

STORIES OF WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE

No Wasted Words.

Dr. Abernethy, the famous surgeon, was a man of few words, but he once met his match—in a woman. She called at his surgery in Edinburgh and showed him a hand badly inflamed and swollen. The following dialogue, opened by the doctor, took place:

"Burn?"

"Bruise."

"The next day the woman called again, and the dialogue was as follows:

"Better?"

"Worse."

"More poultice."

Two days later the woman made another call, and this conversation occurred:

"Better?"

"Well, Feet?"

"Nothing," exclaimed the doctor. "Most sensible woman I ever met."

Famous Baldwins.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin brings a new name to British politics. It is a remarkable fact that we have to go back more than eight hundred years to find a bearer of the name who rose to greatness.

The last Baldwin "boom" was in the twelfth century, an epoch when to live was to fight, when even priests wore armor beneath their vestments.

Such a man was Archbishop Baldwin, who stamped England with the wily Girouard, preaching the Crusades. It was he who crowned Coueur de Lion in 1189, and finally buckled on his own armor and himself set sail for the Holy Land.

No fewer than five Baldwins were kings of Jerusalem between 1098 and 1187—an interesting reflection in view of the fact that the new Premier may be called upon to deal with the evacuation of British troops from Palestine!

History had no use for Baldwins for the next six centuries. Presumably they had been emigrating, for they next pop up across the Atlantic—this time in the role of statesmen.

Abraham Baldwin, born in 1754, was a leading figure in the American Revolution and the first sign of new life will be noticed in your appetite. You will be hungry by meal time. As the blood becomes enriched it feeds and soothes the irritated nerves, sleep becomes sounder, your worries become less, your work lighter. These are some of the things that these tonic pills do. Try them for any trouble caused by thin blood.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Pictureque India.

India is a continent rather than a country, and its population is racially more diverse than that of Europe. The racial differences, says Mr. Harold Cox, are apparent at once to the least experienced eye. No one could confuse the sturdy little smiling Gurkha, whose head barely reaches to the shoulder of an English soldier, with the tall, thin Sikh or with the fierce Pathan; nor could he confuse the proud Rajput with the somewhat servile Bengali. There are a few of the more obvious racial types. There are many other distinct races, much further removed from one another than the Englishman is from the Spaniard or than the Frenchman is from the German.

There are also distinctions of social habit. Take, for example, the matter of dress. Over the greater part of Europe as over the greater part of North America, you will find everyone, rich or poor, wearing the same general kind of clothing. In India you can seldom walk a few yards without meeting people whose dress is absolutely different from their neighbors'. You may meet, say, a dignified Mohammedan gentleman more than amply clad in voluminous garments; then a Bengali government clerk wearing a garment somewhat like a woman's skirt and called a dhoti; then a Parsi shopkeeper with his peculiar head-dress rather suggestive of that of the ancient Jews; and then a coolie wearing nothing at all from head to foot except a narrow lion cloth. A few yards further on you may meet a hold beggar; his long hair is hanging down his shoulders and is matted with lime; his whole body is smeared with mud and he is lobbing out his begging bowl and asking for alms in the name of religion.

It is the same way with the women. Some wear saris with a tiny bodice across the chest leaving the stomach quite bare; some wear trousers tight round the calves and baggy round the hips; some again wear a single garment about thirty yards long, which is ingeniously twisted between and round the legs so as to convey the impression of a pair of baggy knickerbockers and then is carried up across the shoulders and over the head and so arranged that it can be used as a veil.

Do you have a goal in sight, keep your eye on it, and make your assets, equipment and helpers assist you in reaching that goal?

Do you realize that the man who sat on the log and waited for sweat as a preliminary to work, was entirely outdistanced by the man who hustled after the job and got up sweat-dogging it?

Canada's Great Wilderness Park

Jasper National Park Rapidly Becoming One of Foremost Holiday Resorts in Canadian Rockies.

Jasper National Park is rapidly coming into its own as one of the foremost tourist resorts in the Canadian Rockies. Although it was set aside in 1907 and is the largest of the great playgrounds administered by the Government of Canada, the lack of adequate accommodation for visitors, until last year, has prevented its use on the part of the public in proportion to its importance. Since its reservation the National Parks' authorities have steadily carried on development work in the construction of roads and trails to the scenic points of greatest attraction and it now possesses 652 miles of roads and trails. Two years ago the Canadian National Railways erected the first hotel—Jasper Park Lodge—on the shores of beautiful Lac Beauvert. This is a bungalow camp composed of a central building surrounded by a group of rustic chalets which serve as sleeping quarters. The immense popularity of this accommodation last year resulted in extensions this season which will provide for 250 guests and plans are being made for similar chalets in Tonquin valley and at Maligne Lake.

Jasper Park's Great Expanse.

Jasper Park, with its great area of 4,490 square miles, is situated in northern Alberta on the main line of the Canadian National Railways, about 200 miles west of Edmonton. The official headquarters of the park is situated in Jasper, the quaint little mountain town on the shores of the Athabaska River. The Parks' authorities have designed a town plan for Jasper in order that its future growth may be kept in harmony with the beautiful environment, and this plan will form the basis of all future developments.

A golf course is being laid out east of Lac Beauvert and adjacent to the Lodge by the Canadian National Parks Branch. The Mount Edith Cavell highway, which takes its name from the great peak, 11,033 feet high, named in memory of the gallant British nurse, has been completed to within five miles of its terminus. Striking and beautiful panoramas are afforded by vantage points scattered all along this new highway. An important new trail has been opened up from what is known as Sunwapa cabin on the Sunwapa branch of the Athabaska River over Pokoktan pass and down to Banje Lake. This striking link up a series of trails covering a distance of over 300 miles, constituting probably the longest trail in any of the national parks.

