

THIN-BLOODED MEN AND WOMEN

Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Thin-blooded people do not remain so from choice, but from indifference in some cases from despair. People who are pale, languid, with palpitation of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to be easily tired are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood, and new blood means health and strength. The red cheeks, good appetite, increasing weight and strength that follow the use of these Pills prove their great value to thin-blooded people. Here is an example: Mrs. R. Steele, Atton Road, P.E.I., says: "Following childbirth I took a pain in my head which I could not get rid of. A cousin who came to see me urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I sent and got a supply. In about a month after beginning their use I had much relief, and by the time I had taken six more boxes I was fully cured and felt as well as ever I did in my life. I have never had a twinge of the pain since, and feel that I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which cured me after the doctor had failed."

Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE HUNGRY HAT.

How a Doctor Got Even with an Avaricious Hotelkeeper.

A certain Doctor Heim, a German man of science, once stopped for luncheon at a hotel in Wiesbaden. The chair next to him was unoccupied, so he put his hat upon it, and sat down. When he came to settle his account, he was surprised to find that he was charged for two plates but the head waiter insisted that he had reserved a second place, because no one could sit where his hat lay; so Doctor Heim paid without a word.

The next day he returned to the hotel, sat at the same table, and put his hat, as before, on the chair next to him. He ate as usual, and as the waiter was about to clear away the dishes, he said, "Wait a minute, friend. My hat here, that is also paying for a dinner, is very hungry, as you may suppose, since it paid for its dinner yesterday, but didn't eat anything." With these words, Heim lined his hat with a newspaper, and filled it up to the brim with bread, cookies, fruit and all sorts of good things. He then placed the bulging hat carefully under his arm, and walked out in triumph.

The lesson had a good effect, for since that time no one in that hotel has had to pay for the seat that was occupied by his hat.

The millionaire railway king had a brother who was hard of hearing, whilst he himself was known as having a very prominent nose. Once when dining at a friend's house he sat between two young ladies. They persisted in talking to him very loudly, much to his annoyance, but, wise man, he said nothing. "Did you ever," remarked one of them to the other in an ordinary tone during a lull in the conversation, "see such a nose?" "Pardon me, ladies," broke in the millionaire, "it is my brother who

THE PAY OF DIVERS.

Contractors Says Two Experts Get $100 a Week at Work.

A romantic and, in many cases, highly lucrative career is suggested by the interesting statement made by Alfred Gann, famous marine salvage contractor of Whitstable, England.

Whitstable, though celebrated for its native oysters, has an equal title to fame, according to Mr. Gann, in its divers, and a good diver is always assured of work.

"Our divers are, or, at all events, used to be, the finest in the world," said the veteran contractor, who has raised, salvaged, or surveyed nearly 200 vessels. "Our own men are as well known at Lagos as at Colombo and Montevideo."

"Two who were with us are now earning about $100 each week in South America. A good man ought to be always worth his $15 a week, with perhaps $5.25 a tide and a commission on the cargo he salvages."

"Foremost among the things a diver has to learn—and with fewer wrecks this takes him many years nowadays—is the knack of finding his way about inside a ship under water and in the lark."

"The difficulty is accentuated when the diver is working under the hatches of a submerged ship. He has to see then with the palms of his hands and the tips of his bare fingers for eyes. A single slip or miscalculation may mean the fouling of his life line, air tube, or both, and then—good bye!"

"The prowess of the Whitstable divers recalls to me the salvaging of the cargo of the Ormen, from North America, laden with walrus skins and oil, which was wrecked on the Goodwin Sands."

"Divers previously in charge had broken the Ormen's rudder, thrown its anchor and chains in the sea and even constructed artificial scuppers on the deck, so that the water from the pumps found its way direct to the vessel's hold."

"Worse still, they threatened to cut our divers' air tubes and life lines, and we had to appeal to the admiralty, which sent a special gunboat, under whose protection we successfully salvaged the cargo."

"The Darling Downs had nearly $500,000 worth of wool on board. It took eight of our divers two months to save it, and by then the wool was worth more than when it went down. Wool had risen in price in the interval."

"One man who had been in our employment lost his life in foreign waters through a blow from the tail of a conger eel, which was said to be fourteen feet long and as thick as a man's body. His death was promptly avenged by his mate, who went down and hacked the eel to pieces."

