A Rival to Beef.

The whaling industry is commonly sup-posed to be a thing of the past. Yet it is estimated that $1,000,000,000 are invested in that business to-day, and one whaling company recently bought out a rival at a price of $1,000,000. Such a business would seem to be rather lively for a back number. No doubt this would add considerably to the world's supply, and under the right handling the quality might not be bad. Japan eats a great deal of whale meat already, and Dr. Grenfell of Labrador considers it very good food. But no one yet has explained how the huge carcass can be handled in sanitary fashion with the limited equipment on a whaling ship. Until this miracle is achieved, it is not likely that whale meat will rival beef and
