

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. Try it.

Soldiers Want Conscription

C. C. Ramage Gives Impressions of a French Camp Base.

Dear Mother,

France, Camp Base, B. E. F. Though I have no message of special interest to you, still I am going to write as it will help to while away time which hangs like lead on our hands. If I only knew how, I believe I would feel lonesome at the monotony of life here. but as I have been so much on my own feet, for many seasons past, that experience is not in France is so much different from my merry and easy life in Blighty, that the contrast of London and camp is as different as the Red Sea to Noah's Ark. I have been hanging round the base for a weeks now and our draft is still here. We are certainly "fed up" but as it is impossible to go back, we will bless the day when word comes to go forward and face the music, notwithstanding it is the unholy music in the world.

I left Orpington and a "duration position" with stripes and higher emoluments not because I wasn't satisfied but because I felt it was my duty to come to France. I know I would never have been content to remain so leisurely in England without having tasted the bitters of life in France. Once here; and if it is possible for me to return to England safe and sound, I would be contented to stay there until peace is declared. I know you may possibly be anxious as to hazardous life at the front. One feels it more that way thousands of miles away from the scene of action than on the immediate ground on this side. The life in the army is rough and easy and once you get its swing you develop faith and a certain sang-froid for your existence and you don't care a button for the future. The lot is shared by all and it's luck whether you get a passage to eternity or to Blighty. The chances to live through the fray is not counted on by many and is therefore scarcely ever taken into consideration. This is rather cold-hearted talk, but I have put down in black and white the situation as it is to all.

To-morrow (Sunday) is Dominion Day and there is to be a great day of sports to be held among the Canadians at the base. But there is an event of interest which is to take place as early as 6 o'clock in the morning. On the far side of the camp, there is a cemetery where thousands of brave Britishers sleep their last sleep. They lie in graves two and three feet deep and their graves are marked by little wooden crosses, bearing the soldier's name and regimental description. The grave yard is kept in good condition and is more than a memorial to Canada's manhood. At this burying ground, the Canadians will assemble at 6 a. m. where a consecration service in memory of their dead will be held. It will be a beautiful token of respect and will likely tell you about it in my next letter.

There is a terrible struggle over the Conscription bill in Canada and is rendering a schism in the parties. It looks like as if it will carry on account of many liberals supporting the Govt. The soldiers here are not saying much on the question but I believe the majority favor it, not because they wish to drag their fellows at home into the fray, but because they feel that many more men will be needed before victory comes to our arms.

Two days ago, in company with a friend, Cpl Winslow, I paid my first visit to a French town and my impressions were such that I do not wish to pay a second visit to this particular place. It is very squalid and dirty and the streets smell like a garbage incinerator. The refuse was dumped on the streets promiscuously and no system of drainage whatever. One street was named "Rue San Sens" meaning "street without smell." They must have had a nerve to call it by that name as it was worse than any other. The buildings were old and run down and the inhabitants were chiefly peasants. Many kids ran about without a stitch on their bodies while Paris fashions do not bother the majority of the women or girls. Many of the old women wear corsets outside of their blouses and about wearing the old fashioned white kirtles on their heads. Men were few but those we did see were poorly dressed.

The nicest sights of the town were the church and graveyard. The church is full of statues of the Saviour and the Madonna which are nicely decorated with French roses and blossoms. One altar in the centre of the church was especially interesting. The statues of the Saviour and the Virgin were draped in the folds of the tri-colored flag of France while encircling the whole were the flags of the seven allies, the stars and stripes being also in their place. I am not very well versed with the R. C. form of service, but I must say it was beautiful to see the simple yet sublime faith which the worshippers showed as they knelt at different altars, murmuring their prayers to the saints and counting the beads on the rosaries.

Outside, the graves of the dead were lying close together and no ground is wasted in that churchyard. The great majority of the graves were decorated with artificial flowers, made of celluloid, beads and china-ware. I must say the flowers looked very real. Another thing that struck me as curious, was the fact that many of the graves contained photos of the dead.

