A Year of World War

NE may get a swift comprehension of the results of the year's warfare in Europe by viewing the contrasts between the situation now and a year ago this time. On the western front slight progress has been made by the Allies, and there is opposing lines in France and Belgium remain practically where they talion at O. Sound, spent Christmas | were at the beginning of 1915. However, this line of about 400 miles in length has been altered but little. Hostilities between Italy and Austria began in May, and in October Bulgaria invaded Serbia. The uselessness of the German by the baptist Suoday School on of the year. The strongest squadron Thursday, 23rd, was a decided suc- affoat, that of Captain Spee, comprisess. There was a large attendance ing five cruisers, had been wiped out and those presant spent an enjoyable in the south Pacific ocean in December. A few cruisers were sailing in African waters and in the Pacific, raiding British commerce. Of these the Dresden was sunk early in the versity, spent Xmas with friends year, and the Prince Eitel Friedrich and Kronprinz Wilhelm were interned at Newport News. Finally on Jan. 24 Vice-Admiral Beatty routed the German raiding squadron in the North Sea.

> Throughout the winter and spring the submarine operations furnished the chief elements of public interest in the war. However, the situation on the Russian frontier began to take on new and striking phases.

The Russian chief, with his centre held to the Vistula west of Warsaw, sent an army to strike Koenigsberg, on the Baltic sea. Still another Russian force was operating toward the westward on the southern border of East Prussia, aiming to flank the German position before Warsaw. Making a fierce lunge on the Warsaw front early in February for a feint, the German general Von Hinderburg threw a column into East Prussia, surprising the Russians. This move compelled the Russians to abandon their attempts in East Prussia, and by the end of the month the Germans had pushed the foe across the Russian border. Meanwhile interest in the movements on the eastern frontier was enlarged by the developments southward, involving most directly Russia and Austria. The Allies under the leadership of Great Britain attempted in February to open up Constantinople for Russia. The movement began by a bombardment of the Dardanelles in February by Allied warships. This failed, but in March anis writing exams in the McMaster ed fire on the Turkish forts along shore. The ships were roughly handled, three battleships being sunk and two put out of action

This eastward sweep of the Germans promised important developments far to the north. Austria, May 24th the king of Italy declared war on Austria; hostilities were begun, and the Italians set out to capture Trieste. They crossed the Isonzo river, upon which Goritz is situated, entering upon the campaign which

Turkey has acted on the defensive in Europe, but in Asia threatened the canal failed, but early in December the British were forced to withdraw near Bagdad.
