She also told of the doubts, fears and difficulties she had before entering upon her determination to become a missionary nurse and to face the missionary nurse and to face the Fatherland in a similar situation she had witnessed were also touched upon. She spoke for nearly three quarters of an hour and during all that time held the large audience in closest attention. Her chief and leading thought was that it pays to approach the Throne of Grace in prayer with-out ceasing. It being somewhat unconventional to applaud at a religious meeting as some felt constrained to do, a vote of thanks in appreciation of her fine address was later tendered her. The good wishes of the whole community go with her through happy matrimonial life, a credit and an honor to her parents and the whole neighborhood.

Varney Farmers' Picnic

Fine Address by Mr Morrison of Arthur A large crowd gathered on Friday last in Carson's bush, Northamby, the occasion being the Annual Picnic of the active Farmers' Association, whose headquarters is Varney. The weather was ideal, swings and sports were provided for the youth and beauty present, some fine music was furnished by a section of the Durham Band and supplemented by violin and bag-pipes in the capable hands of Mr. Troy, of Orchard, while from the platform was given by Mr Morrison of Arthur, the representative of the "United Farmers of Ontario," a really excellent speech, the best in a series given by that gentleman in previous years. Then at the close there were ample refreshments for young and old, while a booth supplied the usual delicacies.

Mr Morrison's speech in the main was a plea for co-operation among farmers, urging loyalty to each other and to the Society of which they were a branch. At present, said the speaker, farmers do not control either the buying of the necessities or the selling of the products. Hon. Jas. Duff, Minister of Agriculture, has estimated there was a mortgage indebtedness of $22,500,000 on the farms of Ontario, this money costs the farmers 8 and 6 per cent yet it was common knowledge that the average profits of Ontario farms was scarcely 3 per cent. In some cases much less. Under such conditions general prosperity of farmers was not possible, hence the great rural decrease of population, notwithstanding the clamor for "increased production" by the powers that be who failed to grasp the situation.

This failure was seen in the denial by government to grant Local Option in Assessment. When teachers were leaving the profession some years ago, compulsory salary clauses were formulated to retain them. Farmers are leaving the land, but little or nothing is being done to retain them, and the reason was they were not organized. Sir Sidney Buxton, of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, said Agriculture could not be represented because unorganized, and so in many ways legislation was influenced by men who were not in touch with farmers and who knew not their needs. The farmers will never accomplish anything till they come to look upon themselves as good as anybody else.

He narrated the large volume of business already being done co-operatively, but this was capable of immense expansion by farmers in general becoming business men and ladies too, if ever they were to achieve the franchise.

He hoped the day of direct taxation would come and he graphically showed instances of injustice by indirect taxation. He warned them that increased production would never make farmers rich, a case in point being the present state of the potato market. Co-operation, controlling their own business, watching legislation were the main means to place the farming industry on an enduring basis of prosperity.

He described the efforts being made by the Society to secure ample supplies of clover seed, binder twine, &c., and urged that orders be sent in early to enable them to make best terms. They were making great importations of twine from Ireland at a satisfactory price, urging again loyalty to their own organization he closed amid applause.

Mr Donald McIlvride made a competent chairman and after some remarks complimentary to the address, called for God Save the King, which was loyally responded to.

Willie Hooper is visiting in Hamilton for the good of his health and is progressing favorably.

Pleased to see J. C. Harrison at church again, after his recent illness.

Sunday fishers with auto-ears from Durham, Hanover and Waterloo have more than once invaded our peaceful neighborhood, but henceforth they might do well to look before they leap into the farmers' meadows and perhaps they might see a notice to trespassers. Such notices are being put up and if these unwelcome visitors do not see them, it will not make them less liable to prosecution according to law.

Rev. John Leech, B. A., preached his farewell sermon in Ebenezer church on Sunday to a large congregation. His new field is at Angus. During the past four years he has added more names to the membership of the church without special services than any of his predecessors. He carries away with him the good will of not only his own church, but the whole community. He might be called a specialist in his own department of church work.

Miss Mary Halpeny, who has done much deaconess work in Toronto and missionary work in the West, is being married to day (Wednesday) to Rev. Mr. Kerr, Anglican minister, Moco Mills. She is an active and earnest church worker and makes a favourable impression wherever she is known. Whenever she was home she assisted in Christian work in this neighborhood and therefore the people unanimously united to give her a surprise by meeting at her home on Friday evening, 18th inst., and presenting her with the following address, to which she made a suitable reply. W. L. Dixon was voted to the chair and while Edna Dixon read the address, Thos. Weir and Philip Harrison brought in the presents. Among those who voiced the kindly feelings and good wishes of the tall household, which had assembled, were G. Geddes, K. Watson, A. McDonald, Mrs A. Sackett, and Jas. Weir. Thos. Weir gave his contribution in the form of a song, which was well received. After some further singing and some stories of Missionary work, which Miss Halpeny related in an interesting manner, the lunch was served, which the ladies had provided, and, concluding with Aid Lang Syne, everyone went home happy.

The following is the address: To Miss Mary Halpeny. Lot 18, Con. 21, Egremont: Dear friend,—As the time is drawing near for your departure from amongst us, we have met to express our best wishes for your future happiness and continued usefulness.

We would also express our appreciation of your helpfulness in Church, League and Sunday School.

We shall miss your kindly and friendly calls, but we will over-rejoice when you win the great victories of love and labor in your new sphere of life.

Accept then our best wishes for your future welfare, as well as also as the Ten Set and Ca: Glass dish as a token of our esteem and affection, and we will feel pleased to think that in the use of them, you will sometimes think kindly of your friends here.

Signed on behalf of the Ebenezer Church and neighborhood: Gladys Tucker, W. R. Watson, Mrs A. Tucker, W. L. Dixon

We have been having a lot of storms with some hail at the neighborhood of Regina and Jaw they have had some frost has damaged garden stuff and peas, but did not hurt grain much. Times through the west general are very quiet. The part of May I was on a trip that me to Vancouver and don't know Prince Rupert and I came back the G. T.
