As the contest is nearing a close, not only the contestants but their friends as well are taking a keen interest in the race. Each contestant has her little army of friends who eagerly await the publication of the next standing. Those who have worked hard have been repaid by seeing their names climb gradually nearer the top, while others who have not taken the same interest have fallen back. Anyone of the first ten could easily win out. It is not yet too late but friends of the contestants should remember that if they intend assisting anyone, the time to do it is RIGHT NOW. The contest has only a few weeks to run.
