Golden Wedding

A very happy event took place on Thursday, July 6th, being the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr and Mrs. W. J. Wilson et Boothville. At four o'clock about sixty invited guests gathered at their home where they first settled when married fifty years ago. Mrs Wilson's maiden name was Sarah Parslow. Their happy union was blessed with eleven children, of which three sons and seven daughters are living, one son dying while young. The three sous are Jas., Wm. and Noble. The cause of this revulsion of feeling is not in the candidates, F. Wellington Hay of Liston wel who won or Jno. A. Makins for both are worthy men.

There have been four bye-elections since Sir James Whitney died and all showed the same tendency ; West Hamilton dropped from 1400 Conservative majority to 36, Dundas from 673 to 62 Peel from 627 to a Liberal majority of 305, and now North Perth from 1117 to Liberal majority of 623.

Looking elsewhere for the cause of the landslide, some Conservative papers find who they say should have rallied to the support of a government that gave them provincial prohibition instead of joining forces as is alleged with the liquor men; Why should Temperance Liberals go Has Rowell ever weakened in his antagonism to the trade? Is he more likely than Conservatives to give favors to liquor? If the tory candidate has lost candidate did not angle for it. If the ford, last week, party has lost their liquor friends of I914 by adopting the Liberal policy, the Liberals are not to blame. The Premier, four members of his cabinet, and Conservative M. P's from Ottawa strove in vain to hold the riding. The pitiful efforts of Mr Lucas to emphasize the fact that the temperance act was merely a war measure was plainly meant to appeal to liquor men who were expected to reason that Rowell would not be satisfied with that limit. For Mr. Lucas even more than the Premier the vote is slap in the face.

Saturday's London Advertiser con-

"The news of the death of Lieut. John Mills of the 70th Battalion was received here with the keenest regret. The young hero was well known in Tilbury, as he lived since early childhood only about two miles east of town, in the township of Tillsury East. For a short time he was junior in the Dominion Bank here.

After he entered the army he was a frequent visitor in Tilbury, and in conversation with some friends in town shortly before he went overseas, he said that he realized fully the chances he was taking, but that he would rather die for a principle than
