cutter to a tailor. A boot clicker is the trade term for the man who cuts out the shape of the leather to be stitched together, just as a tailor's cutter cuts out the material for a coat or a pair of trousers.

The man who actually stitches the leather is called a "closer." A "clicker" is, of course, a more experienced and better class of workman than the "closer," for he is the designer, while the "closer" merely follows instructions, though the latter has to be a very smart man to sew the leather properly.

The leather used to make a first-class boot is made from the skin of a calf nearest the backbone and on the rump. The skin over the actual backbone of the animal is not used, because it is not only thinner, but actual experience proves that it is not so good as the rest of the hide.

Out of Every Dozen Skins

only one or two of the very finest are chosen for Royal wear.

A man named Duffield made pumps and slippers for Royalty fifty years. He was one of the few who knew how to put a heel properly on a slipper. This may appear quite a simple thing to do, but as a matter of fact not one shoemaker in 10,000 can do it to perfection.

He made hundreds of slippers for wealthy customers, and a pair made by him have been worn for over ten years. Not a stitch has given, and the soles and heels show very little sign of wear. Any slipper of which that can be said at the end of ten years is a pretty good one!

Most of the wealthy classes wear a very thin-soled boot, but thin as this sole is it will outlast any thick-soled pair of ready-made boots. The secret of this is not only in the quality of the leather, but also in the way this sole is prepared.

The leather that is used for the sole is half an inch thick to begin with. Before being fixed on to the boot this sole is beaten for more than an hour by the "closer" with his hammer. This hammering reduces the sole to half its original thickness, and at the same time makes it as hard as steel. So hard is this beaten sole that, though less than a quarter of an inch thick,

It Is Difficult to Bend It.

For the first few days of wearing a pair of new boots the soles feel like steel under the foot, and it is not until they have been worn for some time that they begin to get elastic and comfortable. In the case of the late King Edward, one of his suit would wear his shoes to break them in, though the soles of the late King's boots were thinner than usual.

Ninety-nine persons out of every 100 walk on the outside of their feet. Few persons walk absolutely straight and wear their soles out the outside, the majority of black men wear them away on the inside.

Two of the most costly pair of boots ever made in the ordinary way were Atrachan-lined long boots, one pair being for the late Earl of Londsdale and the other for H.R.H. Duc d'Aosta. They cost $84 a pair.