"When I was working around the farm last winter, I had an attack in the stomach," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am good as new, and able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

CURE SICKLY BABIES

If your baby is sickly, if his little stomach is out of order or his bowels need regulating, no other medicine will have such prompt or beneficial effect as Baby's Own Tablets. Thousands of other mothers use no other medicine for their little ones. Concerning them Mrs. John G. Crockett, Glenberry, N.S., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach troubles, vomiting and constipation, and in every instance they have proved successful. I would use no other medicine for my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW ROADS COST $406,000.

Over 1,250 Miles Built Up North Last Year.

George W. Bennett, Superintendent of Colonization Roads, in his report to the Ontario Minister of Public Works, states that during the past year 1,250 miles of highway, at a cost of $406,341, have been constructed or improved. The roads in the northern part of Ontario have more than similar works camps for the winter.

In the district comprising Port Frances, Rainy River, Kenora, Fort William, Port Arthur, Algoma, Sudbury, and Manitowish Island, 292 miles of colonization roads more completed, and 205 miles of roads under the by-law system. The total cost of the latter was $39,000, of which the Province bore $15,000.

In the western district, Parry Sound, Muskoka, Simcoe, Bruce, Sturgeon Falls and Nipissing, the colonization road mileage is 118; by-law roads 80 miles. The cost of the latter was $15,000, the province paying $11,000.

The eastern division, which includes the remainder of the northern part of old Ontario, has now 292 miles of new colonization roads. The by-law roads, now and improved, amount to 344 miles. The expenditure for this section was $62,000, of which $39,000 was granted by the Government.

In the Timiskaming district 113 miles of by-law roads were built at a cost of $17,000, of which the Government paid $10,000. The Goodwin road was pushed ahead for a considerable distance, and 18 miles of this now remains to be completed.

CONSUMPTION IN ENGLAND.

Report on Nation's Health Shows It Is On Decrease.

A wonderful hope that some time the terrible plague of consumption will be vanquished in England is held out by the report of the Local Government Board. Careful reading of this report—it is over 400 pages long—makes it quite clear that tuberculosis is decreasing in the country. Even in those great centres of Manchester, Birmingham and Sheffield the scourge is dying. Modern sanitation may possibly account for it, but it can only account for a very little.

Tuberculosis kills men in preference to women. The report says:—"For males at most ages Liverpool has the highest death rate, Manchester coming next. For females Liverpool again has the highest death rate, Manchester and Birmingham having a similar course that of Sheffield being somewhat lower. It is not unlikely that some of the excess of both Manchester and Liverpool is caused by the immigration of casual laborers. This would include the immigration of natives of Ireland, among whom the average tuberculosis death rate is high. The total share of migration in producing these high tuberculosis death rates cannot be determined at present. The tuberculosis death rate of these cities has shown great reduction."

ESTIMATES DEBTS OF WORLD.

Foreign Bureau Finds All Nations Owe $42,960,000.

A debt of $42,960,000 is the total shown in the accounts of all the nations of the world, according to the bureau of universal statistics, which has just announced its figures for the year 1912. Of this total public indebtedness thirty-two milliards are charged against Europe alone. A century ago the public debt of all countries amounted to only a little over seven milliards.

The population of the earth now is slightly over 1,900,000,000, an increase of 140,000,000 in the last four years, according to the bureau. Asia now has 933,000,000; Europe, 484,000,000; Africa, 188,000,000; America, 187,000,000; Oceania, 57,000,000.

The world's commerce now amounts to $40,000,000,000 and it is carried on by 55,802 sailing ships and 47,714 steamers. Other figures show a total of 625,000 miles of railroads or enough to girdle the globe twenty-five times.

You May Have Catarrh And Not Know It

HEAD AND THROAT BECOME DISEASED WITH CATARRH FROM NEGLECTING COLDS AND COUGHS.

Catarrh is Treacherous—When Fully Developed is a Horror—Note its Symptoms.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Do you have nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"
If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs or bronchial tubes—then it may be too late. The remedy is "Catarrhona," a direct, breathing cure that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on every spot that is tainted by catarrhal germs.

