JUNE 29, 1916

The Liberal Convention

The Annual meeting of S. Gray Liberal Association for 1916 was held on 28th June. The attendance was not large, but it was representative of the now extended riding, and with two such speakers as Scott-Davidson, M. P. P., of Paris and H. H. Miller, the day passed pleasantly away.

The officers elected are: Pres., Wm. Calder; 1st Vice, John McMillan, Artermesia; 2nd Vice, Walter Hastie, 2 Holstein; 3rd Vice, Jno. Boland, Fiesherston; Secy-Treas., T. H. Binie, Priceville.

Conveners were appointed for each of the 16 municipalities, and appointment of ward conveners was left in the hands of Pres., Secy., municipality representatives and the candidates. It was decided to hold a Nominating Convention in the fall and some other business was left over till that meeting.

Pres. Calder had not expected a large meeting. There was only one thought in the minds of all-war, yet it was impossible that conditions at Ottawa should escape criticism. He impressed the importance of attention to Voters' Lists of 1916 as they may furnish the basis of an election. He commended the action taken at last Convention of putting a candidate in the field in time.

Secy. Binie gave a report of membership, and of the conditions of the riding at present time as seen from his office.

Mr. Scott-Davidson, M. P. P., of Paris, spoken of as one of the coming men in the Legislature, gave an address that was marked by both earnestness and eloquence, and sound logic. There were things more important than politics, he said, and we would do well to live up to the standard set by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He scored Liberals in S. Gray and in the Province for indifference to their Associations and for lack of enthusiasm. Men should be put in the field earlier, this and attention to Voters' Lists often meant success. The government knows when an election is coming, we don't: let us keep our fences up.

He was proud of the part Canada was taking to-day, but recruiting was hindered now in Quebec by the action of the Conservatives in 1911, when they took to their bosom leaders of the Nationalists and rewarded them with high office, though some of them showed disloyalty to Britain. Even the present Speaker of the House of Commons, Severyn, spoke of shooting holes in the British flag. Speaking of our bravest of the war, he said it was exasperating that while thousands of our bravest were risking life and health, many in high positions were lining their pockets as proven by investigation into fuse and munition scandals, and even the government had allowed a scoundrel like Allison to make a rake off on transactions between them and the British government.

Speaking of local politics he claimed that in 1916, N. W. Rowell had practically been leader of the House and praised Premier Hearst that in some of his legislation he had sought counsel of Rowell. The temperance question should never have been in politics and it might have been out of it years before if Rowell's offers had been accepted. He touched on the enormous salary of $11400 paid to Hon. I. B. Lucas as a Minister and as a member of the Hydro Commission and caused a laugh by saying "He must have seen Allison."

In an impressive close he said Britain has to learn a lesson, must be humbled yet, especially in the direction of the liquor traffic. The mistakes were not all Germany's, we are in the melting pot, we have forgotten there was a God. The dread of the mothers for their boys was not for bullets or bayonets or gases, but for the dangers of moral collapse through unwonted temptations in Britain.

Mr. H. H. Miller, though speaking with difficulty from a cold, made one of his exhaustive speeches. He read from the Mail and Empire of that day words of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, charging Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a style almost criminal of being in complicity with other Liberals in rousing the bilingual question to make Quebec solid. He quoted extensively from Hansard, amongst other quotations being the Lapointe resolution in the analysis of which it was shown that there was no intention to interfere with provincial powers, as claimed by government supporters. N. W. Rowell had been criticized too for making speeches in French, while in the old land educationists and statesmen were urging France and Britain to learn each other's language with a view to unity and harmony. He showed most effectively the fallaciousness of the charges against Laurier, by pointing out his action, when in power, of opposing, and successfully too, the making of French an official language of N. W. Provinces.

He asked the audience to consider the patriotism of the government, as seen in their replacing our own Country man, Dr. Sproule, a loyal British subject, by placing in the Speaker's chair, the Nationalist Severyn, who about the time of the last election, was shouting against help to Britain and threatening to "shoot holes in the British flag."

He touched on the weak-kneed policy of the government in regard to temperance, the grafting and corruption in regard to fuse and munition contracts, to the famous "See Allison" methods, by which Canadian manufacturers were given the go-by and the British government swindled by avaricious Americans. He reminded them of the hollowness of the "no truck or trade with the Yankees" cry, when even Clifford Sifton, who broke with his party on the subject, was among the first to amass money by buying horses in Texas.

