At the Methodist Conference, Toronto, figures were shown that they have paid up $1,024,000 out of a total of $1,827,513 promised in the Forward Movement. The Hamilton Conference came next highest in the per cent paid up.

The local paper is one thing by which strangers judge the size of a locality and the ability of its business men, hence the paper that does not show the advertising of every enterprise is forced to misrepresent it. The paper is a mirror that should reflect a community's true picture and every business conducted therein—Acton Free Press.

A Lady for M.P.P.?

Rumors are plentiful in North Bruce that there is to be a woman claimant for the U.F.O. nomination in the Ontario Legislature, Mrs. Duncan McKinnon of Alton. Mrs. McKinnon at recent meetings in that district has shown her ability as a chairwoman, and in every way is favorably commented on for that position. Her husband was twice a candidate in Arran Council but defeated both times. However it is claimed his wife is a much better organizer and speaker and it is quite confident she would get at the nomination the vote of nearly every lady delegate. If she secures the nomination and wins out, her somewhat docile partner will be known throughout the Riding as the husband of Mrs. Duncan McKinnon, M.P.P.

WHAT WANTED.—Highest price paid for any quantity, at the Peoples Mills Durham.

With economies that have been effected in the Post Office Department, a reduction in letter postage of two cents may be made in a few months. A return to the old penny postage will be welcome.

Mr. Richard Whittaker, a farmer near Cayton village, met with a heavy loss last Friday by fire which destroyed his large and well equipped barn together with the entire crop of the season. While threshing sweet clover about three hours after starting, the fire broke out at the rear of the straw stack and spread rapidly. Its origin is a mystery as no one was near it and the power used was a gasoline engine from which there would be no sparks. The engine and machine were saved. Mr. Whittaker had $3,500 insurance but his loss will far exceed that.

PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

PRICEVILLE VILLAGE

The fair and warm weather during last week was very favorable for potato digging. We expect to have a good fall fair on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 5th and 6th. The exhibits will likely be numerous and with lunch and refreshment booths on the grounds, also several tents containing amusement, games, etc., have been promised for the midway on Friday.

It was expected that water could be secured at a depth of 16 feet at the Fox Ranch, but indications are that double that depth will be required to get a supply.

The beautiful black foxes bring numerous visitors to the village, some on business intent, others sight-seeing. The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Whyte were quite ill the past two weeks, but seem to be improving at end of last week.

Miss Jones, Artemesia Street, has been under the care of Dr. Carr for some days. Mrs. T. A. Ferguson who has been in bed ill for two weeks, was improving a little, being able to sit in a chair part time on Friday and Saturday last week.

The village is full of excitement to-day in hopes of seeing a basket ball game between Boothville and Durham on Friday, the 6th, at the Fall Fair here.

PRICEVILLE AND SOUTHLINE

An old dardky whose dwelling place was in a small hut dug in the side of the hill sang, "That the fall ob ce year comes in October, Am some-time drunk and seldom sober." Well we are into October now and the beautiful weather we are enjoying for the past few weeks will be soon changed. The woods are turning the color of the aged veteran who bore the burden of the heat of the many summers past and gone now as the color of the woods indicate that winter is approaching fast. So it is with the aged pioneer for his time is approaching also.

The highland race of Priceville and vicinity will remember Sunday, Oct. 15th, 1922, when their old pastor, Rev. Mr. Matheson of Mono Mills is to preach (in the old now forsaken language, the Gaelic) at 11 a.m. in the Gaelic and in English at 7 p.m. He will also be at Swinton Park at 2.45 p.m. (English of course there.) We hope for the sake of honoring their aged fathers and mothers, that all who should understand the old language will attend by they far off or near. The obliging lady that is organist will kindly officiate at the organ as usual and if the leader fails, the music still goes on all the same.

We were pleased to see our lady M.P. Miss McPhail in our church last Sunday.

Potato digging is the order this fine weather. We hear some complaining of the potato rot caused by a blight some time ago. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Brown of McWilliams, spent part of an afternoon lately visiting their uncle, Mr. Donald McDonald, who, we regret is not feeling as well of late as he would like. John Ferguson and sister Miss Sarah of Proton, and sister, Mrs. Colin McLean of Priceville, spent an afternoon at the McDonald's, South Line, Glenelg.

Mr. Donald McLean of Toronto, and son and daughter, are visiting friends on the South Line at present. Mr. McLean was an old South Line, Artemesia boy, where he came to about 70 years ago when a small boy. Born on Sept. 27th, on South Line, Glenelg, to Mr. and Mrs. John McEachern, son. Congratulations.

Miss Ada McLean of Toronto, who spent a month visiting friends in Durham and S. Line, Glenelg, leaves for Toronto the latter part of this week. The Saugen River is getting very low, and some wells are going dry.

HOPEVILLE

Miss Jessie McEachnie, of Toronto, has been visiting her numerous relatives in this part. Miss Ruby Philip, Dromore, Mr and Mrs. Sam. Mills and boys, were recent visitors at Mr. D. S. McDonald's. Miss Edna Webster was home from Toronto for a short visit. She returned to the city last week, accompanied by Miss Berta.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M. P., was a visitor at her grandmother's, Mrs. MacPhail, and aunt's, Mrs. A. McEachnie's.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan. McInnes spent over the week end at their son John's in Arthur.

S. S. No. 4 expect to be well represented at Proton School Fair to be held at Ventry on Tuesday and will make a brave attempt to carry off some prizes.

