Visitors to the Durham cemetery lately are conscious of a check to decent and orderly feelings by the conditions at present existing. Weeds and ragged uncut grass suggest the necessity of concerted action of some kind to preserve our well respected as well as to make beautiful the city of the dead. Can the Directors amongst their other labors of love do anything to initiate this action?

DURHAM JUVENILES WIN FROM HANOVER.—In a close fast game Durham juveniles defeated Hanover seniors on their own ground Friday, July 16. In the first period Durham started out with fast combination and tallied three goals before the Hanoverians got their bearings. In the second period the Hanover team strove and netched two goals. However the Durhams were determined they were not going to be outscored and held fast the one goal lead till the final gong. The Durham defense played a steady game and used their legs to advantage while the home played good combination and took chances on boring in on the nets. This team should make a showing in the semi finals. The Durham line was goal: E. McDonald; point: Hilton Rowe; cover: Harry Kress; defence: H. Mountain and C. McGirr; centre: N. Zimmer; inside: Cliff Buschen, Sherwood Rowe; inside home: Willie Vollert; Outside: Irving Elvidge. Hanover will play the return game on Wednesday, July 28. Come out and see the juveniles perform.

Many Pass Entrance

28 from Durham School—8 with Honors
Cecil Wiggins, Durham, Highest in the Inspectorate

On Monday the anxiety of scores of pupils and their friends was set at rest by the appearance of the Entrance results. No examination catches the imagination of the public as does the "Entrance" and to abolish it as some propose would raise an outcry.

Mr Jno. A. Graham has sustained in town his fine record in rural schools, not only in the number passed, but in the proportion of honors. Further, a pupil of his in 1919, Katie Kelsey, stood first in the Inspectorate, and this year, Cecil Wiggins, also his pupil has the same honor.

To these two go the Dr. Jamieson medals for 1919 and 1920, the interest of the Dr. in education being in no way affected by the ups and downs of politics.

Miss Floyd, of Top Cliff school has the rare distinction of passing her four pupils and all with honors. Miss Jessie Clark, Latona, had three of her four take honors and there are several others almost as good as well seen.

At O. Sound centre only one pupil from rural schools took honors. At Durham centre there were eight, substantiating a claim often made, that Durham was the intellectual centre of County Grey.

Who Ordered Removal?

After living at Durham station for several weeks some road machinery was removed last week but removed by train to Dundas in Wentworth Co. and not as originally intended to continue operations north of this town. One wonders who has the pull to accomplish this removal, and our County Road Committee including our Reeve, was consulted. The public of this community will look to the Reeve, the Board of Trade, or the Council to stick up for a continuance of the road-making just begun last year.

Church Declared Vacant

Memorial Services

Sunday forenoon last a severe storm of thunder, lightning and rain played havoc with S. School and church attendance, but Rev. Mr. Scott, Holstein, Moderator of Durham Presbyterian congregation, got through it all but had a smaller congregation than usual to speak to.

The interior reflected the congregation's loss, the black and purple draping of the pulpit, the exquisite grouping of white lilies, foxglove and other flowers on pulpit, platform and organ, all were reminders of the sorrowful occasion. These flowers were there by the initiative, the labor and the love of Miss Ruthford and all hearts were warmed by her thoughtful and tasteful display.

Rev. Mr. Scott, while performing his official duty, took occasion to express his regret at the death of Rev. Mr. Whaley, whose friendship he valued since college days. As moderator he asked them during the vacancy to be in their place every Sunday. It inspired the candidate to do his best and enabled them to judge of his quality.

He would esteem it a favor, he said, if the congregation would inform him of the manner in which they would like to have the memorial service, so that he might be able to select a suitable service to their late reverend pastor.

He took his text from I Cor. 1:30, "Christ Jesus, who of God is made into us wisdom and righteousness and sanctification and redemption."

God, he said, had done wonderful things for us, and the text was a full inventory of God's gifts to men. The qualities mentioned were those lost by the fall and regained through and by the finished work of Christ and union with him.

THE MEMORIAL SERVICE

A crowded church, seats in the aisles, bespoke the interest in the commemoration of the death of the late Mr Whaley. Rev. Mr. Scott presided and gave out the Shepherd psalm as an opening piece, after which Scripture selections were read by Rev. Mr. Mills of Drayton, followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. McEwen. Baptisms were performed and the Methodist choir to allow of their people mingling in the service.

Mr Scott in the announcements, again urged regular attendance during a busy period and promised a hearing of six candidates before a choice was attempted.

Rev. Mr. Mills conveyed the sympathy and greetings of the Presbyterian body to the family and the Presbytery felt the loss only a degree less than the congregation. Mr Whaley was held in the highest esteem not only for his work's sake, but for the wise counsel he was able to give and for which he would live in their memory.

Rev. Mr. Lemon, Clifford, the third delegate from the Presbytery, before entering on his sermon, paid tribute also to the deceased. They all looked up to him with respect and affection. His text was taken from Matt 20:23, "Whosoever will be great among you let him be your minister," and he said there were few places a man could minister to his fellow men in the gospel ministry. A quality of a gospel minister must have an abiding faith, enabling him to say with Paul "I am persuaded" and with John "I know." These features of the minister are essential and the life of such a man speaks more than his words.

