Durham Apiarist, H. D. McIntyre, Wins Honors in London, England

It is some distinction for this province and this town, and more particulary for a citizen of Durham, to win first prize for honey exhibit at the Colonial Dairy Show held from Oct. 23 to 28, in London, England, in competition with the whole British Empire. Such an honor fell to H. D. McIntyre, Durham's well known apiarhe receiving the gratifying news this week from the Ontario Department of Agriculture. He is not certain what the actual first prize is, but presumably a suitably-inscribed bronze or gold medal.

This week, Rev. E. It is not known as yet whether Mr. Cameron will accept the call, but the letter has been forwarded on to him in the Peace River District, where at present he is.
