

To win this war every ounce of the strength of each of the allied nations must be put forth to meet the organized, trained and disciplined efficiency of the Central Powers—that gigantic, ruthless force which is the result of fifty years of planning and preparation.

And every ounce of every allied nation's strength is in the hands and brains and hearts of the individuals of each nation, because they are free peoples.

Now the individuals of each nation must live as well as fight, therefore a proportion of the effort and material of each nation must be diverted from war purposes to living necessities,

So the less each individual takes for himself or herself for personal use the more effort will there be left for fighting and winning the war.

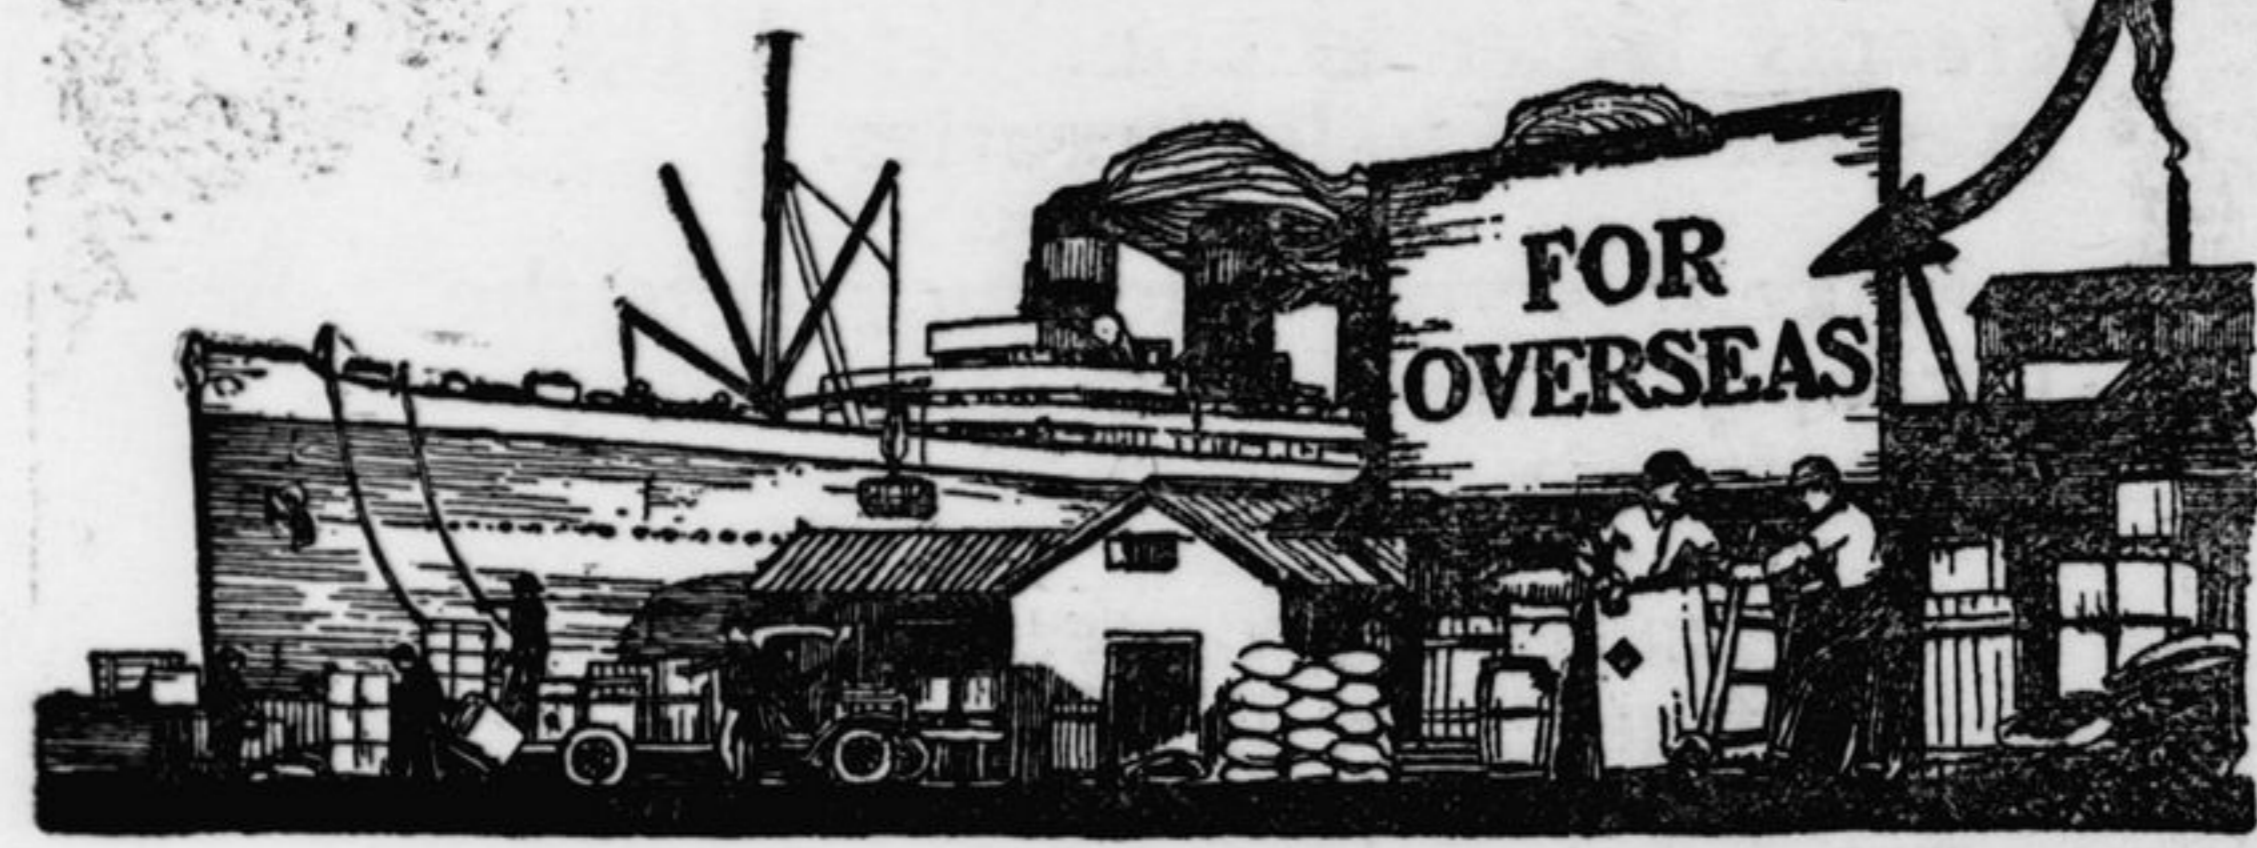

Every cent you spend represents that much effort because somebody must do something for you in order to earn that cent—somebody's effort must be given to you instead of to the war.

Therefore the less you spend—the less of somebody's effort you take for your individual use—the more will you leave in the national surplus for war effort.

The war can be won only by the surplus strength of the allied nations. The money each individual saves represents that surplus strength.

So the truly loyal Canadian will use less, spend less, and save more, to help to win the war.

Last week we reported Pte. Alex Whyte being seriously ill in a hospital in Boulogne, France, having been gassed. On Saturday came another message stating he was dangerously ill and on Monday the sad news arrived that he had died on Sept. 3 of bronchial pneumonia. Alex was born June 15, 1894, and spent practically all of his life here until Dec. 1915 when he responded to his country's call and joined the 147th, which went overseas the following October. After several months in England, he went to France and the trenches where he paid the great price. Alex was one of our pleasant, popular, social young men and his many friends regret his early death—cut off in the flower of young manhood—and sympathize with his widowed mother in the loss of her eldest child also his three sisters and two brothers and other friends.

