

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC SPREADS

2,000 Persons Out of 7,000 Population Suffering With Disease in Quebec

A despatch from St. John's, Que., says: The seriousness of the epidemic of mild typhoid which has taken hold of the Towns of St. John's and Irberville and the County of Sabrevois generally, is seen in the fact that two thousand persons, at least, out of a population of about seven thousand are suffering from the disease in its various stages. Many of the Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed here have contracted it, and the Militia Department has sent down Major Drum to investigate.

The local doctors are over-worked, one of them attending sixty cases in a single day. Danger lies in the point that in the early stages the disease is not recognized as serious, and even then has been diagnosed merely as intestinal grippe. But as the attack increases the whole constitution breaks down. A number of deaths have been reported, and the epidemic has obtained such a hold that it is difficult to plan proper isolation precautions.

The medical men blame the local water supply as the cause, and the milk and bread deliveries also are being questioned. Factories are all working short handed and business is being greatly interfered with.

CANADIAN PARCEL POST.

Eleven-pound Limit of Weight Is Now in Effect.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The ultimate eleven-pound limit of weight for the Canadian parcel post was put into effect on Thursday. Each package accepted for transmission by parcel post during the months of February, March and April, has been removed. The order that has gone forth from the Postoffice Department also eliminates the additional fee of five cents to be prepaid by postage stamps on each parcel mailed for local delivery in places where the letter carrier system is in operation. The insurance of packets does not become operative until the first of May, as at first set forth, and in the meantime packets of the parcel post may merely be registered.

GOODNEAU'S PLIGHT.

A Canadian Is Serving a Jail Term in Mexico.

A despatch from El Paso, Texas, says: The case of E. Goodneau, a British subject, born in Canada, now serving a 90-day sentence at Juarez for alleged theft, was placed in the hands of Charles A. C. Perceval, of the British Consular Service, here on Thursday. Mr. Perceval, whose attention was called to Goodneau's plight by Thomas D. Edwards, United States Consul at Juarez, said he would make an investigation. According to Gustavo Padres, Mayor of Juarez, Goodneau was offered the option of a fine of $50, but had no money, and was thereupon sentenced to jail.

SHACKLETON'S EXPEDITION.

Receives $50,000 More From the British Government.

A despatch from London says: The British Government is making a grant of $50,000 towards Lieut. Shackleton's Antarctic expedition. Of this sum $25,000 will be voted this year and the remainder next year. For his last expedition Shackleton received a Government grant of $100,000, and Capt. Scott received a similar sum.

TWO SPIES TRIED IN LONDON

Documents on the British Navy Found in the Possession of Two Germans

A despatch from London, England, says: A remarkable story was told in the Bow Street Police Court on Wednesday afternoon in unfolding a case in which Frederick Adolphus Gould, a cigar merchant, and his wife, Maud Gould, were charged with espionage. The woman was arrested at the Charing Cross Station on February 22 as she was about to depart for Ostend. She had in her possession three envelopes containing important documents relating to the British navy. The man was arrested at his home in Wandsworth, where it is alleged other incriminating documents concerning the navy were found. Mrs. Gould denied all knowledge of the contents of the envelope, and her husband confirmed her.

Mr. Bodkin, opening the case for the prosecution, said it was fairly clear that Gould, whose real name is believed to be Adolf Friedrich Schroeder, acted for a long time as a spy in this country. One of the documents found gave a short history of Gould's life. He was born in Germany in 1854 and lived in England from 1855 to 1885. He then returned to Germany to complete his education. In 1870, when the Franco-Prussian war broke out, he joined the army, receiving the Iron Cross and a Captaincy. Gould went to America in 1886 and again in 1900. Gould carried on correspondence with an individual at Brussels supposed to be agent for German Governments. One witness said Gould told him he was an agent of the German Government. The prisoners were remanded.

Our London Letter

Need Not Wait For King to Speak First.

King George and Queen Mary have made an innovation in court etiquette. Breaking down tradition which nobody must address the monarch, they have spoken to their majesties uninvited that at private dinner parties, at least, the guests must not hesitate either to make an original remark, or even to broach a new subject of conversation. At the dining and Queen are going to give a royal luncheon at the Marlborough Hotel, which is causing a great stir in circles in which hospitality is likely to be extended to royalty.

Princess Alexandra adheres to the old custom, pointing on account of her deafness. The late King Edward, though as unbound on special occasions, was on the whole a strict observer of the rule which "suggested his activity" against the "talk of being addressed on a subject, for which he was unprepared, and which Queen Victoria's strictness in the matter has been characterized by the epithet, not inaccurately, of "the telephone rule."

Princess Mary a Damselle.

