WALLS OF NANKING TO GO.

Government Agrees to Proposal to Destroy Ancient Structure.

Deep regret will be excited by the news that the Government has acceded to the petition of Feng Kno-Chang, the Tutuh, and Han, the Civil Governor of Kiangsua, for leave to demolish that part of the beautiful old walls of Nanking which fronts the river. The petition has largely been prompted by the merchants, who argue that while the walls remain there is constant danger that the city may be used as a rebel headquarters and further that commerce will benefit by their destruction.

Neither argument is conclusive, since the obvious function of Nanking is to serve as a strong Government outpost to control the Yangtze Valley, while the commerce of Nanking is so inconsiderable that it is not likely to be affected whether the walls are dismantled or not.

The walls, which were completed in 1290 by Hungwu, the founder of the Ming Dynasty, possibly the latest man China ever produced, form one of the noblest architectural features of China, and are not exceeded in dignity and massive-ness even by the famous walls of Peking, which in extent they far surpass. They are over twenty miles in circumference and at various points they range from 60 feet to 80 feet in height, while for the larger part of their vast perimeter two carriages can easily drive abreast along the top. Once the work of destruction begins there is no knowing where it will end. It is earnestly to be hoped that when China is already being stripped of so many of the splendors of her antiquity these may yet be spared.

HAPPENINGS IN THE HOUSE

LIFE OF A BRITISH M.P. AN ARDUOUS ONE.

The Routine of His Daily Day Described by a Member of Parliament.

St. Stephen's has been declared to be the most entertaining place on earth—the best club in the world. On the other hand, many members of Parliament say that the life is so exacting as to be practically intolerable to a man who has other business to which to attend. Still, it has many compensations—besides that distinction, says London Answers.

The late Dr. Robert Wallace, the once popular member for East Edinburgh, used to say that, although the work was exacting to those who desired to get any recognition, it was amply repaid in the end.

That is the opinion most generally expressed by those who have sat on the green benches and responded cheerfully and loyally to the summons of the party whip.

Of course, there is an everyday routine through which all members must go through if they are to discharge their duties to their constituents; and no one can expect to carry on his own business at the same time. Yet that is what a great many hon. gentlemen attempt to do.

But it is only the strong man and arduous worker who can do this without detriment to himself, for, after all, mere attendance at the House for eight or ten hours, or perhaps longer, without a break involves a considerable strain on one when the same performance is repeated day after day through a long and arduous session.

Perhaps the heaviest part of the duties of a member of Parliament is the work he has to do in committee. Day by day, especially in the earlier part of the session, there are committees sitting in several rooms of St. Stephen's examining private bills, while public bills are examined by what are known as Grand or Standing Committees.

There are also Select Committees for specific purposes, and the numbers composing these, as a rule, consist of fifteen members. Under a standing order, Select Committees can sit during the sitting of the House, except while it is at prayers.

It is amazing to find how M.P.'s are inundated with letters, not only from their constituents, but from people of whose existence they know nothing.

Of course, attention must be given to these communications, and the number of hours that members spend in the writing-rooms can be gauged by the number of letters that are posted and delivered at the House, and also the amount spent on postage stamps.

Some M.P.'s open their mail-bags with something like fear and trembling, but wealthy representatives make light of their bulky correspondence. They keep private secretaries, and, as being a member of Parliament is at once their occupation and hobby, they do not regard letter-writing as particularly irksome, or their correspondents as bothers.

Having attended to their private correspondence, members have next to study the whips. Then the real work of the day begins. The duties of private members are, of course, by no means so onerous as those of Cabinet Ministers, and especially the Premier, who is expected to be in his place on the Treasury bench to lead debates, reply to questions, and attend generally to matters that may arise during the sitting.

Then the Prime Minister has to receive numerous deputations and listen to their grievances; he has also to interview his colleagues and attend to other calls that are made on his time and energy. Another important duty that used to devolve on the Premier, but which, it seems is now to be discontinued, was to write a letter to the King every night when Parliament was sitting, giving a summary of the day's proceedings in the Commons. Nowadays, this duty is usually performed by one of his Cabinet colleagues.

It is the division lists, however, that bear the strongest evidence of the member of Parliament's devotion to duty, and it is to these that his constituents look.

It has become the practice in recent years for local newspapers not only to publish the lists showing how many divisions the member for a particular district has taken part in, but to print details setting forth how he has voted for this or that particular bill.

Constituents are thus enabled to see whether their representative has been faithful to his promise, and to catechise him with confidence in regard to any measure in which his may have given a vote in opposition to their wishes.

New Use for Vacuum Cleaner.

America has discovered a new use for the vacuum cleaner. The Park Department of New York City uses it for carrying horses, of which eighty are sent out every morning from the stables. The vacuum curbs not only keeps the stables clean in better condition, but relieves the stables and the stables of the dust and germs which usually accompany the carrying of horses. The groom has no need to blow and hiss as he works. It also saves more than half the time over the job.

She Got So She Was Almost Insane

AND THEN FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

That's Why Mrs. Wellington Dunlop Says Dodd's Kidney Pills are the Best of All Medicines.

South Waterville, York Co., N. B., April 6.—(Special).—Mrs. Wellington Dunlop, an estimable resident of this place, has given an interview in which she states that she believes Dodd's Kidney Pills to be the best of all medicines. Mrs. Dunlop says:

"When I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I was in a terrible condition. I had been sick for over a year and had paid out more than one hundred and thirty dollars for doctors and medicine. I would get some better and then get just as bad as ever.

