A splendid meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Durham Library on Jan. 20. Over 50 ladies were present and listened to a most interesting address on "Woman's Opportunities" given by Miss Susie Campbell of Toronto. Miss Campbell is a most pleasing speaker. She gave warm praise to the Women's Institutes for what they had done for the Red Cross and other charitable work and also impressed us with the great need of continuing this work. She spoke of many opportunities that the women of Sellers and buyers were however somewhat apart in their ideas of value and not as much business was done as the crowd would indicate. However considerable money changed hands and month by month the Horse Fair is guarng in popular. ity and usefulness, qualities due in large measure to the enthusiasm of one man, Mr Wm Black, whose work for the farming community in this one particular alone, has been of great value. Demand for good horses for war purpose is bound to react on all grades and February and March fairs are expected to be above the average. 17 horses were sold. We were honored last week by a shown when settled, by the withdrawcall from Liceose Inspector Allan who al of nearly all the citizens. Town Council Appoints Officers

The special meeting of this body was held on Wednesday evening last. Great interest was manifested as at this meeting the appoin meni is made by open voting of Assessor, Constable, Auditors and other officers.

After routine there being two delegations present, consideration was given to that committee, spokesman of which was Rev. W. Prudham. Nine days previously this committee waited on the council desiring the passing of a by-law under section 127 of the license Act by which constable or other special officer had provincial owers and under which fines came inthe town treasury. The council nad asked for fuller information before consideration and in the interval Rev. Mr Prudham with most commendable promptness and thoroughness had secured from 9 or 10 places where such a by-law is in force, opin ions and evidence enough to satisfy iny council of the value of the Act The council gave respectful attention to the presentation and have ordered a by-law to be prepared for next

The other delegation was from the Library Board, a committee of which with full facts and figures as to immediate and future requirements was ready to give all explanations, but the council asked in view of a large docket of business, that the library business | contribution. oe held over till another meeting and passed a grant of $225 to cover expenses to close of 1914.

No fewer than 11 applications were before the council and out of the lot Mr G-o. Arrowsmith was chosen. One of the applicants made slight objeccion that the successful application was not in the clerk's hands by the advertised time, but the council ruled that the applications not being tenders, the objection did not apply. The salary for 1915 was placed at $600, an increase of $100 over last year, The popular interest in this selection was