Princess Mary, like the Prince of Wales, is a proponent of dining. The King and Queen are encouraging her and she has obtained their consent to resume the dancing class which she had given at Buckingham Palace last year when the court was in town. These classes are held weekly, generally on Wednesday, and a number of the girl friends of the Princess are invited to be present. The Princess inherits her mother's love of dancing and waltzing generally. The Queen is thinking of giving a number of afternoon and evening parties for the friends of the Princess. There will be dancing at each of these.

James Neil's Son a Miser.

On February 13, one hundred years ago, James Neil, the prison reformer, who devoted his life to the improvement of prisons and the work, "The State of Prisons," the now famous "Prisoners' Friend," the father of the modern reformatory, died. He was buried in the cemetery of St. Andrew's Church, Edinburgh. He was a miser.

Perhaps Neil today is best remembered as the father of the miser. His son, James Neil, his second child, the King inherited his father's fortune and with it the miserly habit of his father. Neil, when it became necessary to repair the roof of the church, had ordered the work to be done by a painter who had painted the cracks with strips of painted calico, which, he said, would last his time, and on the roof all day, the painter had to see that the workman did not stand in the rain. When he had finished the work, he had left a million pounds ($2,500,000).

Called King's Easy a Joker.

The surprise visit of the King and Queen to a Drury Lane pantomime was marked by a curious incident that has not before been made public.

The box manager at the theatre received a telephone call on Saturday night that King George and Queen Mary wished to know whether the royal box was available for that night. On "ring off the hook" the manager replied, "Again the queen came over to see the play, and to be received with renewed scorn, and the royal box was promptly put out. The third and last call was received in such a manner that the manager concluded in his mind that the king and queen were wittingly being guilty of some deception, and that the king and queen were in the theatre for the purpose of making a joke of the theatre had the royal box been taken on a telephone call" by the King. It was a unique incident in the history of the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane.

Smallest Club in London.

In the heart of Chelsea, within a hundred yards of the Ritz, there is situated the smallest club in London. To the uninformed it is merely the "Club of the King," it was a unique incident in the history of the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane.

It Is Of Interest To Every Woman

HOW DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. LANCE.

Pembroke Woman Suffered for Fifteen Years Before She Found Quick Relief and a Complete Cure.

Pembroke, Ont., March 9.—(Special.)—Of peculiar interest to women is the story of the cure of Mrs. Morlie Lance, well known and highly respected here. Let Mrs. Lance tell that story in her own words.

"For about fifteen years I was a very sick woman," she says. "My sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I had a bitter taste in my mouth in the morning. I was often dizzy and flashes of light floated before my eyes. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging across the loins.

"At last rheumatism was added to my troubles, and I also suffered from lumbago, dropsy and gravel. I felt that my kidneys were the cause of all my troubles, and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. From almost the first they did me good, and after taking twelve boxes I am again a well woman."

Women who suffer should learn that the cause of their troubles is bad kidneys. Having learned that, the rest is easy. Thousands of Canadian women are told out of their own experience that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure bad kidneys.

IMPROVED SANITATION.

Typoid Fever Almost Wiped Out In London.

A despatch from London, England, says: The Registrar-General's figures for the last week of January furnish additional evidence to support the belief that typhoid fever will soon become a rare disease in London. The total deaths from typhoid only numbered six, and during the period only thirty cases were admitted to the London Fever Hospital. A specialist in the disease claims it has become as rare in London as typhus became twenty years ago. Many of the younger medical men have never seen a case, and they flocked to a city hospital recently when it was learned that there was a typhoid patient there. This specialist believes that in a few years typhoid, like smallpox and typhus, will become almost a memory. This result is due almost wholly to improved sanitation.

TWENTY YEARS IN PRISON.

French Boy Who Slept Seven Got the Maximum Penalty.

A despatch from Nantes, France, says: Marcel Redureau, the fifteen-year-old lad who last September killed seven persons with an axe at Basbrriage-en-Landreaux, was found guilty on Wednesday of the charge against him and sentenced to twenty years in prison. The sentence is the maximum allowed by law. In summing up for the defence, the boy's lawyer declared that at the time of the commission of the murder the lad was laboring under excessive nervous fatigue, due to hard work. When asked if he had anything to add to the words of his lawyer, Redureau rose with lowered head and wept, but said nothing.

RIOTING IN POLAND.

Many Jews Have Fled For Fear of Their Lives.

A despatch from Cracow, Poland, says: It is reported that there has been serious rioting at Lodz, Russia Poland, because of a rumor that a Jewish merchant and his wife had murdered a Christian boy. A mob attacked the couple, who were seriously injured. The rioters then tried to raid a synagogue, but were prevented by the police. Many Jews have fled from the place.

"HA-DRU-GO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS"

Proved of Great Value to Me

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Ha-Dru-Go Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armstrong, Carro, N.S.: "I write to inform you that your Ha-Dru-Go Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases, as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Ha-Dru-Go Dyspepsia Tablets is such success as can come from an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptional good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with Na-Dru-Go Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box.
