ON THE TRAIL OF ENGLISH CRIMINAL

ROMANTIC HISTORY OF NEW SCOTLAND YARD.

"Power-Station" of the Finest of Police Forces, Famous the World Over.

How many people are aware that Scotland Yard draws its name from the "magnificent palace, with large pleasure grounds extending to the Thames," which was once the old London home of Scotland's kings? -

It was on the site of this old-time royal palace that the Metropolitan Police had their headquarters, when the "new police" were formed by Sir Robert Peel in 1829. And when, a quarter of a century ago, these rather sordid quarters were exchanged for the somewhat grim and fortress-like building which dominates the Thames at Westminster the name went with them, and the prefix "New" was added

It is the nervecentre of England's detective system, for it is in this room that the council, composed of the chief experts in every branch of crime, hold their meetings to unravel the tangled skeins of

All the available evidence is thorcughly sifted, deductions are made, a plan of campaign is drawn up, and the whole of the complicated and farreaching machinery of Scotland Yard is set to work, under the collective guidance of the cleverest detective brains in England.

No less wonderful is Scotland Yard's work in tracking persons lost in London, who number over 30,000 in an average year. Let us take a typical case, that of a young clerk who disappears as completely as if the earth

---Volcano as Lighthouse.

This volcanic lighthouse is about eight miles inland from the port of Acajutia. It is a veritable pillar of cloud by day, and the flash of its light by night has been valuable to mariners for years. It can be seen far out at sea, and a burst of flame has gone up every seven minutes without the variation of a second for many years. A lighthouse fee is collected from all vessels that put in at the harbor nearest the volcano, and no skipper objects. He knows that the volcano is more reliable than the lighthouses kept by human beings on other coasts, and the novelty of the light is worth the price charged by the Government.
