SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

When Sir Robert Borden announced that the Military Service Bill was signed and asked that Sir Wilfrid Laurier consent to name him a member of the committee...

We have no doubt that there were some hot partisans who were disappointed as well as surprised at Sir Wilfrid's acquiescence...

CRAWFORD

Intended for last week. Harvesting has commenced at last. The wet weather last week looked rather discouraging to the farmers...

Mr Walter Brown from Chesley called one day at Mr Robert Twamley's. He brought up twenty-five head of cattle at a good price.

Mrs Alex Stewart and Miss Kate Walker left last Thursday for a couple of months' visit in the West.

Mr Frank and Miss Etta Twamley visited at Robert Ledingham's, Dornoch last week.

Mr and Mrs Sam Oliver, Owen Sound, Mr and Mrs Robt Ledingham, Dornoch and Mrs Arnold, Warton motored to Mr Alex McDonald's and Mr Edward Boyce's of this vicinity last Sunday.

Mr Will Campbell has treated himself to a new separator. He has his threshing outfit now complete and is awaiting the fall threshing to commence.

Miss Jessie Ledingham of Welbeck visited her cousins, Misses Jessie Twamley and Utra McDonald last week.

Miss Nell Henderson of Detroit is visiting at her home here.

Miss Gladys Campbell leaves Saturday for Toronto to attend her position there after spending a few weeks' holidays with her parents here.

Rev Mingie of Montreal preached in the Methodist church last Sunday morning, his subject being chiefly on the Lord's Day Alliance work. A large congregation attended the service.

Mr George Harris of Elmwood has recently sold his property on the 12th con to Mr Hugh of Paisley. We understand Mr Harris got somewhere near $5200 for the property.

ROMANTIC CALIFORNIA

The Wonderful Canadian Building at San Diego

(Miss Belle Hay, granddaughter of Mr and Mrs Robt Hay, Dornoch, has had the privilege lately of touring California. Her letters to her grandparents show her to be an intelligent observer as the extracts below will show.—Ed.)

California is a wonderful place for sightseeing. So many visitors come here from all parts of the States and Canada and great efforts have been made to attract them as it appears much of the prosperity of this country is gained by the money spent here by outsiders.

The roads are wonderful. Thousands of miles of cement pavement has been made in every direction making the country ideal for motoring. We can start out in an afternoon and make a trip of one hundred miles and be back for supper without being tired owing to the smoothness of the roads, and then there are so many varieties of scenery. To San Diego we took the coast route, and for miles and miles our road ran along with the ocean on one side and mountains on the other.

We have climbed many of these mountains in different parts. One of them it was twelve miles from where we started to climb until we reached the summit, and it is wonderful how many motor cars are seen always on these trips. We have estimated that we have met as many as five thousand in driving twenty miles.

At San Diego the climate is warmer than here, and they tell us there is very little change in the temperature both winter and summer.

Probably the chief attraction there is the Canadian Building with its exhibits which was a part of the exposition recently closed, but this building is still open for the tourists, and we, as Canadians, were very proud indeed, and much interested in the splendid exhibits of our products and natural resources of Canada from the east to the west are portrayed in miniature.

Special emphasis is given to the Canadian west, and wheat fields are shown with binder, and threshing machines working, and the wheat is followed through the elevators and railroads to the Ports at Fort William and loaded into the boats that carry it down the lakes and it is so interesting to watch the little trains running in and out and from the elevators and the boats as they move up and down as if guided by human hands, and still there is no visible way of knowing how they go into the right places at the elevators to be loaded and then move on their journey. One really has to see this wonderful exhibit in every department of this great Canadian building to fully appreciate it, and to understand why we have heard so much from visitors who have been there in appreciation of its magnificence.

Our visit to old Mexico eighteen miles south of San Diego was more for the purpose of crossing the border than for sight seeing. Great numbers of people seem to have the same idea and crowds were there with little interest to see outside of the Mexicans and a great race course where horseracing is carried extensively and Tipuana is the Monte Carlo of America. Possibly one of the most interesting trips for the tourist is in the interior such as Riverside, and Redlands which are the orange centres of California. I will never forget the wonders of these two places. At Riverside we climbed Mt Rabidoux where the auto road winds round and round the mountain until it reaches the summit where is placed a great cross and one of the old Mission bells in commemoration and as a monument to the days of the Missions that is so closely interwoven with the early history of California.

Here also at Riverside is the Mission Inn noted for its wonderful collection which is claimed to be the finest in existence of the relics of the early days. This consists of antique furniture, paintings, tapestry, musical instruments, Cathedral and Mission bells old china and many other relics of the past for generations back. The Inn is laid out and furnished with the idea of giving comfort to its guests. Fireplaces cosy nooks, big easy chairs, birds singing, and flower bowers, old water wheels running and quaint ideas in every corner, and still a magnificence about which attracts the most wealthy tourists so that it is often difficult to secure accommodation there.

At Redlands the place of chief interest is Smiley Heights. Here millions have been spent on a mountain to bring to perfection men's cleverest ideas in the arrangement and cultivation of shrubbery and flowers. Altho' up to this time we had passed through many beautiful avenues of trees and flowers this surpassed, and we could not help but think how wonderful it was.

This country is so different from the prairie country of my home in Canada. Here mountains are ranging through every part of the state and cultivated parts are in the valleys and after being used to the broad stretches of cultivated land in our own country this resembles more of an orchard or flower garden. Very few fields of grain are to be seen through the parts that we have been in and viewing it from the top of some of the mountains we have climbed the valleys have the appearance of the suburbs of some city the houses are so close together. Their farms or holdings here consisting of only a few acres of land often not more than five and we are told that it costs from one hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars an acre a year for the care of an orange orchard.

You will no doubt be tired of reading about California but when one is here who has not been used to the sights which this country affords they are filled with wonder and enthusiasm, but however interested here the mind constantly wanders back to the homeland.

Heaps of love to you both. Sincerely, Belle Hay.
