Grain Men Blame the Steamship Companies, Which Asked Exorbitant Prices

A despatch from Montreal says: Montreal is losing her grain trade, and Buffalo and Portland are rapidly getting it. There is room in the Harbor Commissioners' elevators at present for two million bushels of grain, and not an ocean boat is loading in the port with grain. There is a reason for this, according to grain men, who say the steamship companies are to blame. Earlier in the season they say, the companies were asking exorbitant prices to carry the grain from this port to Europe, and consequently local shippers were forced to make terms with the steamship companies running out of American ports.

The situation at present is very serious. The Harbor Commissioners recognize this, and on Thursday evening they left, accompanied by Mr. M. P. Fennell, for Buffalo, to study conditions there and to learn why that city is getting a portion of Montreal's grain trade.

He has been fighting for his pension for some time, and he is now being fought by the local authorities.

He went on a hunting trip and became separated from his friends. He wandered round in the bush two days, and then found a deserted camp, where he started a fire and removed all of his clothing, which he placed before the fire to dry. He went to sleep between mattresses, and when he awoke found the building burning and all his clothes destroyed, whereupon he had to find shelter in a barrel. He is expected to recover.

Headache Over the Eyes? Look For Nasal Catarrh

Catarrh Never Stops in One Place—It Spreads Rapidly—Often Ruins Health Completely.

In this changeable climate it is the little colds that drift into Catarrh. Unless the inflammation is checked it passes rapidly from the throat or nose to the bronchial tubes and then to the lungs. You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or toes, but you can cure Catarrh.

The sure cure consists of breathing in the healing balsamic essence of CATARRHIZONE, which is simply a medicated vapor so full of rich curative properties that every trace of Catarrh vanishes before it.

"The soothing vapor of Catarrhizone is the most powerful medicine I ever used," writes Mrs. Edmond J. Christine, of Saskatoon. "Every breath drawn through the Inhaler sends a grateful feeling through the passages of the nose and throat. Catarrhizone cured me of frightful headaches over the eyes, relieved me of a stuffy feeling in the nose, and an irritating hacking cough that had been the bane of my life for a year. My general health is greatly improved, my appetite and digestion are considerably better than before. Catarrhizone has been the means of giving me such health as I always desired, but never possessed."

Even though catarrh has a firm hold on you, and affects your throat, nose or ears, you can thoroughly cure it with Catarrhizone. Large bottles, guaranteed, cost $1.00; smaller size 50c.; sample size, 25c. All stockholders and druggists, or The Catarrhizone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE BRITISH LAND SCHEME

Chancellor Would Retain People on Land and Enhance Agricultural Production

A despatch from Swindon, England, says: Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lloyd George, on Wednesday afternoon dotted the "i's" and crossed the "t's" of the speech in which he inaugurated the Government's land campaign at Bedford on October 11. He then said that it was his object to "free British land from landlordism and get the people back on it." The two purposes the Government had set itself, he said, were to attract and to retain the rural population on the land, and to devise means to develop both the quantity and the quality of the total agricultural production of the British Isles. Everything, he asserted, would be subordinated to the attainment of these two objects. As the first step, said the Chancellor, it was proposed to establish a Ministry of Lands, with control and supervision of all questions dealing with the users of land both in town and country, and the functions of the present Board of Agriculture would be transferred to the new Ministry. The Government, he said, intended to take the land out of Chancery. Hereafter if a landlord found that "some silly settlement" hampered his schemes for improving his land he could apply to the Ministry of Lands, which would enable him to override the barrier. The new Ministry, he continued, would operate through commissioners, who would act in a judicial capacity, and have the same power to reduce rents on small farms as the Scottish courts now possess. Large farmers also would have the right to appeal to the commissioners for a reduction of rent if the action of the State caused a rise in the wages of the farm laborer. In such an event the landlord would have to come in as a contributor, and in times of great agricultural depression a temporary lessening of the rent would be obtainable.

The new Minister of Lands, according to the Chancellor, is to be given full power to acquire at a reasonable price all waste, derelict and neglected tracts of land and to plant them with forests, and to reclaim and drain the springs on such lands with a view to their cultivation to the full limit of their possibilities. The Ministry is to be not only empowered but instructed to act, and the resources of the State would be placed at its disposal for this purpose. If men want sport, said the Chancellor, it must be at their own expense, and the game laws would be revised in this direction.

The establishment of a fair minimum wage for laborers, with reasonable hours of work, decent housing, and the prospect of the laborer obtaining a bit of land for himself, would all be within the scope of the powers of the Commissioners, who would have authority to fix the price of the land in the case of compulsory acquisition. The Government proposed, the Chancellor concluded, to remedy the grave deficiency of cottages in the country by building some themselves with State funds, and "we have got a nice little fund at hand—the insurance reserve fund."

The announcement of the land proposals by Chancellor Lloyd George was made by an absolute and unanimous decision reached at recent meetings of the Cabinet.
