

Jack Sprat could eat no fat,
His wife could eat no lean.
Said she, "I know a dainty dish
For which we'll both be keen:
Crown Syrup sweet is such a treat,
We'll lick
the platter
clean."

Crown Brand Corn Syrup

A delicious, wholesome food that is within the reach of every purse! That is Crown Brand Corn Syrup. The best thing about it is that it makes plainer foods more appreciated. The strongest recommendation to thrifty housewives. For sweetening and flavoring pies, puddings and cakes it is excellent. It makes most delicious candies and taffy. Children love it on bread and it is delicious to serve with griddle cakes and fritters. Hundreds of dainty dishes that cost very little can be made with Crown Brand Corn Syrup.

CROWN BRAND FUDGE

2 Pounds of Crown Brand Syrup.
4 Pounds of Granulated Sugar
1 Cup of Milk
One-half Cup of Butter
One Cup of Chocolate
1 Teaspoonful of Vanilla.

Put syrup, sugar, milk, butter and chocolate over a slow fire until the chocolate is melted, boil briefly for about 10 minutes or until it turns a soft ball in cold water. Add Vanilla and chocolate and mix well. Turn out in squares before it gets cold.

The Canada Starch
Co. Limited

Manufacturers of The Edwardsburg Brands

MONTRAL CARDINAL TORONTO
BRANTFORD VANCOUVER

OUR FREE RECIPE
BOOK is full of ideas for Delicious Dishes.
Send for Your Copy.
Address Montreal Office

Her Great Love;

Or, A Struggle For a Heart

CHAPTER XLIII.

"There's a doubt, eh?" he said. "Well, I have you will fit your best doctor." It was the room in which his father, Dr. Gaunt, and how many generations of descendants had died there. It was a bright and sunny day, but the blinds were drawn, and the nurse and doctor sat in silence as they stood by the bed, and looked at the sick man lying on still and helpless back.

Gaunt opened his eyes, and looked from one to the other. He was very thin, and at once knew the doctor exchanged glances, and it was she who answered:

"It wasn't fancy only, my face," she hesitated, but Gaunt's eyes were fixed on her, and she went on. "Well, she did say something, tell you my face, Miss Drane had been here all the time since she had raised the pillow slightly. The nurse and the doctor exchanged glances, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my life, who may he?"

"That's nothing," he said, quietly. "Any one who has seen that shilling will have done as I did—silently, clum-sily. That's nonsense!" The pain caught hold of him and alighted him for a moment, but Gaunt closed his eyes again.

"I wanted to see you, to bid you good-bye, to say 'good-bye' to our friend the doctor, doesn't think great thing of me."

"Yes, I—fancied you knew how one dances tilting with one of one's own friends, and some one else beside you two. Thank you, nurse, that's a more comfortable!"

The nurse had raised the pillow slightly, and it was she who answered:

"I wanted to ask you to bear—Dee—Dee—Dee—thank you can—that you forgive me!"

The nurse had warned that she must not excite him.

"Forgive! You ask me that! You who have saved my