KARSTEDT BROS., Priceville

PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

PRICEVILLE AND TOP CLIFF

Quite a number from this vicinity attended the party given at Mr D. McFarlane of Rob Roy, in honor of his daughter, who was recently married to Chas Moffat of Edge Hill. Mrs Graham of Priceville spent a few days with friends in Durham at Mrs Duncan McDonald's and J. A. Graham's.

Wood seems to be plentiful this winter as we see piles of it at every house in town and much cheaper than last year.

We had a long letter lately from Rev Mr Matheson of Mono Mills in formerly of Priceville. He is getting along well at Mono Mills but will forget Priceville where he came 24 years ago.

The Spinners' Convention held in Watson's Hall on Thursday evening last was well performed and a crowd of ball so good for the ladies. We wonder if the Bachelors will have a convention in the near future. Surely they are not afraid to reply to the good spinners. Mrs Mino (nee Maggie McDonald) of O Sound, is visiting her friends here and elsewhere this week. Finlay McPhail of Toronto is up at present seeing his mother who is dangerously ill. John Stohart shipped a carload of stock Tuesday last week and was paying fairly good price. Mr and Mrs Jones Sr., of Toronto, are at the manse with their son. Rev Mr Jones and family. Smellie was cutting poles with his gasoline engine on the south line lately and has a lot to do there yet. The obliging banker, Mr B. King, representing the Standard Bank is always on hand at the time specified. An eloquent plitician was pouring out his eloquence as a speaker and when his stock or supply was about being exhausted he said, "Gentle men, who will I say next? A voice in the audience shouted "Save amen for goodness sake and sit down." So we will say amen now and quit after filling 10 pages of 6 x 10 of printer's paper.

[Balance of budget (an interesting story of eleven times) crowded out, and will appear next week.—Ed.]

BUNESSAN

The home of Mr Donald McFarlane, Durham Road was crowded last Wednesday night with friends and neighbors who had gathered to honor and spend a social evening with his daughter, Jean, who last week became the bride of Mr Charles Moffat of Edge Hill. The event of the night was when Reeve McCuaig took the chair and after giving a brief, pithy address called upon Miss Elizabeth McCuaig, teacher of the section, to read the following address to the newly-wed couple, while Mrs Arch. Reston presented her with a
