FIRST TRANSCONTINENTAL TRAIN

THIRTY-FIVE years ago the first Canadian Pacific engine No. 374, which drew the first train into Vancouver, B.C., 35 years ago. The train, sorted her way down the forbidding defiles of the Fraser, and along the densely wooded shores of the Burrard Inlet, pulled up at the terminus with a hissing of the old air brakes amid the blare of brass bands and shouts of acclaim from the assembled citizens of Vancouver. That day, a memorable one in the history of Canada, will always be one of Vancouver's most important anniversaries. In 1897, the journey from Montreal to Vancouver, which now takes but four days, consumed a full week. Queen's weather ushered in the day long looked for by the Vancouverites—the blending of the Occident and the Orient, states a despatch sent that day from the Coast. "When the train reached Vancouver carrying the officers of the road and your special correspondent, it was greeted with ringing cheers in every direction. Steamers floated on the breeze across the track at different points, while the ships and boats in the harbor were resplendent with variegated colors. At the railway wharf it seemed as if all Vancouver had congregated, and a mighty shout went up as the train thundered into the station under a double archway of fir. "There were many eastern travelers who proudly boasted that they were the first to come through from Montreal. The Vancouver City band struck up "See the conquering hero come" in good time, as Mayor McLean mounted the platform and proposed three cheers for the Canadian Pacific Railway and its popular local manager, Mr. Abbott, who made a grateful acknowledgment. The mayor then read a complimentary address to Mr. Abbott, who replied in pleasant and suitable terms and made an appropriate reference to the able assistance which he had received from William Downie, assistant superintendent; W. H. Armstrong, superintendent of construction, and C. E. Brown, general freight agent."

U. F. O. Labor Meeting in Hanover

A joint meeting of the Allan Park Luncheon, Carlisle and Hanover Clubs of the U. F. O. was held in Hanover last Friday night, when upwards of 400 people of the Town of Hanover and the surrounding vicinity, assembled and spent a pleasant and profitable evening. The speakers of the evening were, Dr. Leeson, M.P.P., Mr. Charlotte, representing Labor; Miss A. C. McPhail, M. P., and W. J. Amos, President of the United Farmers of Ontario. After a few well rendered selections by Hanover orchestra, on motion—G. M. Leeson, M. P. P., was duly elected to occupy the chair. Mr. Leeson in a few well chosen remarks, gave a brief outline of some of the doings of the Provincial House during the last session, one of which was concerning our local stone quarry. The next speaker called upon was Mr. Charlotte and here it is worthy of note how a man that has only been a few years in our country, not even knowing our language when he came here, to see the grasp that he has on public questions such as Labor and other things, that would put many of our natural born subjects in the background, showing that he must be a reader of no mean ability. This address was followed by more music from the local orchestra. Miss Agnes MacPhail of the Federal House was the next speaker and it seems this is a sort of precedent in South East Grey to have our M. P. come back after only one year and give an account of her stewardship. But after all, who are our M. P.s? Are they not only the representatives of the people and is it not better to come around often and tell us what they have done and tried to do and keep in touch with the people and their requirements—especially at a time like this when everything is quiet, no election in sight and no axe to grind. Isn't it much better to go this now than wait till the eve of an election and then come round and tell us how well they like us and what good fellows we have been for the last 5 years. Miss McPhail then, in an able and fearless way, gave an account of every vote that she cast in the House, and one that she didn't cast as well, and her reasons and although all could not see that very much had been done, yet all had to admit without exception that she certainly had the courage to stand out for what she conscientiously thought was right and in the interest of South-East Grey and the Dominion at large, no matter from what source it came and on different occasions voted against her leader. After all is said and done, what do we send our member down to Ottawa for. Is it to fall in line when the party whip is cracked no matter what the issue may be, or is it to stand out courageously and support what they believe is to the best interests of their people and this much boasted and loved Dominion of ours, of which we should all feel proud? Surely the latter.

The last speaker, Mr. Amos, Pres. of the U. F. O., then gave a very clear cut and forceful address, proving that he was the right man in the right place. After endorsing and backing up many of the statements that Miss McPhail had made, closed with an able appeal for the farmers to support their own paper. The meeting was then closed in the usual way by a hearty vote of thankful appreciation moved by A. Derby and seconded by Jno Whiteford, to all those who so ably and willingly took part in the program, not forgetting the local orchestra, who then led in the singing of the National Anthem. Just here, we might drop a suggestion to the Board of Trade? What would be the matter with having meetings of this kind more often, not necessary of a political or commercial nature, but on any subject they might choose, then get in touch with a speaker on that subject and advise the date. Walkerton has them? Why Mrs. Hanover? We believe that such a course would create a more friendly feeling between the urban and the rural people, where we could meet together and get acquainted and understand each other better. We must co-operate together if we want to be successful. —Com.

Everybody's Business

The Ford Motor Company has made a genuine attempt to give the public automobile transportation at a price within the reach of all. It has carried out the ideals of the inventor of the Ford Car, Henry Ford, and has placed the Ford Motor Company in the position of performing a public service to the people of Canada.

How the Present Low Price of Ford Cars Can Be Maintained in 1923 We are absolutely frank with the public when we say that the present low prices are not justified by present production but only by the production it is hoped will result from them.

Everybody's Business The Ford Car is everybody's Car—the Ford business is everybody's business. You and your neighbor, and his neighbor are all vitally affected by the price of Ford Cars.
