Successful Test of Huge Conduit at Eugenia

Water Turned on for First Time

The huge conduit, representing the most difficult engineering problem in the development of the Hydro-Electric power plant at Eugenia Falls, has been tested and found satisfactory in every respect. The test was made a few days ago, when the water was turned on for the first time. There were a few minor leaks, but this was to be expected, and these were speedily repaired and the huge tube which conveys the water from the dam to the penstock, over one mile in length is now completed. The construction of this conduit was the most ticklish part of the work and the result of the test will be gratifying not only to the engineers in charge of the work, but to the citizens of the Owen Sound and other municipalities who are looking to the Eugenia plant for their future power.

The waterwheel and penstock, which have been completed by the Swiss contractor, were also tested, and were found satisfactory, or as a spectator said "it did not shed a tear."

The conduit between the surge tank and the power-house is constructed of toughened steel, but between the tank and the great dam the water is carried through a pipe composed of thousands of wooden staves, bound by iron bars at every six inches. This pipe runs along the level top of the hill for a distance of over a mile. It is constructed in a trench and will be covered by earth. The thoroughness of the job is reflected in a set of heaters that will operate by electricity to keep the water a little above freezing point at one section of the line where the pipe is liable to exposure to severe weather.

The conduit is about six feet in diameter, and can convey water at the rate of 300 gallons a second down a very steep hill 240 feet high. Under the pressure of the water in the dam, and the extreme elevation, it is estimated that the above mentioned volume of water is sufficient to develop over 8,000 horse power from two units.

To reduce the possibility of the steel conduit bursting a great surge tank has been introduced in the pipe line. It is located on the brink of the fall and is one hundred and five feet tall. Any interruption in the water flow would cause the water to surge about in this tank and come to a standstill gradually and without damage to the conduit.

The installation of the generator is well on to completion and may be started almost any time now.—O. S. Sun.

EDGE HILL

Mrs Hanna, of Mt. Forest, was the guest of her sister, Mrs W. McFarlane, last week.

Miss Ethel Greenwood left on Saturday to visit friends near Hanover for a few days before commencing to teach at Tara for the fall term.

Miss Mary Edge returned to Drayton, Monday, where she has been teaching for some time, to resume duties for another year.

Mr and Mrs T. Firth and daughter, Jean left last week for their home in Lindsay, after enjoying the holidays with friends and relatives around Edge Hill.

Monday's rain delayed harvest again and the frost which we have had the last few nights has frozen corn slightly and some tender vegetables in gardens in this district.

A Noble Mother

By James L. Huchee

For my dead son so dear, I shed a mother's tear, But in my heart I cheer, Tho' eyes be dim, True-hearted, strong and free, A just, kind boy was he, A loving son to me, Why mourn for him?

When duty's call first came, He went with heart aflame, And won an honored name; My valiant son, Had I more sons, they too Would be, I know, as true, And their freedom duty do, 'Till whole world do.

His place I cannot take, But for my dead son's sake New efforts I will make For home and right, No garb of mourning sad I'll wear, My heart is glad A son so true I had

To nobly fight, Friendly I saw him go With his young life aglow To meet his ruthless foe With hope and joy, Mine will be joyful tears, Mine will be grateful cheers, Through all the coming years, For my brave boy.

Mrs W. H. Martin, Bowmanville, when she heard her son was killed in France, said: "If I had another son I would like him to go too."

There are still some readers of newspapers and magazines who are heard speaking in terms of impatience and fault-finding with advertising. Probably the criticism is usually due to the propensity to speak first and think afterwards. There is no phase of commercial life of this era to which more earnest consideration is given than to publicity, or advertising, in multifarious ways. It is almost incredible what large sums of money are expended in this way. The work is not done in a haphazard way. Men of fine training, unusual natural brightness and resourcefulness are devoting themselves to the work in a constructive and generally helpful way which makes them almost equally servants of the buyer and seller. There has just been held in Chicago a convention of advertising clubs of the world, which was interesting and impressive alike because of its great size, the widely separated and remote sections represented, and the spirit which found expression. The pulpits of not a few of the city churches were occupied on Sabbath by members of the convention who delivered suitable and morally helpful addresses. The convention, as similar previous meetings have done, put emphasis upon applying conscience in business and condemned in definite terms the practice of deceit and untruthfulness in advertising goods of any and every kind.

The Western Fair

September 10th to 18th

The Prize List offered this year by the Western Fair Association is the most liberal in its history. In the Live Stock Departments the prizes are exceptionally large. The Horse stables have been disinfected very thoroughly under the direction of Dr. Tamblin, V. S., and everything put in first-class condition. In the cattle barns there will be increased accommodation, as last year tents had to be brought into service. A new sheep barn is being erected where accommodation has been provided for a very large sheep exhibit, as it is felt that the increase in the Prize List will bring out all the best flocks of Ontario. The prizes for grain and vegetables are also higher this year and there should be a large exhibit in this department. Prize Lists, entry forms, programs and all information from the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, London, Ontario.

MUST HAVE LICENSES.—There is a penalty of $50 for first offence, $100 for second offence and three months in jail without the option of a fine for the third offence for persons hiring or accepting money for the use of their autos without a chauffeur's license.

The People in and around Durham Want to Spend Money

MONEY is for use, not for hoarding. Most of us want what money will buy more than money, so we are always spending our money. Also, most of us do not make enough money to keep or hoard it—we must spend it on necessities.

Much Durham money is spent with firms outside of this community—with the big city mail-order houses; money that ought to be spent at home. More money would be spent in Durham if more of our merchants would advertise, and if those who do advertise would advertise more.

To the People in and about Durham

Spend your money at home. Sending money out of this community makes the community poorer for you and everybody else. Building up outside businesses won't help you any.
