

THE SPIRIT

Still to be Vital in Experience

It is only truth to say that the Master had been such a man as churches, in contrast to the Church, if the Master had not been so inwardly real and so outwardly true, he would not have been so vital in experience. What wonder that a religion can say that the Master has been "more vital in the science of religion than any man in his generation?"

It is impossible to remind ourselves often of what Jesus lived to—recall, both for spiritual health and for the good of the world, that pure of the spirit to which He has authority of His prophetic utterance. The issue here is perfectly plain—the one thing which is essential and the many other things which are non-essential. And we must be faced, regardless of our traditions and tender sensibilities, until that hour at last in which men shall know that the Master was in truth. —Rev. John Holmes.

Fashion Hints

New Neck Ruches.
The dainty new neck ruches is made with a little wired collar at the back. It is of course for even wear and makes a lovely detail. But it is the fragile tulle that the organza which suggested it, and it is at that point, very becoming.

New Headdresses.

The new headdresses give the impression of earrings—and yet are no earrings. These are made of tulle, and they are just of each ear, there is a long tulle which reaches below the ear.

Striped Linen.

Striped linen is a favorite summer fabric. It is used in combination with plain linen—sometimes as a foundation, sometimes as the whole skirt to be worn with a plain jacket. It is also used for trimming frocks and other fabrics—striped bands and cuffs facings, for instance, used on a plain suit of dress.

New Dancing Petticoat.

This is a new chiffon dancing petticoat with two strips of whalebone to keep it up and the frock worn over it to keep it in place. But do not think to hear an indication of hoopskirts of the old sort. The new petticoat is really a fuller skirt than ever. Styles are in their development, even the new petticoats are freshened up for months, and the skirt of the new petticoat is still far from full at the bottom. This chiffon petticoat, in its balloon-like proportions, is seen at the bottom, shirred and puffed into ruffles.

London Pleats Popular.

London pleats are much used, and they are welcome. There is the London pleated underskirt worn long tunic, and it is surely a good thing that the Government, from the wearer's view, over the straight underskirt. For it permits of easy movement and at the same time prevents the pleated effect. Then there is the London pleated skirt. In a light, this silk this is a beautiful cape for evening wear. It is made of heavy fabric and fits about the shoulders, and is finished with a wide, white collar of the silk.

Fixing Them Both.

It was her father's present and the groom's. He told her that there would always be a house for her, and a factory for the groom.

LUMBERING WILL BE HEAVY

A despatch from Ottawa says: Representatives of the big lumber companies operating in the upper Ontario region state that operations in the bush this fall will be unusually heavy, and that about 35,000 men will be employed about two months hence. It is believed here that this will go a long way toward relieving unemployment in eastern cities. The reason given for the extra lumbering operations is that a great deal of timber has been felled by storms and slightly damaged by bush fires and that it must be utilized at once before decay sets in.

Chairman of T. & N. O. Commission Tells About Conditions in Northland

Chairman of T. & N. O. Commission Tells About Conditions in Northland
A despatch from Toronto, says: The T. & N. O. Railway Commission has just returned from their monthly inspection of the line. In an interview, Mr. J. L. Englehart, the chairman, reported that in spite of the recent devastating fires in the Northland, the country was experiencing an agricultural prosperity unusual for new territory. Said Mr. Englehart: "The fires are confined to the region north of New Liskeard and below Cochrane. There are no fires below Liskeard or between Porcupine and Timmins on the Porcupine branch. It is a fair deduction that the fires that do exist below the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific are due to the clearings of settlers, who are taking advantage of the dry state prevailing to make extensive clearings by fire, and they certainly are having a good burn. This will allow a much larger acreage to be sown under the plow during the winter season of 1915 than during the winter past. "Recent rains have largely improved the crop conditions. Roots, potatoes, peas, etc., if present weather conditions will be a bumper crop. Oats and barley are largely in evidence. Hay was a decidedly very short. The settlers are so largely engaged with crop production that no attention is being paid to forest products. Extensive pulpwood and logging operations will be largely in evidence next season. A good market as well as good prices prevail. It is the consensus of thought that if the present weather conditions continue the crops will prove satisfying."
