NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong and active.

Wedding bells are ringing.

The Heart Cry.

The following lines appear in the May number of the "Canadian Pictorial" and for simple yet sublime pathos, could scarcely be excelled:

His little hands that shuddered in my breast,

His groping hands that stole me heart away,

His dimpled dirty hands that would not rest,

Do they be red this day?

His big blue eyes that gave me smile for smile,

That ran wild tears when, vexed with him, I'd scold,

His baby eyes that follow me bewhile,

Phwat do they now behold?

His feet, his dear fat stumblin' blunderin' feet:

Me heart feels steps a-thuddin' on the sod:

Me heart's a drum, he's marchin' to its beat;

Oh! kape him for me, God!

The Vacant Ranks

In a letter written recently to a friend in Ottawa, Serg. Leonard Allen of the 1st Field Co. Engineers, G.E.F., sent a recruiting poem written by a corporal in Durham who passed it to us.

On the road to Tipperary

There's a place that's vacant still,

There's a rifle lying silent,

There's a uniform to fill.

True, at home they'll hate to lose you

But the march will soon begin,

On the road to Tipperary

With the army to Berlin.

In the Morris chairs of Clubland

Are you there content to stay?

While others guard your honor,

While the German toast "the day"

For your King and country need you

And we want to count you in,

On the road to Tipperary

With the army to Berlin.

Have you seen the lovely crosses?

Boys who'll never more come home

Will you idle while they're calling?

Will you leave them there alone?

For they're calling, calling, calling

And they want to hear you sing

On the road to Tipperary

With the army to Berlin.

And from Mons they fought each footstep,

When their lips with pain were dumb,

'Twas the hope which held their trenches,

Never doubting you would come,

Through the frozen hell of winter,

Midst the shrapnel's racking din,

They have waited never fearing

You would meet them in Berlin.

On the road to Tipperary

There's a crimson debt to pay,

There's a land of awful darkness

Patient faces tired and gray,

Sobbing women, ruined girlhood,

Strew the trail of cultured sin,

Can't you hear the call for vengeance

Won't you join us in Berlin?

On the road to Tipperary

Sleep the boys whose work is done

Don't you hear the voices calling

To complete their work begun?

There are victories yet to win,

On the road to Tipperary

With the army to Berlin.

On the road to Tipperary

When the boys come home at last,

Won't you wish that you had listened

For old England's call had passed.

But the gate of manhood's open,

You your part may still begin,

On the road to Tipperary

With the army to Berlin.

Ford

Automobile prices are being raised—but the Ford price has been reduced $120 since the war began

The immense Ford cash purchasing power has made it possible to overcome in many ways the serious obstacles met with by other car makers because of the scarcity and advance in prices of raw materials.

The high Ford quality is strictly maintained—and the most exacting government tests have shown that Ford constructive material even excels that used in most high grade cars

This year the Ford car—always the most economical car to buy and to operate—beats all records for economy.
