HOLSTEIN LEADER

The Present World Crisis and Missions

MRS. BATMAN at Missionary Convention in Holstein. What is this present world crisis? This tragedy of the twentieth century? Do any of us need to be told of this awful struggle in Europe which is leaving in its wake desolate countries, ruined homes, bloodstained battlefields, widows, broken-hearted mothers, lonely wives and orphaned children.

LITTLE IRELAND

The weather has been favorable for this last week. Many of the farmers took advantage of it in the taking up of their root crop. Mr and Mrs J. Phillip, accompanied by Mr Wm. Moore, motored up to Mr Wm. Moore's last week. We have always heard the Ford car holds a great reputation for its great quality. We are now led to believe it is so, as we heard of a young man losing control of his car which made him come in contact with a neighbor's barn, shitting one of the posts over two feet. A furious engine passed through from the north. Puffing and snorting for all it was worth; Jim Tucker declared it was halloween night; Jim Moore and his better half got a great fright; Jim Tucker declared it was halloween night; The engine moved on till it came to Dave Hooper's dog; And eastward it came till it reached the hall hill; "It must be an earthquake," says Bob Moore to Bill. Now it Jonty is home, say won't it be nice; We will call at his shop and ask his advice; For he's just the lad to think out a scheme And we'll never reach home unless we have steam; Ed. Wells heard the noise and it made his heart sore; For he thought the Grand Trunk was cutting through to Dromore but the noise it passed on and made Lothians' laugh; For they thought all the time it was Scottie's black calf; "By the noise that it makes and the way that it groans," To his wife says Jim Allan "Here comes Casey Jones," For Casey was noted like all men who're late; For ransing his engine at a terrible rate; They again steamed her up and ran for an hour; When the babbits and steam gauge both went in a shower; Before these things ended there will be some one killed dead; For the steam gauge his Watson a rap on the head; I hope the names mentioned won't be much put out; For the joke among neighbors is well scattered about; Any names I have missed if ever they squeak; I'll give them a rub in the paper next week.
