PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

THE GLEN

Mr John McArthur, Mr and Mrs D. J. McArthur and family, and Miss A. McCannel visited friends at the Rocky one evening lately.

Mr and Mrs W. T. Brown and Elizabeth, and Miss E. M. McCuaig attended the wedding of their brother, Mr F. D. McCuaig.

A number of Durhamites spent a pleasant evening at the home of Mr and Mrs Walter Ewing, recently.

All from this part who participated in the surprise party to Mr F. D. McCuaig and bride on Friday night, had an enjoyable time.

Mr John McArthur returned to his home in Sask. Saturday.

Miss A. M. McCannel left the Glen on Saturday on a visit to her home in Proton. I wonder if she went further than Proton Station.

SAUGEEN VALLEY

News is not so plentiful as usual in this vicinity, but as a certain good old college professor used to say to his students "when you can talk of nothing else talk about the weather." So we must turn to the weather and

McCuaig—Lawrence Nuptials

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr and Mrs Anthony Lawrence, Glenelg, when their daughter Nancy was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr Finlay McCuaig, son of Mr Arch McCuaig, Glenelg. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock under an arch of evergreens and flowers and was conducted by Rev. F. G. Hardy.

Promptly at 5 o'clock on the arm of her brother James, the bride took her place, gowned in white silk with the customary wedding veil and carrying a bouquet of white flowers. Her niece, Miss Reta Lawrence played the wedding music.

Congratulations followed the ceremony and following this a beautiful laden table was partaken of. The remainder of the night was spent in social diversion. Many handsome gifts were received, the gift of the groom to bride being a pearl necklace and to the organist a brooch.

The happy couple take up residence on the groom's farm at Mulock, in Bentinck formerly occupied by Mr Dan McDougall. The good wishes of a host of friends go with them for a long and happy life together.

HOPEVILLE

Our thaw of Saturday, Sunday and Monday, has brought a cold this Tuesday a. m. and wheeling seems the best way of conveyance just at present.

We are sorry to report Mrs Will McEachnie under the Dr's care. Her sister, Mrs H. Haw, Swinton Park, is in attendance.

Mr. Wm. Barnett went to Toronto Tuesday a. m. to meet his son, P. A. H., expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Word was received by telephone Sunday of the death of Mr Rodrick McEachnie, near Owen Sound, brother of Mr. Neil McEachnie Sr of our village. Mr Sandy McEachnie, Mr Alex Ferguson and Mr Joe McEachnie went Monday to be present at the funeral.

We heartily welcome to our midst Lieut. F. W. Dea'rb, who has spent four and one half years overseas. Fred was slightly gassed, also a shrapnel wound in the hand. In spite of all the war hardships, Fred looks wonderful, having enlisted when only a lad of seventeen but is now a stalwart soldier.

Our St. Patrick's concert Monday evening was not a bumper as we had hoped for owing to the state of roads and weather. But Dromore club were here nevertheless and furnished their part of the program to their credit. Many hearty laughs were to be heard during the visit to 'Plum Valley.' Rev. Graham, C-darville, is always a most welcome chairman and Mr John Gillespie very ably sold the boxes. Proceeds $28.00.

SWINTON PARK

Mrs Lobsinger visited Hancver visited Hanover friends this past week.

Miss Janet McDonald is able to be out again.

Mr Wm. Sackett, Toronto, is visiting Mr and Mrs A. B. McDonald.

Mr John Porter has moved on the farm lately vacated by Mr W. G. Porter.

A number of Mr and Mrs W. G. Porter's friends gathered to spend a social evening with them before they left the community. They also presented them with an address and purse as tokens of their respect for them. Miss Ruth Stewart read the address and Mr Walter Broughton made the presentation.

Mrs Martin of Hanover is the guest of Mr and Mrs John Porter.

Mr Andy Black and sister Miss Jennie visited at Mr Jas. Hay's.

Mr Wm J. Knox had the misfortune to have his house destroyed by fire.

Mr John Aldcorn has moved on to the main street of our burg.

Mr Richard Hard, returned from a visit to Stratford friends.

The Hun and his Work

Gunner Andrew Smith relates experiences in Belgium

Andenne, Belgium, Feb. 21st, 1919

Dear Mother,—

In one of your last letters you seem to expect us over there any day, but getting over there, at least to the other side of the Atlantic, is going to be a slow job. At present there are no indications of our getting away from Belgium and France before April.

We're not doing anything here at all, just simply waiting. The weather has turned quite springlike, snow is all gone and the frost is about out of the ground, leaving the roads quite sloppy. But a few more days of sunshine like we're having and they'll be more passable.

