The Finance Minister's Apology

(From The Globe)

When Mr White accepted an invitation to address the electors of South-east Grey he had two courses open to him: to make a high minded appeal to a patriotic people passing through a perilous and unprecedented crisis, and to make a parizan appeal calculated to draw public attention away from patriotic duty and direct it to a question of holding office with its emoluments and other incidental advantages. It is not to the Finance Minister's credit that he chose the more ignominious part: it goes to show how far he has descended since he began to associate himself with men who have deliberately put themselves under the domination of a sinister plotter for the promotion of his own self-interest.

It would be futile to deal with the mass of misrepresentations that make up the bulk of his Durham speech; it will serve a more useful purpose to call attention to his unpatriotic and unbecoming attitude towards the National Transcontinental Railway. For the sake of making a little partisan capital he violates truth and maligns blameless third parties. His exaggerations regarding the initiation and the subsequent development of the National Transcontinental enterprise amount to wilful misrepresentation of the attitude and administration of the Liberal party; his assertion that the Grand Trunk Pacific Company refused to take over what it agreed to take over under the statutory contract of twenty years ago is a deliberate falsification. What the Grand Trunk Pacific Company originally agreed to take over was the completed eastern division of the Transcontinental line, and that eastern division is not yet complete. What the company reconvened to agree to was the completion of the line to the westward, a project which the Government would make it possible to use the road in its present condition. It will never be forgotten that since the Borden Government came into office four years ago it has been systematically endeavoring to damage the reputation of both the eastern division and the country it traverses, apparently for no other motive than to be able to proclaim the project a failure.

Mr White, like other members of the Government, complains of the Liberal's preparations for a general election, such as the nomination of candidates and the circulation of literature. It is hard to say whether he is more sincere in his reiteration of this grievance. He knows quite well that a certain section of the Borden Cabinet wanted a general election, and would have had it but for some obstacle not plain to the general public. He shows that for months Conservative preparations of all sorts for an election have been in progress. He knows that if there is no general election before a session it will be on account of the scandal and the disturbing effect on Mr Rogers and his election-winning machine. And he knows that if Sir Robert Borden would give the Canadian electors the assurance that there will be no general election till after the next session of Parliament the Liberals would promptly and gladly cease to prepare for one. It is too much to ask Liberals to abandon preparations while Conservatives continue them.

Special Prizes at Guelph for Grey County Farmers

For the past two years the Grey County Board of Agriculture have, by the generosity of the County Council, been able to offer prizes at the Winter Fair for live stock raised and owned by a resident of this county. In 1913 the prizes totalled $100 and of this amount $40 were aimed at prizes. Last winter the Board were able to supplement the grant of the County Council and made the total prizes offered amount to $150. More than half of this amount was claimed and the Board feels that in justice to those who would like to exhibit this year, that the prizes be the same as they were last year. It will be noticed that these prizes are only for amateurs, therefore those who have won money in open competition at any of our large fairs will be barred from winning these prizes. This should encourage as many as possible of our younger men to show at this year's Winter Fair.

The prizes offered are as follows: For the best stallion, raised in Grey County, shown by an amateur exhibitor, resident of the County of Grey. Prizes, 1st $25; 2nd $15. For the best gelding or mare, any draught breed, raised in Grey County shown by an amateur exhibitor, resident of the County of Grey. Prizes, 1st $25; 2nd $15. For the best steer or heifer, any beef breed, 2 years of age or under, prizes, 1st $25; 2nd $15. These prizes are open only to exhibits raised in the County of Grey and shown by amateur exhibitors, resident of the County of Grey.

For the best sheep of a long woolled breed, raised in the County of Grey and shown by an amateur exhibitor, resident of the County of Grey. Prizes, 1st $10; 2nd $5.00. For the best sheep of a medium woolled breed, raised in the County of Grey and shown by an amateur exhibitor, resident of the County of Grey. Prizes, 1st $10; 2nd $5.00.

As many as possible should make an effort to secure one or more of these prizes and thus advertise the stock of the County and for themselves as well. For further information write T. H. BINNIE, Priceville, or H. C. DUFF, Markdale.

Has Escaped the Shells

Jim Farquharson in a Hot Corner at the Front.

Rev. Dr. Farquharson last week kindly forwarded the following postal card and letter from his son Jim, who is again on the firing line. His uncle Ed, referred to is Dr. Coult's of Agincourt, brother of Mrs Farquharson, who left on Wednesday of last week to join the Medical staff in England and sailed Saturday. His safe arrival will be anxiously looked for.

May 20th, 1915
Come back to the battalion last Saturday, evidently just in time to get into another hot corner. We have been shelled nearly all day, but only a small number have been hit. I nearly got a nice little wound this morning when a piece of shrapnel grazed my shoulder, making it tingle. Let me know uncle Ed's address when he comes to France if you please.

May 23rd, 1915
Your letter came this morning along with a couple of pairs of socks from later I wrote from Rhen hospital and will know I am still unhurt. We came out of the trenches for a rest last night and believe me I needed it. Thursday night I was fooling around in trenches half full of water and since then I have been stiffened up with what I presume a slight attack of rheumatism—nothing serious.

We had quite a time getting into the trenches. Our route led through an open road which the Germans were shelling. They had the range down pat and dropped the shells right over our heads and several killed, but we got through with the wire all right. How we managed I don't know, for a shell landed about ten feet in front of us and the road around us was sprinkled with cast iron.

We lost half our section at Ypres four killed and four wounded. The one of our chaps was wounded in the arm the other day, so our section is mostly composed of new men.

Am glad May is out of hospital and beginning to feel fit again. I suppose uncle Ed. will be over in France soon, if he is attached to a regiment as M. O. he will have his hands full of work.

I suppose you have heard Dr Hart of the 5th battalion was captured at Ypres. If uncle James has not heard please let him know. He was ordered out of the dressing station by his Colonel, but refused to leave some fellows who were badly wounded and so became a prisoner when his battalion retired. Alpin Smith (Claude) came through Ypres unhurt and asked to be remembered to you. Bruce Sutherland is still at the English base, but as the engineers have lost a number of officers, I presume he will be over soon.

Of the fellows who composed one tent at West down south only two of us are left out here. One has lost an arm, one has pneumonia and the other five have been killed.

We are going into the trenches tomorrow night in all likelihood, so I shall write you at our next billet.

How Saskatchewan Feels

Special to the Review,
Toronto, June 24, 1915.
Extracts from speeches at Thanksgiving Mass Meeting, recently held in the City Hall, Regina, Sask.:

"The clouds are commencing to break away and blue sky is appearing in Saskatchewan and it is going to spread in Alberta and Manitoba. We will be able to see and have to bring a little blue sky into old Ontario."

"We are on the eve of the finest temperance legislation ever enacted."

"Let us be thankful for this gigantic step forward in the cause of temperance and sobriety."

"The small places in the country will be given enough help to assist them in turning the bare into libraries and places which will be a credit to the town. Even Russia has them already where they are known as 'people's palaces.'"