Hopeville Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Christie on Thursday last. On Wednesday, Oct. 4th, the ladies of the Society purpose meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. Wale to finish a couple of quilts. A little boy arrived at the home of Mr. Harold Love, Sunday, Sept. 17th. With so many new recruits, Hopeville residents need never fear a Turkish invasion.

Miss Ellie Sturrock is home from Elgin House, Muskoka, where she spent the summer. Piper McEachnie has been attending various fall fairs, assisting with the musical part.

Inspector Wright visited our schools last week.

Friends and neighbors purpose expressing their sympathy to Mr. Chas. Wale and family by presenting them with a purse of money this Tuesday evening. The boys of the section had a loud time last Thursday evening when they gave Mr. R. Campbell an old-fashioned charivari on the occasion of his recent marriage.

Storage of Vegetables for Winter Use

Winter storage of vegetables is an old question often discussed, but apparently not yet well understood. To store the crop seems a comparatively easy task, but to guard against heavy loss while in storage, is sometimes quite a problem even for the most experienced growers.

Some of the first and most important factors influencing the keeping of vegetables in storage are to see that the vegetables are free of disease, well grown, fully matured and free from injuries such as bruises caused by indifferent and careless handling at harvest time. If these important points are kept in mind and carefully attended to at the time of selecting the material for storage, much worry and subsequent loss in dollars and cents will be avoided by the grower later.

For the storage of such crops as beets, carrots, potatoes, cabbage, celery, parsnips and turnips, a properly constructed frost proof cellar should be available, with adequate ventilation to keep the temperature as constant as possible around 36 degrees F. at all times during the storage period. By no means should a storage cellar become excessively damp, because excessive moisture favors the development of many of the common diseases attacking vegetables in storage and more especially when in warm ill-ventilated cellars. Moderate-sized, slatted bins or crates should be used for the storage of roots and potatoes, while cabbage can be stored on slatted shelves or in bins. Celery is usually stored in the root cellar. The plants are stripped of all rough leaves and placed in an upright position on moist sand, more sand being placed around the roots. However where only small quantities of vegetables are to be stored for household use, and a basement is available, a compartment or room should be provided therein, of such construction as to exclude the heat from the furnace and with suitable vents in the wall to provide good ventilation. It is not advisable to store a great quantity of cabbage or turnips in the cellar of a dwelling house. A good earthen floor in the storage room is preferable to cement. When an earthen floor can be had in a well constructed vegetable room, it is seldom necessary to store the carrots, beets, parsnips and potatoes in sand, because as a rule, sufficient moisture will escape from the floor to keep the air moist enough to prevent the vegetables from withering up.

Onions require different conditions while in storage, to the other varieties of vegetables. A dry, cool, dark room is best suited for this crop, where the temperature can be kept around 34 deg. F. By no means should onions be stored in a cellar, except where it is possible to maintain a dry, cool atmosphere.

Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry, moderately warm room, where a temperature of 50 deg. F. can be maintained. Particularly careful handling is necessary at harvest time if this crop is to be kept for any length of time. Place the squash or pumpkins on shelves or on a table in a single layer.

Old Time Songs Have Gone, Along with Real Beer

Street Corner Sing Songs Seldom Heard Now.

When "something which could never happen" became a law by popular vote, back in 1916, and the flowing bowl ceased to flow, the dazed mourners slowly awoke to the fact that not only had their sole comfort passed out, but that several of the old customs and institutions had gone by the board as well.

Many of these were marked as small losses, but one sorely missed is the dead-and-gone street corner quartettes. When "it" could be had for much less than ten dollars a quart, every Saturday night saw groups of tipsy youths gathered beneath the sputtering blue light of the corner lamp and warbling maudlin sentiments far into the night, in a voice known as the whiskey tenor.

Where are those songsters now? Without the spirit which once bound them with a common tie, they remain peacefully at home, listening in on the radio or indulging in some like amusement.

Of course, when the singer passed, their songs went with them. Old favorites that looked as if they would live forever are now buried in the dust of recollection. "My Adeline" is heard no more. "Casey Jones", a song that was in popular favor for over a score of years has also departed. "Hill, hill, the gang's all here!" is putting up a game scrap, but it cannot be kept alive on grape juice. It was a song of a stronger age than ours. "There's a hole in the bottom of the sea," fine old post prohibition ditty, has degenerated and with modifications is used as a setting for a football yell by nearly every fresh water college on the continent.

It is only when the real old timers get together that the almost forgotten tunes are revived. Then they are heard again but not with the same spirit and pep that they had. The sweet strains of "O where, O where is my little dog gone?" "For it's always fair weather when good fellows get together;" "If I die don't bury me at all" and "The Duldge" are brought back to be sung on these rare occasions.

And what has happened to the instruments that supplied the accompaniment for the street organ choristers? The mouth organ once heard in every section of the city, seems to have fallen into disuse. There are plenty of them on the market, but the sale has dropped off. The concertina and accordion, once so popular, are now threatened with extinction. Even the old fiddle that hung in every barber shop has dropped out. The old tunes played by these instruments are still with us in synecopated form, but Way down in Dixie, Turkey in the Straw, Marching through Georgia, and the others composed in B.P. (before prohibition) were not made to be interpreted on the implements of jazz. No saxophone could give them with half the homely feeling imbued by the wheezy accordion.

Will the old songs ever be popular again? And will the street corner quartette ever come back? As Poe's raven was wont to remark when the occasion demanded, "Nevermore!"