He also dealt vividly with the pastoral work, a work which could not be tabulated, but many would be able to point to his ministry as being helpful, while all felt the stimulus of his earnest christian spirit.

The choir at both services had special music. In the evening they gave as one voluntary, hymn 620, with the words "Good Night" refrain, one verse of which is "Only Good night, beloved, not Farewell. A little while and all his saints shall dwell. In hallowed union, indivisible, and with this we close."

Royal Arch Masons Lodge Here

Last Friday was a busy day in A. F. & A. M. circles here when seven brethren were present from Toronto, instituting Durham Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. The local lodge is both aggressive and progressive and this new Chapter is a step higher in masonry than could previously be attained here. It will be the only Royal Arch Lodge in this district of eight Lodges. The newly elected officers are: Principal—E. S. D. Croft; Principal II—Dr D. B. Jamieson; Principal I—E. A. Hay; Treasurer—W. S. Hunter; Chief Sojourner—E. D. McClocklin; Senior Sojourner—D. C. Town; Junior Sojourner—C. Cross, Hanover.

The event was fittingly celebrated by a fine banquet in the evening in the library basement at which the visitors, local members and their wives or sisters were present, in all about 60. The banquet was laden with an abundance of good things to satisfy the inner man, tastily served by several of the local brethren. During the conclusion of the banquet, Grand Scribe E. Henry T. Smith of Toronto, acting as Toastmaster, proposed the toast "The King" which was heartily responded to. Other toasts following were: "Our Country," "The Ladies," and "Visiting Brethren." "The new lodge," proposed and responded to in excellent address by the visitors and by ex-Premier Hearst, Dr Jamieson, W. E. Clark, Mayor Grant and Dr D. B. Jamieson. "He gave the creation" of the evening in a stirring narration of Canada's opportunities, prospects and resources. The local brethren were highly pleased to entertain this distinguished statesman brother mason and Lady Hearst as guests. Interspersed with the toasts were eulogistic numbers by Entertainer by D. B. Patterson of Owen Sound and E. D. McClocklin and an instrumental by Miss McDonald. The genial Toastmaster stated they had conducted this banquet as similarly as possible to those held in the city, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Special tribute was paid in address to Mr. W. E. Clark for his activity in promoting the visit of the Toronto brethren to establish the new lodge here.

July Weddings

DUGGAN—PETTY

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr and Mrs Chas. Petty at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when their youngest daughter Grace, was married to Mr Walter Duggan of Flint, Mich., by Rev J. L. Small of Hespeler.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin and veil with orange blossoms and carried roses and sweet peas. Miss Marjorie B. Moore of Wilson, N. Y., played the wedding march and "Love you Truly" and "Blessure" were sung by Mr Kenneth B. Moore.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, after which the young couple left for a boat trip to Ft. Arthur. On their return they will reside in Flint. The Review adds its congratulations.

RUSSELL—MORRIS

A very pretty marriage ceremony was solemnized in St. Peter's R. C. church, Aytun, Wed. morning, July 14th, 1920. The Rev. Dean Halm officiating. The principals in the ceremony were Miss Catherine, daughter of the late Thomas Russell, now of Aytun, and Joseph Morris, son of the late Patrick Morris and Mrs Julia A. Morris of Normanby.

The bride was assisted throughout the ceremony by her sister, Mrs Lesmie Russell, wife of Mr. Lynett of Galt, a cousin of the groom, acted in the capacity of best man. Promptly at 9 a. m., the happy party alighted from two motor cars, driven from the homes of the bride's mother and although "Old Sol" did seem just a little grouchy with his rays on that particular morning, yet the clouds soon dissipated and what? though a few copious showers had sprung from their earth, the spirits of this young couple who had pledged fealty and fidelity to each other and were now about to consummate those pledges before God.

Quite a number of the friends and relatives assisted at the nuptial high mass and after the knot was securely tied, the happy party repaired to the home of the bride's mother where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served.

Owing to a late family bereavement, Misses assisted at the nuptial proceedings were invited guests, but in attestation of their popularity in the community, many wedding gifts were sent in by well wishers from the surrounding neighborhood as well as from other parts.

The bride was beautifully attired in white georgette with satin and pearl trimmings and wore a veil of white net caught up with Lily of the Valley and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid looked neat in a dress of ivory crepe de chene with bead trimming and wore a white milan hat. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful emerald pendant and to the groomsmen a pair of gold cuff links.

The afternoon was spent in social amusement until about 4:30 p. m. when the young couple left by G. T. R. train for their home in Galt, where Mr. Morris holds a lucrative position and where during the past months he has purchased a home and in his leisure hours has been furnishing the same. Thus having all things in readiness for the lady of his choice to immediately establish herself as queen in her own household, they have embarked on life's matrimonial voyage, and the wishes of their many friends are "bon voyage"—Com.
