The "New North"

A Sportsman's Paradise

To men who spend their vacation fishing, hunting or canoeing, Canada is first among the countries of the world for the opportunities it affords for indulgence in either of these inviting, invigorating and exciting pastimes.
But there is one part of the Dominion which is particularly inviting to the sporting fisherman, the big game hunter or the canoeist. It is what is aptly termed Canada's "New North," reached via Cochrane, and comprehends that vast stretch of virgin country contiguous to the Canadian National Railways. Transcontinental Division extending across the upper part of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec for a distance of over a thousand miles, with Hudson Bay as its northern limit. To quote a traveler who knows it well: "It is a virgin country just as God made it."

To the sportsman this northern country is a veritable paradise. Within its vast forests there roam at will nearly all species of big game common to the North American continent. Of the big and burly moose it is the home. Red deer have a wide range and in some sections are numerous, while caribou are to be had by the hunter who seeks them in their feeding grounds. In several districts bear are to be found, while the smaller fur-bearing animals are common to a wide range of territory.

Disciple of Izaak Walton will find in the numerous rivers and lakes all that the most ardent of them can desire, both in regard to extent and variety of fish which abound in their waters. Lake, or grey trout, ranging in weight from six to twenty pounds, are common to several of the lakes. Waters in which speckled trout abound are easily accessible, although, naturally, the more remote districts the better the sport. In some of the rivers and streams are to be caught speckled brook trout, known also as the square tail trout weighing from five to seven pounds. Good bass fishing is to be had in certain parts and particularly in northwestern Quebec. One species of fish which is common to some of the older parts of Canada not found in this far-northern country is the musk-ogong. But in some of the waters flowing into James Bay are to be caught the lordly sturgeon, sportsmen having landed fish of this species ranging in weight all the way from twenty to two hundred pounds. In the waters contiguous to Hudson Bay excellent salmon fishing is occasionally experienced. Pike and pickerel are common to the waters of this northern wild.

To the canoeist who seeks adventure in territory beyond the fringe of civilization the waters of the northern parts of Quebec and Ontario afford ideal facilities. Rivers, many of them mighty streams which for generations have served as highways to adventurers, fur-traders and trappers bound to and from Hudson Bay, are almost beyond compute in number, the country being eroded-ironed by them. Wonderfully interesting canoe trips, either extended or limited, are available. Take for example the six routes to Moose Factory all of which find their way into Moose River about 30 miles south of Moose Factory on James Bay.

The Origin of the Jazz

There is a story going the rounds that a man who lived close to a suburban railway yard once wrote a complaint to the Railway Company in the following words:
"Gentlemen: Why is it that your switch engine has to ding and dong and hiss and spit and clang and bang and hiss and bell and wail and pant and rant and howl and yowl and click and clank and chug and moan and hoot and toot and crash and grunt and gasp and groan and whistle and wheeze and squawk and blow and jar and jerk and rattle and jingle and twang and clack and rumble and hangle and ring and clatter and yelp and howl and hum and snarl and slam and throb and crink and quiver and rattle and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek like hell all night long?"
We've read that over carefully and appreciatively! We've been there ourself.
We don't quite understand that word crink. That seems to be a new one. But the rest of 'em are correct to the sixth decimal point.
Trouble is though that these noises are no longer confined to the railway yards. We think it must have happened like this: One time a struggling young musician, spending the night but not sleeping in a cheap hotel situated alongside the dim red and green switch-light dotted stage of such a performance evolved from it the inspiration of that unspeakable row that is now known to the world as jazz music.

Except that this latter has no smell that the accompanying smoke is not a direct product, but only the incidental smoke of the dancers' and diners' cigarettes, and that we are still in doubt about that word crink, the description fits perfectly.
Nice little bowie-knife, isn't it? Sharp, too! Yeh! If we only knew who that musician was!

We regret his removal from the life of the community, where he has been a public-spirited citizen, and a leader in promoting clean sports in the village and district, as well as an efficient M. D. May success follow him wherever he decides to locate.

Little Robbie, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Calder, Yeovil, had an experience one day last week which was serious and painful and he will not soon forget. His elder brother was cutting hay in the orchard when in some way the little fellow got in front of the cutting bar, the result being one foot being severed with the exception of a little at the back, the bone being cut clean off about two inches above the ankle. Dr's Mair and Sneath were on the scene in a few minutes and bound up the wound and in all probability the foot will grow on again.

Institute Picnic at Holstein

Durham, Holstein, Dromore and Glenden Women's Institute branches, held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Holstein and County President for this year. This event is looked forward to with considerable interest by the members and their friends, and when the weather man smiles kindly on them, as he did Thursday last, it was "easy sailing" for the rest of the day. The lawn in front of this farm home could not be better adapted for an occasion of this kind, and the shade trees generously hovered over one hundred members and well wishers of the Institute, who cannot perhaps, be present at all the monthly meetings, but wish to keep in touch.

Six cars conveyed the Durham members down, and we think carried the bulk of the program material of the afternoon. Mr. A. E. Trout, O. Sound, Superintendent of the Children's Shelter, was present and addressed the ladies and did not forget to thank them for the great work they were doing in assisting the unfortunate in the Shelter.

Other addresses were given by Messrs Thos Allan, J. A. Graham and Wm Irwin, the latter also reciting a Will Carlton poem.

Mrs. Thos Henderson of Durham, contributed a thoughtful paper on "Compare the seed sown in our lives." Mrs. J. S. Mcraith of Durham, had the paper of the day, "Child Welfare" prepared by her daughter Mary, who is engaged in Social Service work in Toronto. This paper was warmly commented upon for the thought it entailed in preparation and was most fitting, seeing it had a direct bearing on what the energies of these Institute branches are now devoted.

The musical end of the program was well sustained, a chorus of five ladies from Dromore being well received, as well as a solo by Miss Bena Bunston. Miss Craig, a visitor present for the day, and Miss Florabel Nichol of Durham, contributed piano instruments.

The program was capped by a generous lunch provided by the Holstein branch, and all readily took part in this section of the program.

God Save the King closed an ideal afternoon. We heard one lady and member remark that she thought a little more time might be devoted to sociability and not such a full program. There were those present who seldom saw each other and they felt the impropriety of conversing during the program, but found little time after to devote to personal intimacy.

Quite noticeable in the published results of the First Year's Arts course of the University of Toronto is the large number of names which are followed by subjects in brackets indicating the failure of the student to pass in these branches of the course. Naturally the question What is the reason for so many apparent failures. Any one who knows anything of undergraduates life cannot help but conclude that too much jazz and too numerous social functions have contributed to bring about this highly undesirable result. The unfortunate tendencies at the universities nowadays is to emphasize the social side at the expense of the serious or thoughtful part of student life and in consequence too many members of the first year class follow the precept, "If study interferes with pleasure, give up study." Happily, many repeat of their folly before it is too late; although there is still too great a disparity between the numbers of the first and later years.—Wingham Advance.

We are glad to report that Marjorie Stephens was one of the successful Entrance candidates.
