Guarding Orchards From Frost.

One of the oddest methods adopted for the protection of fruit trees against frost is to distribute through the orchard paper bags filled with shavings that have been soaked in fuel oil. This can be done in a hurry in case of emergency, the stuff being ready in advance.

The bags are set on fire-just touched off with a match-and clouds of smoke spread through the orchard, serving as a blanket.

PAINTING becomes necessary as your property increases in value, and as property was never so valuable as today there is a greater need than ever for that kind of paint which actually preserves the surface and thus saves the entire house.

This spring, to make a real job of it, use ENGLISH 20% Pure Whits Lead

PAINT 30% Pure White Zing because it combines permanence, covering capacity and economy If B-H "English Paint" was dearer than it is, it would still be the most economical—the shorter life of other cheaper brands makes them more expensive in the end. It contains the famous Brandram's Genuine B.B. finely-ground white lead-70%-to which is put 30% of pure zinc-a guaranteed formula that no other paint can boast. To this mixture is added fine turpentine and linseed oil from the B-H mills, which is of a quality in keeping with the other ingredients. When you use B-H Paint you will notice its "body" and brilliance-you will compare the extreme covering capacity with other brands-the permanence you will be able to prove by other ex-mind it nearly so much as some people might. I took care of my over pony when I was a little girl. "Well, you don't have to take care of these domestic animals," he said

After two days I began to think the captain had forgotten, but the kind ness of madame and the smiles of her engaging son, aged four years, make the atmosphere more bearable" On the third day, however, while, I was tossing a medicine ball with some of my boys, the captain appeared sudden ly and announced that I was to move Of course, I could only thank him and obey orders, so I climbed into the waiting camionette and, escerted by a detail of four men, drove to my billet. Two of the men took down the electric lights and wires, which they had put in for me, and the other two as they said, mobilized my equipmen-They looked at my family photographglanced into my few books and tried on my Boche helmets. "I'll say it's some rag," said Bill. "Say, sister, won't you wear it for us We'd love to see you all dolled up in

"It's against the rule for me to wear civics, but maybe I can dress up fust for fun sometime," I answered as I replaced the gown and went on with my hasty packing.

An hour and five minutes after I received the captain's orders, my belongings were settled in my new billet and I was back in the recreation room at camp. But that evening, when my guard of honor took me to my new billet, for I was never permitted to return from my nightly duty alone. one of the men said a little shyly. Bill Jenks told me you had an awfully presty dress. Would it be too much trouble to show it to Shorty and me" "No, indeed, Red," I replied. "Come