I, as well as most of the other drivers of the Co. are sleeping in real beds, being billeted and go to our cookhouse for meals in a factory building a few blocks away. I have a room and bed all to myself being the only soldier in the house. I might mention that the man's business at the place I'm sleeping is that of a foundryman. My attention was first drawn to it by a photo taken in the shop of his men and himself.

This morning he took me for a walk to his shop to show me around. I found it to be a fine modern affair, situated near the main line of railway that goes through to Liege and for all points in the country. When the Germans came through here in August, 1914, they used the moulding shop as a stable and the yards as a gun park, wrecked the yard housing engine for heavy logs and so on. They also sold the machines, planes and all valuable machine shop tools and sent them to Germany.

After leaving the shop we went for a walk along the Meuse and he stopped me near a brick wall nearby where a few wooden crosses with the name and date of death of those who lie beneath. There are about 50 names there in all and every one was a civilian, mostly young women between the ages of 18 and 30 and men about the same age. There were also a few men of fifty or more.

They were the victims of the German policy of terror when they came down the valley of the Meuse from Liege in Aug. 1914.

In this little town of Andenne there were over 200 people shot dead, many of them mere children. The wall I've referred to was a fatal spot for many as it lay where the bullets chipped the bricks. To show how finished the Germans were about it, the relatives were forced to look on while the firing party did the job.

At Dinant, a larger town not far from here, 600 and more were murdered in the same way and at Louvain which was mentioned in the papers much at that time in Canada, the Germans were more savage than ever, so if you people meet any one who tries to tell you those crimes were never committed by the Germans, don't believe them.

It was a mighty good thing for the people of Bonn and thereabouts, that the Canadians on their way to the Rhine didn't have a chance to see the proofs of Hun culture to be seen around this locality. It will never be safe for generations for a German to show himself in this part. He wouldn't live long enough to say his name.

The Belgians who live all the way between Mons and Brussels and from there to Liege are known as the Walloons who speak French and are a desirable race of people to meet and are the backbone of the country. Before we got into Mons the only Belgians we would meet were the Flemish who live about Xpres, a dirty mongrel tribe of people who would sell their country for 5 francs.

This would be a fairly pretty town in summer I would think. There is another valley not far from Andenne, the valley of the Sambre, between Charleroi and Namur. I read of it two years ago in a book about the retreat from Mons. So last December on our way to the Rhine to look good care I had daylight to come

Summer Courses in Agriculture

Owing to the fact that the accommodation for teachers attending the Summer Courses at the Ontario Agricultural College has reached the limit, provision has now been made by the Department of Education for a Summer Course in 1919, leading to Part I of an Elementary Certificate in Agriculture, at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, in addition to, and running concurrently with, that provided at Guelph, which will be held as usual.

The Ontario Agricultural College will provide for two hundred in Part I Elementary, all who are qualified for Part II, Elementary, and all those who wish to enter the course leading to any Part of an Intermediate Certificate.

All the Summer Courses in Agriculture open on July 8, 1919. This date is later than formerly, owing to the late date of commencement of the departmental examinations.

Application for admission to the courses will be received immediately after the syllabus will have been issued.

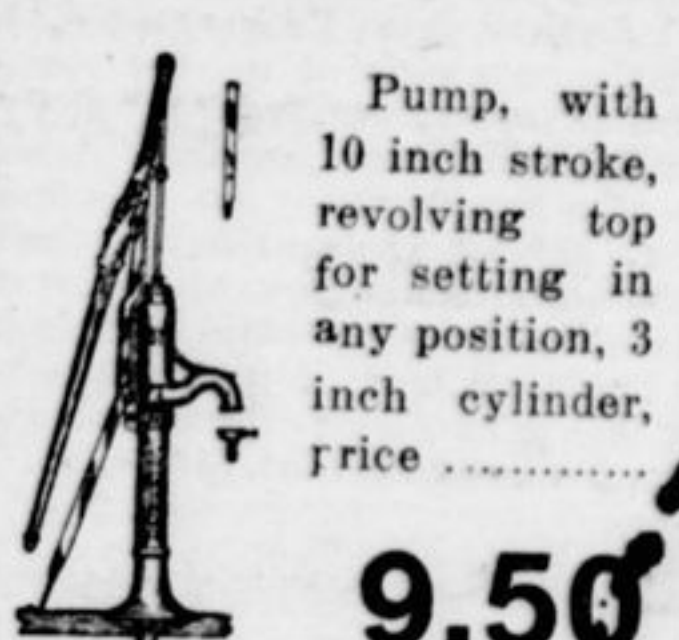

It is expected that those living east of Toronto, who enter for Part I of the Elementary course in Agriculture will be accommodated at Whitby Ladies' College which can care for one hundred and ten students.—D. B. Dandeno, Inspector of Elementary Agricultural Classes.
