Our forefathers a generation ago, wore hard collars, burned hard wood, ate hard boiled eggs and did all kinds of hard jobs, but now this generation wears soft collars, burns soft coal, eats soft boiled eggs and looks for soft jobs.

A citizen several years in arrears for his paper who never had a good word to say for the Editor and who was always opposed to public improvement, was dying. "How do you feel?" asked the editor who was on hand to write the obituary. "All is bright before me," gasped the dying man. "I thought so," returned the editor, "you'll see the blaze in about ten minutes."

WHAT A CANDIDATE SHOULD BE

A farmer who is canvassed for his municipal vote has been measuring up in his mind the manner of men who would like to be nominated. A candidate for public office, says he, should first make a success of his private business, managing it in a creditable and not unduly greedy way. He should have earned the respect of his community by showing his ability to help in community affairs with modesty and tact, not feigning in neighborhood squabbles or attempting to "run the cat's paw" will take care not to be the cat's paw of any community wielder of a "big stick." He must be able to talk well; and sensibly, and know when to keep silent. Now then, candidates!

FREE PUBLICITY
(Meaford Mirror)

It has not been the practice in Meaford to extend to the Press, apparently, the courtesy of a complimentary ticket for admission to concerts, entertainments, etc., and yet an extended report is always appreciated. We do not propose to give this extension unless the desire for it is indicated by the presentation of complimentary ticket to give admission. Newspaper space is not our stock-in-trade, and we cannot see our way clear to spend our good money to get into a meeting in order to spend our equally good space (better in fact) to give publicity to it.

Best Christmas Wishes
From the Gorduroys and Cedars

We country people do appreciate folks and what they will do for us, but like most other people, we go not say so till they are dead. By way of breaking that poor rule, we wish a merry Christmas to everyone, to the otherwise unthanked benefactor, to the doctor who does not wait for better weather or to find out about our financial standing before he drives out to us in slush or storm; to the mailman who grins and bears it all the way round his route, sprinkling the otherwise lighted land with the light of Smiles and Stars; to the neighbor who must put us with us as neighbors whether he will or no; to the motorist who gives us half, or even quarter of the narrow road; to the merchant or grocer who stands patiently behind the counter listening to us audibly forgetting what we wanted and remarking meanwhile how dear his wares are; and to the editor of the local paper who compliments us on our birth, marriage and death, no matter what our friends say about these things, and who extends credit though no city publisher will. To these and to all other well-doing and unwearied, though unappreciated people, we wish a more than merry Christmas and a New Year of keeping right on in their good old way.

"COUNTRY KIN"

A MOTOR CROWDED CITY

Twenty five years ago the motor car was regarded as a curiosity. Not one was owned in Toronto. Today the world registration of motor vehicles exceeds 12,500,000. And Canada with a population of only 9,000,000 has more of them within her borders than any other country except United States or Great Britain.

The four leaders are:

- U. S. 10,148,822 Canada 469,210
- U. Kingdom 497,226 France 256,148

No other countries are even in the 100,000 class, though one province of Canada (Ontario) has over 200,000. Australia has over 81,000, Argentina 70,000, Germany 60,000, Italy 53,000 registered. Toronto has nearly 40,000 passenger cars alone, a registration exceeding that of many European countries.

It is evident from these figures that motor traffic in Toronto, and indeed in most other large cities of the continent, presents a problem which is unknown elsewhere. The streets were not designed to carry such a traffic. The danger to both pedestrians and motorists is increasing daily as the number of vehicles increases. Nor does twice the motor traffic mean merely twice the danger. It is like putting water into a quart measure. When there is a pint of liquid in it, a pint of room is still available. But if the pint of water is doubled, the available space is merely cut in half—it disappears altogether. It is that way with the streets. As an ever increasing stream of motors is poured into them, the room for pedestrians at hours of heaviest traffic becomes alarmingly inadequate. And the motorists themselves find it hard to keep out of each others' way.

The situation is monthly more serious and while the season is approaching at which many people "lay up" their cars, it is noted that the increasing popularity of the closed car decreases the number of motorists who refrain from driving in winter.

Miss Sillars read a well prepared paper on "The study of literature as a means of culture" which was much appreciated by all. Mrs. Bruce Deagel gave a few hints on inexpensive Xmas gifts. Mrs. Koepf and Miss Kathleen Sullivan supplied the musical part of the program. Mrs. Sullivan gave recipes for icing cakes. Then as we are about to lose one of our first members, Mrs. A. Campbell, we decided to show our appreciation of her past duties. Mrs. W. Robertson read the address. Mrs. Campbell, taken greatly by surprise, replied very appropriately. The address is as follows:

In view of your intention to leave us to take up residence in Elmhurst, we your friends of Dornoch Women's Institute have taken this opportunity to express to you in a slight way at least, our appreciation of your past work. We assure you that in severing your connection with us you will be greatly missed. We know you to be one of the first members of the Institute and we have always found you ready and willing to take an active part in anything that tended to the welfare of the Society. We are glad to know that in leaving us you are not going so far away but that one may hope to see you and meet you in the future. As a slight token of our esteem, we ask you to accept this Christmas gift and hope that you may have many years to enjoy them and may ever remind you of the warm place cherished in the hearts of your friends here this afternoon. Again we extend to you our best wishes for your happiness and welfare, also of Mr. Campbell and your family, and assure you that you will always have a warm welcome in any of our homes. Signed on behalf of the Dornoch Women's Institute.