Pte. S. Waterman is in Stourbridge Hospital, Eng., a piece of shrapnel having penetrated his left hand, leaving only the thumb and first finger of any use although the others may come all right in time. About 40 of their platoon were cut off by enemy ten times their number of the enemy, who had machine guns on all four sides of the Canadians, many of whom fell but, he said, six "boche" fell for every Canadian and had their bombs not run short they could have cleaned up the whole German battalion. Pte. Waterman was given an iron cross by a Fritz Captain for taking his prisoner instead of shooting him. He also has a book of German official photographs of the war and several other little souvenirs. He found many paper bandages, paper sandbags and even paper boots showing that some material is running short on the other side of the lines.

Letters, photo and an English newspaper testify to the pretty church wedding at Bognor, Eng. of Pte. Harry Moss to Miss Margaret Taylor, adopted daughter of the late Richard Sacey Hodges and Mrs Hodges, formerly of the National and Provincial Bank of England Branch at Bristol. The paper describes the exceedingly handsome gowns of bride, mother and attendants. The bridesmaids were Miss Irene Evershed and Miss May, little daughter of Lady Lilian Mann. A numerous body of friends and relatives were present. Lady Mann being specially mentioned as looking charming. After the ceremony a reception took place at Queen's Hall attended by friends and patients of the bride, who since leaving the Almeric Pagent Military Massage Corps has been carrying on the private work in conjunction with Dr. Rey of Bognor. Toasts were given, the health drunk with musical honours and dancing began. Later the happy couple left for Southsea to spend their honeymoon. One guest in response to the bride's toast said the merriment ought to consider himself lucky in being able to gather such a charming English rose. A long list of very beautiful presents of gold, silver (useful and ornamental) gold articles, cut glass, jewellery, &c., is given of which we shall quote only a few: bridegroom to bride, gold mounted filled purse hand bag; bride to bridegroom, diamond ring and gold mounted fountain pen; Mr Lacey Hodges, old gold diamond brooch, string of pearls, gold mounted violet plush prayer book, silver, and Angelus piano. Mr and Mrs Evershed, silver tea service. Sir Wm. and Lady Mann, gold chain bracelet and blue silk sports coat; Sergeant-Major and Mrs Wren, a china afternoon tea service; Miss Mahowed, a dressing case and wedding veil of very old Brussels lace. Harry's acquaintances and friends in this vicinity wish him long and happy married life with his English rose.