We had our supper in a French restaurant where I had my first taste of new potatoes this year. Any French I had learned in school was almost useless to me but Win slow who can lingo like a native, did the talking and interpreting.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

YEovil

Good haying weather and our farmers are busy.

A number of our citizens spent an enjoyable evening last Friday at the garden party in Holstein. Some are also anticipating a pleasant time this evening at the picnic at Hamilton's Lake.

Our patriotic society expect to have their concert between haying and harvesting.

Mrs Hiscock returned home on Monday after a pleasant visit at her brother's R A Nicholson.

Mrs Carter of Gladstone, Mich, is the guest of her parents Mr and Mrs Jas Brown.

Miss Roberta Philp enjoyed a few days visit at Vickers with her friend, Miss Edna Reay. Mrs Philp's sister, Mrs McDonald and son from Hopeville spent Sunday with them.

Miss Ethel Smeaton of Medicine Hat B C is visiting her aunt Mrs N Long.

Miss McKay returned to Buffalo accompanied by her little nieces, Lorraine and Maxine Swanton.

Clinton Bunston arrived home from Toronto last week to assist with the haying and harvesting.

Percy Whyte spent the week end in N Arthur at W Langdon's. Miss Josie accompanied him home and speaks of a pleasant holiday.

According to last week's Review's Entrance list we notice that we made a mistake in reporting an honor pupil for No 10. However from No 9, Miss Tena Merchant not only took honors but won Dr Jamieson's medal given to the one taking highest marks in South Grey. Tena is the second pupil who by ability and diligence has brought honor to the section. Some years ago, W. Hiscock, writing in Durham but in those days no medals were given for South Grey. Who will be the third? Let every pupil in the section say "I'll try I'll do my best."

Letters from France report Alex Whyte and John Ross visiting the rest of our boys who are out of the trenches for their divisional holiday, which we hope they will all thoroughly enjoy. A field card from Bert Dyers, dated July 6, reports him in the hospital, wounded but not seriously.

ORCHARD

The farmers are having favorable haying weather and the crops are very good.

Mr Walter Hoeflin, Toronto is home for a few days to help his father with the haying.

Mr and Mrs W T Pinder and daughter Norma visited the week end with Guelph friends.

A number from here attended the garden party at Holstein Friday evening. All reported a good time.

Mr Adam Douglas has treated himself to a Ford car. He took his first trip to Listowel Sunday accompanied by Mrs Douglas and daughter Bell.

Reports on the crop situation in this locality are indicative of an excellent harvest this year. The hay crop has turned out above expectations, and in some places the best crop in years is reported. The intense heat has been most trying, for cutting and drawing in, and with labor scarce, the farmers are being hard rushed to produce a banner crop, of which so much will be required by Britain and the Allies.

Friday evening the appearance of Mr John Brown's lawn corresponded with the weather both tending to make the garden party a success. The large lawn was decorated with flags and lighted by means of electric bulbs and artistic Japanese lanterns. The crowd began to arrive about seven o'clock and a light lunch was served at the tables. Amusements in the form of a fish pond and bean contest afforded much excitement for a time, the prize of one dollar in the latter being won by Miss Daisy Irwin. A considerable amount was raised at each of these as a charge of 5c was made for each privilege of fishing or guessing.

Towards nine o'clock the Hon Dr Jamieson took the chair and commenced the excellent program with a short address. Following him there were speeches by Rev Mr Scott, Rev Wm Lovegrove, Mr Rowland of Walkerton, and before the closing Lieut Pinkerton and Major returned soldiers from Walkerton gave stirring addresses. Music was contributed in the meantime by the Durham quartette Mr Misteis, Mr McCrae, Mr Glass, and Mr Saunders, Mr Albert Woods of Mr Forest and Mr Troy on violin. Mr Troy also entertained with bagpipe selections during lunch. Three little girls, daughters of Mrs Rorke, Toronto sang a couple of times, the first number "I want my Dadd" making a tender appeal as their father has been overseas for two years. Miss Nicholson of Yeovil recited an interesting piece. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to all those who had so ably assisted in the program and afterwards the evening closed with the singing of the national Anthem. A total of $126 was realized.