"The doctor said my trouble came from my stomach. His medicine relieved me for only a few minutes after I had taken it, and I got so that I was nearly insane.

"I had not taken Dodd's Kidney Pills two days till I was some better. I took twelve boxes and now I can truly say they have done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken."

D'ANNUNZIO FOND OF DOGS.

May Spend Year in England to Train Hounds.

Signor D'Annunzio has been spending a few days in London. He came to England to see the Waterloo Cup, the great coursing race at Alton, and Anunzio has always been a lover of the dog, and has seldom had fewer than a dozen dogs at Signorette. Greyhounds are his passion, but he has given some of his affection to the English bulldog, of which he has several. He was one of the founders of the Greyhound Club in France, and he has entered his own hounds in French races, and so far has two second prizes to his credit.

His plan to stay for a year in England is possibly dictated by his ambition to race a hound in next year's Waterloo Cup. Under the quarantine regulation it is almost impossible for him to train his hounds in France and race them here.

D'Annunzio has expressed to friends in London the great stimulus he has received from England. The eager courser at Alton, the delicate English country secretary, the pale glory Londoner in the dawn as his train steamed into it, and he beheld the river—all this has fascinated him and made him believe that England will give him a new stimulus and revive his art.

Above all he bases his hopes on the eternal bath of youth, which is English sport.

Will Quickly Cure Any Sour Stomach

Relieves Fullness After Meals.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until quite late in the evening, when I was wrong with my bowels for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fullness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heat the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter is a sure proof of it. I refuse to substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, sold in yellow boxes, 25c. All dealers, or The Catarhazone Co., Kingston, Ont."

NEW ANESTHETIC FOUND.

Urethane Said to Be Less Harmful than Ether.

Interesting experiments with a new anesthetic have been conducted at the Cambridge laboratory. The substance, which is called Urethane, is a combination of urea and alcohol. It is administered hypodermically, and drowsiness soon becomes a very deep unconsciousness, and insensibility to pain is complete. There is perfect security when it is used in any operation. The advantage claimed for the new anesthetic is that heart failure never occurs when it is properly used, while a majority of the deaths from chloroform are due to heart failure. When the breathing stops, as it frequently does, during the administration of an inhaled anesthetic, it can usually be started again by artificial respiration, provided always that the heart is still beating. The assurance, therefore, that in cases of an overdose of this anesthetic the breathing would be affected before the heart will be of immense comfort to surgeons and anesthetists.

Another advantage is that the choking sensation experienced with ether and chloroform is not present. Moreover, after urethane there is no sickness, and thus the danger of the stitches giving way and ligatures slipping off during retching is avoided. A disadvantage is that experimenters have not yet been able to reduce the period of insensibility below six hours. All the operations up to the present have been made on animals.

WOOD BLOCKS BEST ROAD.

Is Used in All English Cities—Also in Europe.

It has been stated that crocoted wood blocks would make the ideal pavement if the following faults could be eliminated: (1) The tendency to expand, resulting in bulging, and sometimes upheaval of the pavement, discoloration of curbs, etc.; (2) slipperiness; (3) bleeding of oil. Of all the wood pavements that I saw in London, Paris, Berlin and other places, none exhibited any of the foregoing defects with the exception of two or three slight bulges noticed in London, writes an expert in the Engineering News.

Crocoted wood is the most highly esteemed paving material in the English cities. In ten of the twenty-eight boroughs constituting the city of London, and comprising the most thickly populated section of the city, the total mileage of crocoted wood block in 1912 was 121. Liverpool has about 150,000 square yards; Birkenhead, 95,000 square yards. In fact, all English cities of over 50,000 population have wood paved streets, and in most cases these are the principal thoroughfares.

There is not much wood-block paving in Berlin, but a condition which seems rather remarkable exists in that on streets paved with asphalt, wood-block paving is used where the grade becomes too steep and the asphalt will prove unsteady and slippery. Most of the approaches to wood-block. This city has probably the finest sheet asphalt paving in the world. The wood paving is rough and comparatively noisy.

Crocoted wood-block paving in Paris is more noticeable for quantity than it is for quality. The report of the Chief Engineer of Bridges and Streets of Paris, at the London Road Congress, stated that the average life of the hardwood paving was six years.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS USED FOR YEARS

When a mother uses only one medicine as long as there are little ones in the home it certainly bears grand testimony to the value of that particular remedy. Thousands of mothers use nothing else but Baby's Own Tablets. Concerning them Mrs. M. LeBlanc, Memramcook, West, N.B., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little ones for the past ten years and know of nothing to equal them during teething time or for colic, constipation and indigestion. All my neighbors who have used them think as I do." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Kept Forgetting.

"Ah, poor man," said a kind-hearted old lady visiting a convict prison to one of the "boarders." "I suppose you'll be very thankful when the time comes for you to shan't," retorted the convict surlily. "What! Don't you want to be at liberty again?" exclaimed the good dame in surprise. "No," returned the man. "Don't want no bloomin' liberty! I'd a bloomin' sight rather stop 'ere!" "How strange," said the visitor as she turned away. "I had no idea the prisoners were so contented. What was the poor man's offence?" she continued. "E were a bit absent-minded, marm," replied the warder with a grin. "Absent-minded," exclaimed the lady. "Yes, marm," exclaimed the official. "E kept forgettin' as 'ow 'e were a married man. E's got five wives awaitin' 'im outside."—English paper.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline.