There can be no failure with Catarrhona—for years it has succeeded in every case that resisted other remedies. "No one can know better than I, the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrhona," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Stubbson case of Bronchial Catarrh, ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stopped up nose and throat. It affected my ears, and made my breath rank. Catarrhona cured quickly."

Get Catarrhona, use it, and you are sure of cure—beware of imitations and substitutes. Large size Catarrhona, with hard rubber tins, lasts two months, and is guaranteed. Price $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrhona Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

WILD PONIES NEAR LONDON.

Estate of Lord Lucas in New Forest Contains the Breed.

In New Forest near London, on the estate of Lord Lucas, British parliamentary secretary of the board of agriculture, there is a herd of wild ponies that lives as free and untrammelled as the prairies of South Africa.

These ponies are small and absolutely wild. At about five months the foals are old enough to be captured and taken to auctions all over the country—an unpleasant change for the little wild things. They have first, however, to be "rounded up," and this is done by their owner and his friends, and it takes a great deal of doing.

A particularly lively colt may take two or three hours before he can be got into the fixed enclosure. Thus the pleasures of wild riding in the bush are brought to within fifty miles of London, says the Boston Transcript.

Hiding in the New Forest in this way is dangerous on account of the bogs, and it takes a clever rider and pony. Lord Lucas is a tall man who carries the mark of adventure of a more dangerous sort in a slight limp brought back from South Africa.

Returning a Favor.

"It's going to be war to the knife," declared the suburban man, who was feeding his chickens.

"What now?" asked the friend.

"Why, Binkie sent me a box of axle grease and advised me to use it on my lawn mower."

"Well?"

"Well, I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice."

Do Long Breaths Hurt?

DANGEROUS PLEURISY ALWAYS BEGINS THIS WAY.

Speediest Cure is Nerviline.

Ouch, that stab-like pain in the side is like a hot knife blade in the ribs! Probably got overheated—cooled too fast—now there is congestion, tightness, such soreness you can't draw a long breath.

This is the beginning of Pleurisy. Pleurisy is far too serious to neglect a single instant. Quickest relief will come from a vigorous rubbing with Nerviline. This trusty old pain reliever will fix you up in no time—will take away the congestion—make you well just as it did Mr. Samuel St. Johns, of Stamford, who says:—"In running to catch a train last week I became much overheated. I put up the train window and rode that way in order to get cooled off. In an hour my side was so full of pain and my breathing hurt so much that I thought I had pneumonia. I always carry Nerviline in my grip and at once when I rubbed my side thoroughly three times. The warm penetrating effect was soon noticeable and I quickly got relief. Nerviline I consider saved me from a serious illness."

Any sort of a cold can be quickly broken up with Nerviline which is marvelous for reducing inflammation, for relieving congestion in the throat and chest, for curing stitch in the side, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Nothing more soothing and powerful. The 60¢ large family size is the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

BIG COTTON CROP IN INDIA.

Increase of 14 Per Cent. Over Last Year Is Reported.

India promises to have a bumper cotton crop this season. The latest estimate places the area under cotton at 23,000,000 acres, or 3,000,000 acres ahead of last year's figures, which means an increase of 14 per cent. On the other hand the total output is expected to reach 4,600,000 bales of 400 pounds each, against 4,300,000 bales last season. The increase here is 15 per cent.

The latest report on the crop in the Punjab is particularly gratifying. It shows the area sown as 1,759,100 acres, being 25 per cent. more than last year. The yield is estimated at 490,001 bales of clean cotton, compared with 397,016 bales estimated in the corresponding forecast last year. In the Punjab States the area returned as under cotton is 238,800 acres, an increase of 84 per cent. The output is estimated at 76,185 bales, or 52 per cent. more than last year. In the Umballa division the area under cotton has increased by 61 per cent. and the estimated output by 97 per cent., as compared with last year. In Jullundur the area has increased by 44 per cent. and the estimated yield by 175 per cent.

In Lahore the area has increased by 25 per cent. and the yield by 28 per cent. In Rawal Pindi the area has increased by only 4 per cent., but the yield is estimated to be 22 per cent. better, while in Multan, with an increased area of only 7 per cent., it is estimated that the yield will be 100 per cent. better than last year.