The plans for the present season include the building of a new road along the Athabaska, from Jasper to a point two miles east of the Snaring River. The project when completed will offer a delightful scenic drive from Jasper affording wonderful views of the wide Athabaska valley and the noble peaks on each side.

Artificial Wood.

A Norwegian inventor has, after many years of experiment, discovered a method of making artificial wood. A mixture consisting of sawdust, together with chalk and some chemicals, is subjected to heavy pressure, and the result is a substance possessing all the qualities of timber.

Its specific gravity is the same as that of genuine wood, its hardness the same as that of oak. It can be planed, sawed, bored, nailed, painted, stained, or polished, and submitted to every process of carpentry or manufacture to which real wood is subjected.

It will not deteriorate in water, and, on account of the chemicals it contains, is impervious to rot. Moreover, it only burns at a temperature very much higher than that at which real wood catches fire.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera Infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months, and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolutely safe medicine, being guaranteed by a government analyst to contain no opiates or narcotics or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Speed of Thought.

Until recently it was generally considered that a thought occurred with the speed of lightning. But modern methods of measurement have shown that the speed of thought is not by any means exceptional.

The time taken for a nervous impulse to travel from the elbow to the brain and thence to the wrist proved that it did so at about 180ft. a second.

Similarly a frog thinks at the rate of about 90ft. a second, and it takes two seconds for a whale 150ft. long to realize that he has been harpooned in the tail and to lash out with it.

In some peculiar way, however, the speed of thought seems to depend upon the temperature of the body. If a man's body is warm he is able to think quicker than if he is cold; and if his nerves are frozen they will not conduct impulses at all.

A frog at seventeen degrees will think only half as quickly as another at thirty-five, while if the frog be warmed to the temperature of a man the animal will think equally as quickly.

A cold-blooded creature like the fresh-water mussel thinks only at about two and a half inches a second. One of the cuttlefishes thinks at the rate of three feet a second in winter and the octopus in summer three to five times as quickly.

Many drugs, as well as cold, will decrease the speed of thought—chloroform obviously, and ether and alcohol less obviously.

The ability to think quickly seems to vary, too, with temperament. A melancholic or lethargic man thinks more slowly than a choleric individual. In all cases, however, it is practically impossible to tire out the nerves. They will always think even though the brain, which receives the impulses, may be too tired to deal with them.

Singer and Shepherd.

When Mme. Emma Calve, the great singer, is at home she lives in an ancient castle perched on a rocky mountain side in her native province of Aveyron, in the south of France. It is the castle of Cabrières, and it was built in the year 1050. A natural platform of rock juts out in front of it like the prow of a ship, and there the singer, who especially loves the ancient folk songs of her country, often stands answering the songs of the shepherds who watch their sheep on the distant uplands.

One day, however, she sang before a shepherd on the farther side of the mountain, a boy of sixteen who was guiding her with a party of guests from the chateau through the famous grotto of Dargilan, a labyrinthine succession of caverns.

We came at last, Madame Calve relates, in her recent autobiography, to a tremendous cave, its vast, mysterious depth fascinated me. I began to sing. The boy started and turned toward me. "Oh!" he exclaimed. "How lovely! If the mistress could hear you, she would certainly give you a job. You could come every day and sing for the tourists. I am sure she would pay you much money for it."

"How much do you think she would pay me?" I asked.

"Well, now," he said judiciously, screwing up his brow and scratching his head, "it's hard to say. I think she might go as high as five francs a day. It would be good business."

"I'll think it over," I answered. "It's very kind of you to give me the tip. But don't you know me? I live over the way at Cabrières."

"No, madame; I have never been so far as that. Our church is up there on the plateau, and that is as far as I have ever traveled."

A year later I was again visiting the grotto. The boy was still there. He recognized me and came toward me, twisting his cap in his hands. "Good morning, madame," he mumbled. "I guess you had a good laugh at me last year."

"What do you mean," I asked. "Why should I laugh at you?"

"I was told afterwards who you were," he answered. "A nice kind of fool you must have thought me with my five francs a day! They tell me that in the Americas you don't have to do more than yawn to earn eight pairs of oxen!"

England to Plant Millions of Fish in North Sea.

The Dogger Bank is to be re-planted, announces the English press, including in its ancient and honorable history for punning. Since the famous North Sea fishing grounds were disturbed by the bombardments and mine explosions of the war, only half-sized catches have rewarded the efforts of trawlers. To remedy the shortage eight million plaice the most remarkable of fish, will be transported from continental fishing grounds, where the breed is best.

A system of crossed fishing grounds for the Dogger Bank, such as exist in all English rivers, also is promised, with "No Fishing" signs theoretically posted around a belt of water 300 miles long off the Dutch and Danish coasts. Steam trawlers and motor vessels of more than 50-horsepower will not be allowed within that area.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any lady who is in need with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ont.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

Mine Alarm

Often a "creep" or a movement of the roof in a mine precedes a cavern. An electric alarm which will give warning is the subject of a patent issued to an American inventor. A pair of pipes are arranged upon a tripod. The upper pipe is provided with forks at the top which are adjusted against the roof. This pipe slides into a second pipe and rests against a spring. Contacts are arranged in an ingenious way so to close on the two wires of an electric circuit, and bells are rung if the roof moves after the device is set.
