1,400 NURSED BY SWISS French and German Prisoners

Neutral Ground The work of bringing back to health and activity the hundreds of sick and wounded war prisoners who are not so hopelessly wounded as to be eligible for repatriation is described in despatches from Switzerland.

It is in this healthy country, among the kindly people of the various health up resorts, that many of these prisoners who have been transferred from he crowded prisons of Germany and France are being nursed back to health.

They are still prisoners, of course, and will remain so until the end of the war, but their chances for recovery in Switzerland are far greater than in the necessarily uncomfortable quarters in France and Germany.

The arrangements for the sending of wounded prisoners of war to Switzerland were originally made between Germany and France and Germany SEED POTATOES, IRISH Carman. and Belgium, but negotiations for a similar agreement between England and Germany have been nearly completed. About 1,400 sick and wounded prisoners have already been sent BOX NAILERS, SAWYERS the health resorts of Switzerland, 500 LABORERS, good wages. Apply Germans and 900 French. The guarding of the prisoners is implified by an agreement with the Governments of the soldiers that all who manage to reach home will be returned to Switzerland. The camps are under the supervision of sanitary officers of the Swiss army medical ficers chosen from among the prisondepartment. Non-commissioned ofers are entrusted with the maintenance of discipline among the men. It is probable that, so successful has been the experiment, the number of prisoners in Switzerland will be greatly incrased. The sick and wounded men are selected at the various prison camps in Germany and France as cases sufficiently serious for transportation to Switzerland by medical commissions composed of two Swiss medical officers and a physician of the country in which the soldier is held. These commissions, of which there are twenty, move from camp to camp selecting the worst cases. Supervision over their work is exercised by a superior commission of three French an two Swiss physicians at Lyons, or three German and two Swiss at Constance. The judgment of the inferior stance.
