NEW GEM AMONG JEWELS.

The "Helioloid" Entitled to Rank with Ruby and Emerald.

A new gem, given the name of "Helioloid" and found in German South Africa, has taken its place among the Jewels, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine. The German Kaiser recently presented one of the new stones to the Kaiserin. The discovery of the new stone was made by the governor and director of the German Colonial Society while he was travelling in German South Africa. In the sand near the railway between Swakopmund and Windhoek he found a large crystal, rough and unpolished in appearance. He carried it with him to Germany and had it cut and polished in a diamond cutting factory. The result was a surprising clear, pale aquamarine of great brilliancy.

The German colonial office immediately took possession of the ground upon which the crystal was found, and a great number of the crystals are now making their appearance upon the German market. Experts agree that the new gem is entitled to rank with the ruby and emerald.

READING THE BRAIN.

Would Turn Things Upside Down If We Could Do It.

If experiments now being made on the brain of the late Dr. Maurice Howard Richardson by his former scientific associates should furnish the desired results, this old world would have to be placed on a different footing from any that it ever held before, whether for better or worse. The end sought after is to read the thoughts which they think leave a permanent impression upon the brain in a series of definite lines. Dr. Richardson was a firm believer in this theory, and it was that it might be studied in his own case that he made disposition of his brain in his will.

By analogy, at least, the idea presents features that rob it of absurdity. The manner in which the steel needle makes its impression on the wax cylinder of the phonograph, and the reversal of the operation for the purpose of reproducing the message, is a possible similar process in the phenomena of mental impressions and their translation into speech or action. That the similarity appealed to Mr. Edison himself seems more than probable, as he has in this, as in other views, fully committed himself to a wholly materialistic conception of life.

If the theory, then, has even slight kindred evidences in its favor, the researches now being carried on with much secrecy may disclose unexpected results. If the lines on the brain would be found related to definite thought impressions, their interpretation is not beyond human powers. The same order of mind that wrought the key to the Egyptian hieroglyphs from the mutilated Rosetta Stone may possibly do as much from the brain of a dead professor, bringing to light the thoughts which he kept hidden even from his own heart while in life.

Should this come about, however, it is hardly necessary to speculate upon the portentous changes that would be wrought. No man could hide himself, nor could any nation practice the arts of diplomacy. No one could be led astray that was not willing to do so.

The Black Hand would betray its own secrets, and the white slave could convict himself. Congressional investigations would cease, and the reformer disclose at a glance whether he really liked grape juice or preferred something stronger. And John could not even think that his wife thinks he is going to the club, for fear that she would find him out the day thereafter.

In view of which, together with a thousand and one other complications that would ensue, it will perhaps be best if the Harvard scientists fall of their purpose.

MOTHER AND BABY.

Every mother is anxious for the welfare of her little ones—above all she wants them to have good health. Thousands of mothers have learned the secret of keeping their little ones healthy—they have discovered that by keeping Baby's Own Tablets in the house and giving an occasional dose to the little ones that will escape constipation, vomiting, colic, colds, worms, etc. The Tablets never fail to be of service in keeping the baby healthy and happy. OPERATING ON THE HEART.

Once Thought One of the Impossible Things.

Probably the most daring chapter in modern surgery is that which treats of operations on the heart. The first to do this was by only two or three inches, but it has taken surgery nearly 2,600 years to traverse it. It is one writer's striking remark. How recent this work is is made plain by the fact that a book published by Stephen Paget in 1895, contained a chapter on Surgery of the Heart—the words being contemptuously enclosed in quotation marks, says the World's Work. The scientist, as well as the workman, looked upon the heart with an almost superstitious awe. Any injury necessarily implied death; any operation on the heart was an injury to the heart and an end. Yet many shrewd observers in the course of the ages had noted that all heart wounds did not result in instantaneous death.

It was not until ten or fifteen years ago that surgeons began to act upon this knowledge. In exceptional cases death did not result immediately from a heart wound; there were intervals of a few minutes, a few days or a few weeks. Why not utilize this interval in an attempt to sew up the wound? Medical history now reports many successful operations of this kind. An especially noteworthy one was performed upon an Alabama negro boy in 1902, illustrates the resources of modern heart surgery. This boy had been the victim of a stab wound. The knife had penetrated the apex of the heart and passed into the left ventricle, making a wound nearly half an inch long. When the boy was placed on the operating table he had already expired. His feet were cold, his face showed signs of the utmost distress. The surgeons made a little window-like opening just above the heart. Through this they could readily see the injured organ, the blood spurting from the wound at each pulsation. One surgeon put in his hand, pulled the heart upward and held it while another sewed the wound with catgut. The operation—performed without an anesthetic—lasted 35 minutes; on the sixteenth day the boy was sitting up; in a short time his heart was as good as new.

Amalgamation.

Johnny's mother had instituted a fine of 10 cents for every spot made on the tablecloth. One day Johnny was observed rubbing his finger for a long time over the cloth at his plate.

"John, what are you doing?" said his mother at last.

"Nothing. I was just trying to rub two spots into one."

Coming Back.

Mother (after the wedding): Well, our daughter and her husband are off at last. What's troubling you, John?

Father: I don't quite like that young fellow's parting words. He didn't say "Good-bye," he said "Au revoir."

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't-Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due to the fact that a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time. Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered so severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various sorts that I had tried made me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised and the first box I tried seemed to griping with undue activity. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if they had been made for me. I had them for a month I reduced it, and when the system finally settled down, I took a second box twice a week. I feel like a new man now. The old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so readily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels.

PIMPLES THICKLY SCATTERED ON FACE

In Bad Condition. Pimples Large, Face Sore and Itchy. Looked Badly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.

Muncy, Ontario.—"Some time ago my face was in a very bad condition with some kind of pimples. The pimples were thickly scattered. The tops of them were white; matter was in them. They were quite large and my face was sore and itchy and looked badly. I tried to scratch to scratch to be comfortable and sometimes lost my sleep. The sores lasted about two months and tried some ointments but didn't like them. Then I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, used them for two weeks and I was completely cured." (Signed) Alex. B. Oke, April 3, 1912.

SCALY ECZEMA ON FACE
