With the Press Party to the Maritime Provinces

What the British Empire Steel Company means to Cape Breton... We recall when leaving Halifax on our Press special, on the evening of July 19th, that it was the warmest day of our Maritime trip and one was loath to enter a hot coach.

Breakfast the next morning in the dining car was hard to digest in spite of its appetizing tendencies, for on each side of the coach were to be seen wonderful stretches of land and water. So close in fact was the water to the rails, that you were led to wonder if we were about to be engulfed.

Dras d'or Lakes skirt the track the greater distance to that city. They are claimed by those that know, to be the nearest approach to the famous English Lake District, made famous in Wordsworth's writings.

Under the term "The Sydneys"—Sydney, North Sydney and Sydney Mines are included. To understand their location, one must know something of the vast harbour in which the ships lying at anchor were gaily decked in pennants and streamers in honor of our visit.

leaving the daily press to air the pros and cons of the striking faction, as to attempt to give a detailed statement of the trouble would amount to fill the Review columns.

But great and all as it was, we became foot-weary, eye-wearied and ear-wearied. The noise in the various departments was terrific and in many cases impossible to hear the guide's explanations.

Our lot was to be one of the party taken to the home of D. H. McLaughlin, Vice Pres. of the Steel Corporation, and despite the fact that the day was a beset party, were most kindly and hospitably entertained until the hour for luncheon.

This was at 1 p.m. and held in King's Hall Club Room, over 300 attending. The affair was in charge of the local I.O.D.E. branch and it only serves to show the national spirit of the Order of Daughters of the Empire, that here in practically the most eastern section of Canada, as a unit for patriotic motives. One H. Bischoff, Gen. Supt. of the Co. acted as toastmaster, and we think we never listened to a better one. He had the after-dinner speaking art down to a nicety and made things go with that punch that is so necessary in a crowd of our dimensions.

The chief speaker at this splendid luncheon was F. W. Gray, assistant to Vice Pres. McDougall, who declared that Canada had a rich heritage in its coal fields, but one of serious limitations, which sooner or later might be the eastern provinces into annexation to the U. States.

Mr. Gray pointed out that for 1000 miles, from the Nova Scotia coal field to the Alberta border, there are no coal mines and coal will never be found. For 800 miles to the south in the Pennsylvania fields there is no coal. Along the Pennsylvania coast, exclusive of Vancouver Id., no brown coal in Chile.

6,000 men, mostly miners, declared Mr Gray, enlisted for service at the front, with the result that today the mines are short of experienced miners. The gap cannot be filled he said, until a new generation arises.

"We are making technical history in our unique mining methods in N. Scotia," declared Mr Gray in closing.

Canadian farmers who have earned the capital invested in the farms out of the in farming numbered in the sands. These successful farmer have paid off the mortgages, stocked their barns, bought the machinery, made good living and brought up their families. It meant hard work, but today they are independent.

Money in Milk. In recent years, on the prairie, oats brought from 70c to 90c, while barley used to have brought as high as 1.00. Farmers marketing in this way lower the price of their grain, while at the same time their roughage, other products, are worth more money. The cattle embargo is a worth more money.
