Farewell Presentations to Rev. and Mrs. Hartley
The strong attachment which has sprung up the last four years between the members of Trinity Church and their departing rector, Rev. W. H. Hartley found tangible expression last Thursday night when a large number of the congregation gathered at the Rectory and presented him with a farewell address.

Only a short time ago we learned with profound regret your decision to sever your connection with the congregation of Trinity Church. At first we could scarcely realize the situation but we find it is all too true, and the pleasant relationship of the past four years will soon come to an end.

During your incumbency here you have not only won the respect, confidence and esteem of your congregation but the general admiration of the whole community; your quiet, unspoken influence has had its effect for good, your honesty and sincerity have never been doubted, your friendly fraternalism with the ministers of other churches has done much for denominational unity.

In the separation we know a warm friendship exists on both sides, we are glad that it is so and we are confident that in leaving us you are doing so for what you believe to be the best. You are enlarging the circle of your acquaintances and the general influence you manifested here will assuredly enlarge the circle of your friends.

As a small memento in parting we present you with these tokens of esteem and we hope they may occasionally remind you of your four years in Durham. We shall be pleased to hear of your success and trust that God may give you the prosperity you deserve and bless you in the discharge of your noble work.

Mr. Hartley was much affected and warmly thanked his members on behalf of Mrs. Hartley and himself for the many kindnesses shown since coming to Durham four years ago.

It was a fine analysis of Paul's life, devotion and experience, buttressed most appropriately with supporting texts. There was also a fine picture of the future life, clinched by the saying of Jesus "If it were not so I would have told you."