He read from Hansard his own speeches in 1908 on his attitude on bilingualism, which was the same today, and he would gladly spend five times the effort, even if he never entered parliament, if he could help to make in Canada a happy and united people.

In spite of Mr. Miller's hoarseness there was a fine closing in his closing which we cannot reproduce. Miller's ability, independence and platform power should be in the service of his country.

Resolutions of confidence in Sir Wilfrid Laurier and N. W. Rowell and their policies were heartily endorsed and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

DORNOCH

As we have not had rain for some time, a shower would do the crops good.

Ptes. George and John Ledingham, of the 147th, spent the week end with their parents here.

Mr. Will Jackson gave Dornoch his usual call the beginning of the week.

A number of folks around attended the Garden Party at Louise and report a very good time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dargavel and son spent Sunday with the former's mother and sister.

Sorry to hear Mrs. J. Watt's health is not improving very quickly.

Mr. and Mrs. McBeth, of Elderslie, visited with the latter's sister, Mrs. Wm. Smith, over Sunday.

Masters Harold and Irving Picard, of Toronto, are spending a couple of months with their grandmother, Mrs. R. Dargavel.

Miss Belle Cumming spent a few days with Miss I. Dargavel.

A meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the hall Monday. A large number of ladies attended, Miss Duncan, delegate, giving a very interesting address on "Girls of Today."

SOUTH BENTINCK

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Mather spent the week end with Priceville friends.

Pte's Fred Corbett and John Derby visited at their homes over Sunday.

The annual school picnic will be held in Mr. Wm. McCullough's grove south of Vickers, on June 29th. Everybody welcome.

Mr. Scott Davidson, M. P. P. of Paris spent a few days last week with his cousins, Andrew and W. J. Derby.

Mr. Wm., Misses Margaret and Ethel Derby, attended the wedding of their cousin, Mr. Norman Kerr to Miss Myrtle Caldwell on June 28th.

Mr. Alex. Grierson entertained a few of his Durham friends on Friday evening last.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Derby visited their son John at Niagara camp last week, and took in sights at the Falls and other places.

The members of the Womens Missionary Society of Hampden church, a week ago Sunday, presented Mrs. Allister Anderson with a handsome bible. The address read by Miss Jennie Cooper was as follows:

To Mrs. A. Anderson, Hampden.
Dear Friend,—

We, the members of the Womens Missionary Society feel that we cannot allow you to leave us without expressing in some way our regret at your removal and our particular loss as a Society. Since the organization of our auxiliary you have been a most devoted worker. Your time, intent and enthusiasm, you willingly and conscientiously gave to the Master in this branch of His work. The Hampden church, Bible Class, and choir will miss you greatly and we feel that your place in our little mission circle will be hard to fill. We wish for you and Mr. Anderson in your new home much happiness and the highest success. May your awareness of charities here be simply a transfer to even greater and more consecrated service in your new sphere of work. As a little parting gift we would ask you to accept this Bible and may it serve as a simple reminder of your former co-workers in the little missionary society in Hampden.

"The Lord keep watch between us Keep watch in tenderest love, Until our praises mingle Around the throne above."

Signed on behalf of the Hampden auxiliary of the W. M. S., Hanover, June 18, 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the afternoon C. P. R. train on Tuesday. They intend stopping at some of the large points on their journey and will arrive at their home at Medicine Hat on the 28th June. We wish them success and happiness in their new home.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form. Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Michael Wilfred McAuliffe who died June 28th, 1916.

We have to mourn the death of one we loved and to whom we were so dear.

Beloved on earth, regretted gone Remembered in the grave.

We loved him, ah no tongue can tell How much we loved him and how well Borne away from sin and sorrow To a better home above.

From our happy home and circle, God has taken one we love, God loved him too and thought it best To take him to his heavenly rest.

Yet again we hope to meet him. When the day of Life has fled, There in heaven we hope to meet him Where no parting tears are shed.

From his parents and sister

War Outlook

For some days great activity on the whole British front indicates that the "drive" has begun. Verdun is not yet in the enemy's grasp, nor likely to be if this drive succeeds. The line of the enemy has been weakened to meet the Russian advance in the East, and one may hope that now there will be a land victory equal to the battle of the Marne at least.

Russia is now threatening the invasion of Hungary, winning everywhere in the south and in the north a little more than holding her own.

Italy is now in turn chasing the Austrians in great style. Both sides have had marine losses.
