of chivalry and honor against an enemy that practices the last villainy of barbarism.

We fought you twice. We were enemies. But after a hundred years of peace the hate has gone from our hearts and in the great crisis of the world we come together, brothers in arms, side by side to do our utmost against the common enemy of mankind.

You have your mannerisms, as we have ours; our accents differ, but we see, and salute, your uncovered hearts, hearts of oak, of fine courage, of unswerving tenderness.

America is with you to the last dollar, to the last man, to the last reserve of inventive resourcefulness.

What are our little differences, our commercial rivalries, when the common foundations of our civilization are threatened?

So where you and France and Italy stand we stand. Our battleships line up with yours. Our boys from Kansas and Connecticut take their place in the trenches with yours from Australia and Canada.

We are not fighting for Great Britain, nor for France, nor for Italy, nor for America; neither are you. We are in a league that shall never be unbroken, for humanity, for all free peoples everywhere.

Our cause is one. We go on with this war, not to further any national ambition not to wreak an ignoble vengeance, but with a high purpose upon which we can pray for the blessing of the Saviour of the world, because we fight to save the world.

Stand fast, O British! We are coming. And we will see this thing through, whatever happens.

Here's our heart, and here's our hand!

The Durham Review

JULY 4 1918

The Damnable Huns

The latest tale of horror to freeze the blood and stiffen the determination of all Canadians to crush the brutal Huns was told last week.

A Canadian Hospital Ship returning from Halifax to England, was treacherously torpedoed by a submarine when 20 miles from Ireland. It occurred at 10.30 p. m. on 27th June. The ship was fully marked with Red Cross signs, brought out in electric lights, yet without warning she was struck, sunk in ten minutes and 234 men and woman out of 258, all non-combatants, found a watery grave.

But worse must be told. When the deed was done the submarine scurried amid the wreckage with the evident purpose of sinking all survivors and "leaving no trace." A boat load of nursing sisters was seen to upset by the wash of the submarine and all went down. Among the 24 survivors was the captain. He had been interviewed by the sub-captain and charged with carrying American Aviation officers and munitions, both charges false.

The survivors had drifted 36 hours with only scant supplies of ship biscuit and water. They are convinced the enemy tried to ram them. This is murder, not warfare.

Independence Day

To day is the 4th of July, Independence Day in the United States, and never before have Canadians, British and French taken such interest in it. France is declaring the day a public holiday and all allied countries extend best wishes.

To mark the day nearly 100 ocean going steamships are to be launched this day in the United States. Uncle Sam has his coat off. More power to him.

To You, O British!

We are indebted to Mr D. N. A. McPhoe, of Congress Park, Ill., for a copy of the "Canadian American." From its pages we copy a striking apostrophe to Britain, under the above heading, which reflects the fine new spirit of brotherhood existing between the two English speaking nations. The author is Dr. Crane and his heart is in the right place:

To you, O British, our hats are off. You have fought a good fight; you have kept the faith.

Night and day, in storm and fog, in wind and hail and angry seas, your fleet has kept faithful watch for the tiger ships of the enemy. You have kept his ironclads in their Lode. They have not dared to come forth.

Undaunted you have met the menace of his sneaking submarines. You have borne uncomplainingly the wounds of his piracy.

He has shelled your unprotected towns, bombed your peaceful cities. He has gloried in dishonor and inhumanity that he might cause you fear and break your spirit. But you have gone grimly on.

Your sons, highborn and common, have leaped to the breach to keep their pledged word with Belgium.

You have met with unbroken battle line the overwhelming masses of the foe. You have built the ramparts of civilization with your British dead.

You have poured out your treasure like water. You have not spared your young lives.

You have not suffered France and Italy to fall unaided. You have clasped hands with them in a grip of brotherhood that only death can dissolve.

You have maintained the traditions of chivalry and honor against an enemy that practices the last villainy of barbarism.

We fought you twice. We were enemies. But after a hundred years of peace the hate has gone from our hearts and in the great crisis of the world we come together, brothers in arms, side by side to do our utmost against the common enemy of mankind.

You have your mannerisms, as we have ours; our accents differ, but we see, and salute, your uncovered hearts, hearts of oak, of fine courage, of unswerving tenderness.

Latona Garden Party

Miss Barber held her annual picnic on Thursday which was a great success. The most important thing was the married women's race. The winners were: 1st Mrs Klein. 2nd Mrs Plead, Mrs B. Dargavel. Coat race, married men and women: 1st Mrs Klein and Mr Sheltrough; 2nd Mrs Plead and Mr G. Davidson; 3rd Mr and Mrs B. Dargavel. After the races a ball game was played between Williamford and Dornoch. The former was the winner. It don't look good to us.

A garden party was held on Friday night at Latona school grounds which was a good success. After all was over the young people prepared a platform and danced till it was time to retire before daylight. The proceeds go to the Y. M. C. A.

Mr Angus McIntosh arrived home from Niagara on Monday to spend his vacation with his sister.

Mrs Alex McIntosh Sr is spending a few days with Miss McIntosh.

Mr and Mrs John Hand of Dakota, also Mrs John Cameron are renewing old acquaintances in and around our burg.

Will the customers that have placed their orders for Spirella Corsets and those intending to purchase, please do so at once. Mrs J. C. Nichol, Spirella Corsetiere.

Favored with a splendid evening, the garden party held on Latona school grounds last Friday night was a success throughout. $80 was taken in at the gate and almost $60 at booth leaving nearly $100 clear after expenses are paid.

A sumptuous supper was first served and the teacher's father, Mr John A. Black, of Chesley, was the jovial chairman, who ably handled a fine program. This included several numbers of Durham Presbyterian choir, which were much enjoyed, a duet by Mesdames Lauder and Stonehouse, a girls chorus, a trio by the Mortley children, recitation by Joe Davison, some fine violin music by Pat Malone and Jas. Hewitson, mouth organ and drum music by Stewart McArthur, and a humorous Irish recitation by the chairman. The feature was a play "War on the Western front" which was excellently given by some of the school girls under the teacher's training. Mrs Jas. Crutchley had a busy evening as accompanist.

The garden party held on grounds one fine evening was quite a success. Last week's Review.

people deserve much credit for good attendance for any in Priceville. The choir cannot be surpassed and ready to respond when a Surely Priceville is in debt returning the compliment to large gathering in Durham.

Miss Jessie F. Black is in S S No 10, Glenora, a $50 in her salary.

Dr. Hutton will visit professionally Monday and of each week from 9 a. m. until further notice.
